All-Out Soviet Aid Claimed By Egyptians

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Egypt says it has been offered "unlimited" military and political support by the Soviet Union in a joint struggle to "isolate" the United States and Israel.

The claim was in a report by Vice President Ali Sabry that dealt with the talks the Russians and Egyptians held Dec. 20-27 in Moscow. Quotes from the report were published today in the semi-official Cairo newspaper Al Ahram.

Al Ahram said the Kremlin expressed "full understanding" of Egypt's military needs and said it would help Cairo confront "technological advances," meaning electronic weapons systems provided to Israel by the United States.

The report said the Soviet leaders "expounded at length their assessment of the conflict in the Middle East and its place in the world strategy of the Soviet Union" and "emphasized the necessity of Egypt's victory in the current struggle with America and Israel."

Tough Stand

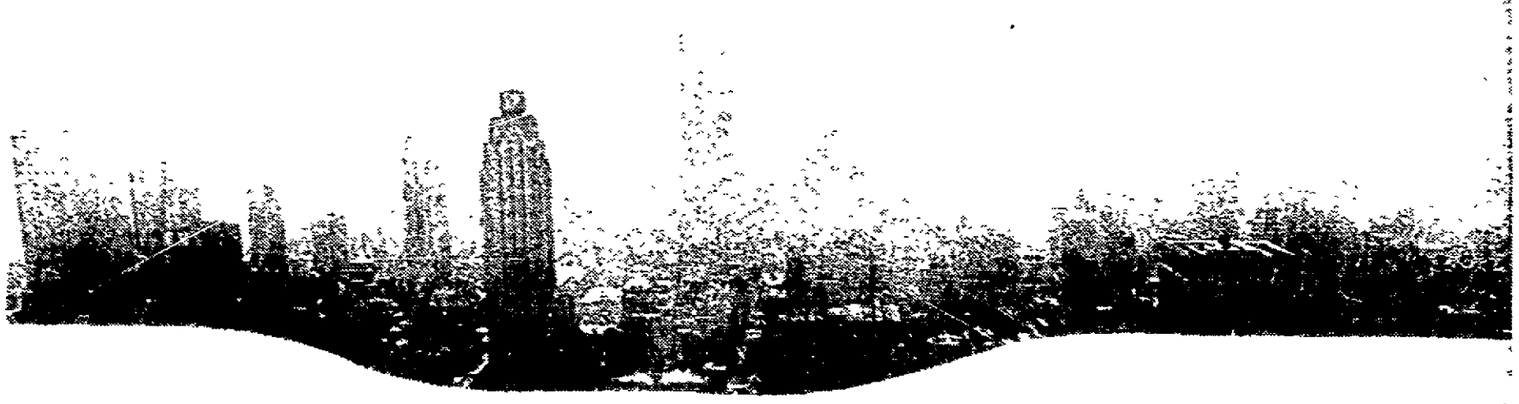

The Cairo press also indicated that Egypt would take a tough stand at the Arab-Israeli peace talks expected to resume soon in New York under U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring.

Al Ahram rejected Israel's stand that peace must come to the Middle East before any timetable is discussed for the withdrawal of Israeli forces from Arab territories occupied in the 1967 six-day war. Egypt has been demanding such a timetable as a precondition for extending the current Middle East cease-fire, which expires Feb. 5.

"This is only a re-statement of Israel's terms for a contractual agreement with the Arabs," Al Ahram said. "Such Israeli maneuvering will only further complicate the situation, placing responsibility for an explosion—which could occur very soon—squarely on America and Israel."

Talks Delegate

East Digs Out From Giant Snowstorm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Most traffic was moving on the region again early today on the Northeast's highways, railroads and air lanes after a 12-hour storm dumped up to two feet of snow across a broad area from Virginia to Vermont, moved out to sea Friday evening, leaving snowplows busy at work, many rural roads still impassable, and New Year's Day events postponed or canceled.

The District of Columbia area had its heaviest snowfall in nearly four years, with eight inches closing National Airport and 15 inches hampering operations at Dulles.

Washington snow removal crews cleared main arteries by Friday, when a snow emergency order was lifted.

Rural Roads

Half the rural roads in the Philadelphia area, blocked by heavy drifting, remained closed early today. But railroads in Pennsylvania and New Jersey were back to normal after frozen switches had caused delays. The city's international airport reopened after a 3½-hour shutdown.

Philadelphia street crews worked through the night to clear the parade route for the 71st annual Mummers Parade, postponed from Friday.

State authorities in Maryland reported most main roads in good condition but many rural routes uncleared. Much of the snow was expected to melt today with temperatures forecast in the 40s.

"We're just sitting tight until they plow us out," reported one resident of Virginia, where many roads remained impassable in mountain regions after more than 20 inches of snow.

South Vietnamese To Aid Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government announced today that it has agreed to provide armed escort for tanker ships and trucks carrying petroleum supplies to the capital of Cambodia critically short of fuel because enemy troops have blocked its lifeline to the sea.

A spokesman said the South Vietnamese Interior Ministry had decided to "ease all procedures" apparently meaning that the Cambodians will not be charged a fee for the escort service from Kompong Som to Phnom Penh.

Phnom Penh has been cut off from Kompong Som, Cambodia's only deep-water port and the site of a big oil refinery, since Nov. 20, when Communist-led troops seized a mountain pass on Highway 4.

Moving Petroleum

Plans for moving petroleum and other vital supplies by alternate routes reportedly have been complicated by South Vietnamese demands for payment for the escort service.

The spokesman said the new agreement means that Cambodia will be able to buy petroleum products from oil companies in South Vietnam and bring them into Phnom Penh by tankers up the Mekong River.

Oil tank trucks with Cambodian markings and license plates and driven by Cambodians have been moving between Saigon and Phnom Penh for at least three days in convoys of a dozen or more.

The spokesman said he did not know how much gasoline and oil was being provided for the Cambodians.

In battle action today, North and South Vietnamese forces fought for 10 hours inside Vietnam's demilitarized zone as the Viet Cong's New Year cease-fire entered its final hours.

Early reports said more than a battalion of South Vietnamese troops were involved in the fighting, but Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen reported later from Da Nang that the only casualties reported were five government soldiers wounded when their armored vehicle struck a mine.

Informants said the battle began when a South Vietnamese patrol clashed with a company of North Vietnamese troops just south of the DMZ and pursued it across the boundary.

The South Vietnamese later received reinforcements, including troops in armored personnel carriers. Bad weather hampered air support.

Rocket Fire

The South Vietnamese were hit by mortar and rocket fire pulled out of the DMZ late this afternoon.

Meanwhile, unofficial figures showed at least 12 Americans killed and 49 wounded since the 72-hour Viet Cong cease-fire began Thursday morning. South Vietnamese casualties were listed as 32 men killed and 93 wounded.

Allied spokesmen said at least 53 enemy troops had been killed during the period, 21 by American fire and 32 by the South Vietnamese.

Cease - Fire

The Americans and South Vietnamese did not observe the Viet Cong cease - fire but declared their own 24-hour truce beginning at 6 p.m. Thursday. The allied cease-fire was one of the quietest ever, with one American and nine South Vietnamese reported killed and 10 Americans and 52 South Vietnamese reported wounded.

Twenty-five enemy soldiers were reported killed and two captured over the 24 hours.

A year ago, the allies' 24-hour New Year's truce period saw six Americans and 25 South Vietnamese killed and 11 Americans and 74 South Vietnamese wounded.

Community Relations Effort

Superpolice Teams Start Brooklyn Experiment

NEW YORK (AP) — Sixteen hand-picked patrolmen, under a sergeant dubbed the "Little Police Chief," have gone into action as the first of the new "neighborhood police teams," an effort to improve police-community relations.

In the closely watched trial program the 16 "super cops" made their first patrols Friday in the 77th Precinct, a 12-block area of Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant section.

The program's major aim, police say, is to improve community relations by giving men on the beat greater authority to help not only the victims of crime but anyone needing assistance.

"There are some groups who are bitter toward police," said Sgt. William Ambrose, 46, a police veteran of 26 years who heads the 16-man team. "I see this as an opportunity to help lessen the hostility between the police and the community."

Ambrose, bearing the title "Little Police Chief" in his new assignment, gave one example Friday of how the new program works.

Riding in a patrol car in the early morning, Ambrose was hailed by a woman who said she needed a prescription filled but couldn't find a pharmacy that was open on New Year's Day.

The sergeant drove her to the nearest pharmacy about a mile away and outside the borders of the 77th Precinct, then returned her home.

All policemen, except for Ambrose team, are under orders not to carry civilians in police cars and none are expected to leave their precincts unless ordered out in an emergency by their superiors.

The Question

"'How can I help?' is the question," said Ambrose. "not 'There's nothing I can do.'"

Like his men, Ambrose has new authority not usually enjoyed by most sergeants on the city's 30,000-man police force.

It is up to him alone to decide what shifts his men will work and what shift he himself will take. Even when he is off-duty, problems in his sector will be referred directly to him to be resolved.

The 16 men working with Ambrose were all volunteers, selected from nearly 40 officers who asked for the assignment. Eight are black and eight white.

"It's a new concept and we think it's a good one," said police Lt. Edward Smith at precinct headquarters. "We all would like to get a little closer to the people."

Williams Resigns To Aid Successor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., quietly resigned from the Senate effective with the new year, to give his successor, William V. Roth Jr., the edge in seniority over other newly elected senators.

A spokesman said Roth, a Republican now serving in the House, planned to be sworn in as a senator at 11 a.m. EST, when the Senate meets for its final session of the 91st Congress.

New York Policemen help ambulance workers remove a sick woman from a building as part of their program to help improve community relations.

11 Slain in Detroit During Opening Hours of New Year

DETROIT (AP) — Six persons, including a 7-year-old boy, were slain in Detroit, five by gunshot and other by strangulation, on the first day of the new year.

During the first nine hours of 1971, six persons, including a 7-year-old boy, were slain in the city of Detroit. There were only two such deaths on New Year's Day a year ago — a year when a record 550 homicides were reported.

Seven-year-old James Simmons Jr. was hit in the face by a stray bullet Friday morning as he stood with his parents on the porch of a friend's house, police said. They said they did not know where the bullet came from.

A second victim, Innocencio C. Rodriquez, 58, was shot by a Detroit policeman who said he was between Rodriquez and another man, who was later held for attempted murder.

Friends found the body of Harold Stinnis, 41, spreadeagled and tied to his bed. A pillow case covered his brutally beaten face, police said, and an electric cord was wrapped around his neck.

Police said Stinnis had a record of narcotics involvement and theorized that he was killed for revenge.

The body of a fourth victim, Michael Brown, 20, was found by police in a vacant lot with a gunshot wound in his lower abdomen. Brown reportedly had earlier been involved in a quarrel and gunfight at his home.

Police said George R. Webb, 31, was shot to death during a brawl at a New Year's Eve party, where four others were wounded.

Nixon Acts on 66 Measures

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a snowy holiday combining football and business, President Nixon has signed a flurry of major bills passed in the closing days of the 91st Congress.

Nixon spent New Year's Day with members of his family and a group of aides at the snow-covered presidential retreat at Camp David, Md. He is expected to return to Washington Sunday.

Nixon acted on 66 bills—a record for him.

He signed a housing bill containing $2.9 billion and provisions for a national urban-growth policy.

The new law, for the first time, provides government insurance against crime in high-risk city areas and requires the president to make recommendations to Congress for setting urban-growth policy.

Most of the money will be used to rebuild blighted city areas, help the poor buy and rent homes, assist in development of new communities and increase public-housing subsidies.

Other major holiday signings by Nixon included new laws

—Requiring automobile manufacturers to eliminate 90 per cent of harmful exhausts by Jan. 1, 1975. The law allows a one-year extension if manufacturers can prove they don't have the capability of producing a virtually pollution-free engine by the deadline.

—Extending for two years the 7 per cent excise tax on new cars and the 10 per cent levy on telephone calls. The law, expected to bring in $4 billion over a two-year period, also speeds up collection of estate taxes.

—Funding construction of the interstate highway system through 1976, at a cost of $9.7 billion. The law provides $1.1 billion for primary and secondary roads.

—Appropriating $2.5 billion in foreign aid, including $250 million for foreign sales of surplus arms.

—Allowing the Federal Reserve Board to decide whether corporations whose holdings include one bank should be required to divest the banks.

Cold Weather Making Return

Fox Cities — Partly cloudy and colder tonight with the low around 10. Cloudy Sunday with a chance of snow, high in the Northern Winds 5-10 m.p.h. tonight and Sunday. Precipitation probabilities are 10 per cent tonight and 40 per cent Sunday.

Appleton — Observations at 9:30 a.m. for the preceding 24 hours: High 34, low 18. Barometer 30.05 and rising. Dew point 19 degrees. Relative humidity 86 per cent. Winds south-southwest at 6-16 m.p.h. There was .05 inch of melted snow.

Sunset today at 4:26 p.m. Sunrise tomorrow at 7:29 a.m. Moonset tonight at 11:06 p.m.

Try Distance Test With Blindfold, Ruler, Clothespins

BY CAPPY DICK

Today's fun-project for boys and girls is a stunt that is fun to stage with family or friends. It requires a blindfold, which can be a large handkerchief or a napkin, a 12-inch ruler and three spring-type clothespins.

The stunt is a test of each player's sense of distance.

One by one the players are blindfolded, handed the ruler and the three clothespins and instructed to place the clothespins on three certain inch marks of the ruler, such as the 6, 9 and 11-inch marks.

Of course, any inch marks the director of the game chooses to specify may be used.

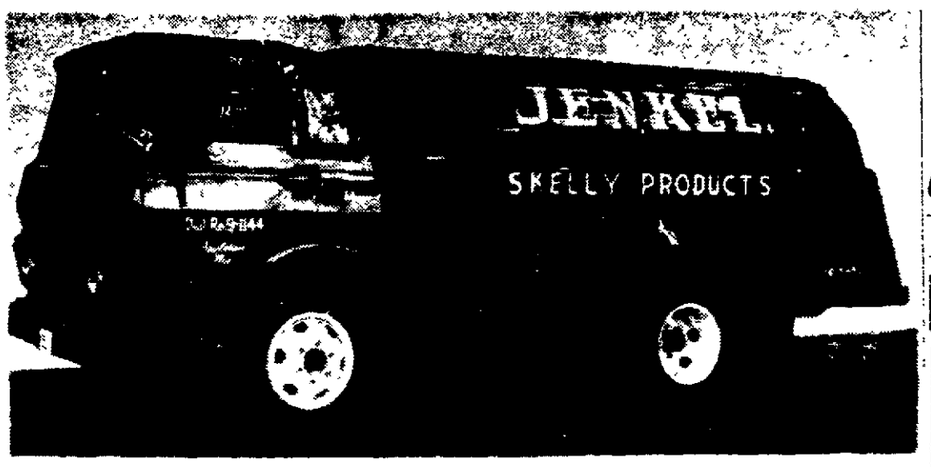

Sense of Distance

There is no winner or loser. It's just a test that is fun and good practice. The players may be tested again and again until all the participants become so expert they simply can't fail to be accurate.

Monday: Lots more good fun for every boy and girl.

Pregnancy, Pill Can Leave Lasting Mark

BY G. C. THOSTESON, M. D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson. I gave birth 21 months ago. My pregnancy left me with a brown spot between my nose and lip. It is very unattracuve and looks like dirt. Makeup does not cover it. Is there a cream that will cause it to fade away? — S. S.

This probably is chloasma, or the "mask of pregnancy," which sometimes occurs. It may take more than 21 months to fade or it may be permanent — it is more usual for it to fade, though.

One thing you didn't tell me — are you, by any chance, now on birth control pills? Using "the pill" can make the mark remain. Indeed, since the pill creates a condition similar to actual pregnancy, this can cause such marks even when there is no actual pregnancy. So if you are using the pills, switch to some other contraceptive method.

Temporarily (or even for long-term use) there are cosmetics designed to conceal such blemishes. One I am familiar with is called Covermark, but your cosmetic dealer probably has others.

There is no cream to make the mark fade, but a dermatologist may be able to speed matters up for you.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am on a grapefruit diet which includes 4 ounces every meal. Would drinking this amount of grapefruit juice be harmful even after I am off my diet? — T. Y.

Most likely not, but I suspect you may eventually get pretty tired of it.

I assume that it's a reducing diet. If you want to know why I think other types of reducing diets make much more sense and are better for you, then send 35 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope for my booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing." You'll learn some things you never knew about effective reducing — and how to stay reduced after you finish with the diet.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you comment on the use of nicotinic acid? I've heard it is used for ear disturbances, to promote circulation. Could you be more specific? — Mrs. M. S.

It is used for some ear disturbances, and for problems elsewhere in the body when trouble is resulting from lack of enough circulation.

I don't know how specific you mean me to be, but nicotine acid (not to be confused with nicotine, which is entirely different and behaves oppositely) is a potent blood vessel dilator.

Dilate the blood vessels and more blood can flow. It may be used in connection with circulatory deficiencies of ear, eye, brain, or the extremities.

It takes effect quite promptly. The patient feels a generalized flushing and sense of warmth as the medication is absorbed.

This flushing, or blushing, is momentary, but is annoying to some. Others don't mind it. The blushing tends to subside as one continues using the drug.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have noticed that one breast is larger than the other. Is there any reason to be concerned, and will this condition eventually correct itself? I am 16. — Miss H. G.

This is not especially unusual and is not reason for concern. It isn't likely to correct itself, but it does no harm except that you may want to use a padded bra if the difference in size is noticeable.

Even though the special SK-12 costs you nothing extra, it can keep your entire fuel system free of the harmful formation of rust, gum, sludge that cause most sudden furnace failures.

Since the fuel pipe in your furnace ends in an opening no bigger than a pin point, even a tiny particle of sludge or gum can clog your furnace burner. With SK-12 in Skelly Furnace Oil, you can prevent most cases of sudden stoppage due to a clogged nozzle, filter screen or fuel line.

You can obtain Skelly Furnace Oil, with SK-12 additive from the Jenkel Oil Co. 1201 N. Badger Ave. Phone number of the firm is 739-1144. Emergency service in case you run out of oil — may be obtained by calling 722-9584.

A good furnace deserves a good fuel to operate at peak efficiency, no matter how low the temperature drops. Call Jenkel Oil for the best. (Adv.)

Graduate School At UW in Top 10

MADISON (AP)—The University of Wisconsin reported Thursday that a nationwide study shows that the school's graduate faculty continued to improve in the last five years and ranks among the top 10.

The university said the conclusions came from a study made by the American Council on Education, based in Washington.

The new quality rating covers 36 basic departments. Of the 36, the Madison campus graduate faculty was rated distinguished or strong in 30, good or adequate in six.

In the comparative count of distinguished or strong departments, Wisconsin tied for fourth. Yale, Columbia and Chicago rated ahead were University of California-Berkeley, the University of Michigan and Harvard.

Infant Follows Dad As New Year's Baby

RENO, NEV. (AP) — The first New Year baby in Reno was 6-pound 15½-ounce Danny Leon Jackson Jr., whose father was also born on New Year's Day 22 years ago.

Danny Jr., was born in the Washoe Medical Center here and his father was born in Poteau, Okla.

The 19-year-old mother said, "My husband was teasing me last night about how, if the child was born today, I'd only have to bake one birthday cake."

Do Mental Accounting As the Old Year Ends

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — As the old year wanes and the new year looms, now is as good a time as any to take mental stock of yourself.

Are you as out of joint as conditions seem to be? Has your mind curdled? Have you become feather-pated from the pressures of keeping up with the Joneses and putting up with the follies of our antic era?

Well, here's an easy way to find out how normal you are. Simply ask yourself the following questions:

Do you sometimes have an impulse to put your head under water and keep it there just to drown out the noises of this world?

Return A Dime

Would you conscientiously return a dime to someone who overpaid you that amount in making change? Would you do the same thing if the sum was a million dollars?

When you see a dog scratching fleas, do you feel sorry for the dog and rush to his aid with an insecticide, or do you harbor a sneaky sympathy for the fleas because in this life they are always in the role of the underdogs?

Naturally, your own merit has gone largely unrecognized, but if you had the chance would you like to change places with your boss—that is, you would have his income but would also have to go home to his wife?

Do you feel criminals should be punished because they are guilty of a wrongdoing, or because the only reason they let themselves be caught at all is because they have an inner compulsion to pay a penalty?

Can you tell which way the wind blows by putting a finger in your mouth and then holding it up in the air? What if your mouth is dry at the time?

If asked how many faucets there are on a milk cow, would you make an udder error?

Does your parakeet have a larger speaking vocabulary then you do? If so, is that because it listens to your wife more than you do?

When a man next to you in church falls asleep, do you brusquely kick his ankle to wake him up, or do you surreptitiously waylay him later and kindly give him a synopsis of the sermon he missed?

Is there anything you'd rather do than inherit money? Give three reasons why.

If money isn't everything to you, is sex everything to you that money isn't? Give four reasons why.

Liberated Woman

When you meet a liberated woman, do you wish to rush up and praise her for gaining her freedom, or do you have to suppress a desire to chain her to a fire hydrant and throw spitballs at her?

If you saw Lady Godiva riding by on a white horse, would the first thing you started conjecturing about was how long it had been since you saw a white horse?

Can you tell what time it is by rubbing two sticks together furiously in a driving rain? Well, well, well—really?

How far does snow have to be driven before it becomes as white as driven snow?

If you had it all to do over again, what is the first thing you'd shirk doing all over again?

That leaves it up to you whether to congratulate yourself—or rush to the nearest psychiatrist. Everything is always a matter of judgment.

New Year Resolutions Tailored for Consumers

BY ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — The task of protecting the consumer's welfare has grown too large to be entrusted to any one group, whether it be a federal agency, citizen organization or business association claiming to serve only the public interest.

The job is also too big for any individual, whether the name is Ralph Nader or Virginia Knauer.

It is really a job for all groups and individuals, each doing what he can to turn back the tide of consumer problems.

In the final analysis, however, much depends on the individual. In most of the discussions of consumer problems, there is too much emphasis on what the forces called "they" should be doing and too little emphasis on what individual citizens "we" can do.

With that in mind, the following resolutions are offered with the hope that they can make the new year less hazardous and more profitable for all American consumers.

Therefore, be it hereby resolved that each consumer will:

— Refuse to accept defective or misrepresented products as "one of those things" but will return them forthwith, regardless of their value, with a demand for restitution or adjustment. Failure of many consumers to do this is one reason why such merchandise continues to be sold.

— Write at least one letter during the year to a state or federal legislator expressing interest in his views on a major consumer issue. Law-makers often cite the lack of such letters as evidence that the general public does not care very much about some issues that affect people very deeply.

— Make friends with at least one official of a government agency charged with regulating business. This could help offset the wholesale wining and dining of public officials by private interests with large financial stakes in regulatory matters.

— Question advertising claims whose authenticity seems doubtful. If you can't decide, consider doing what Ralph Nader did recently: write to the manufacturer and request the scientific documentation if any. The willingness of the general public to accept or ignore such claims helps to continue and spread them.

— Do your bit to attain cleaner air and water by following some of the suggestions provided by environmental protection groups. Here is another example of an area where one individual can do comparatively little but all individuals together can accomplish a lot.

— Join a consumer or environmental group devoted to public service in your area. Such organizations have always been hampered by their failure to attract large numbers of concerned citizens.

— Subscribe to a publication dedicated to providing full and frank information about consumer and environmental problems. Since most of these publications do not accept advertising, subscriptions are especially important to them and, in the long run, determine their effectiveness.

—Shout to the rooftops when you find a particularly good product or merchant. Let other people know of your good fortune so they also can benefit. Don't lose an opportunity to praise a good businessman by letter, if possible.

Only then will you really have a happy new year.

State Has 2 New Year's Day Fatalities

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two New Year's Day traffic deaths occurred in Wisconsin following the state's lowest highway death toll in five years at 1,110 in 1970.

Four persons died on Wisconsin's highways Jan. 1, 1970.

Steven Heft, 22, of Madison was killed Friday in a Dane County collision on Highway 51 between McFarland and Stoughton.

Lyle L. Hagenau, 22, of Wisconsin Rapids died Friday when his car left a Wood County road near Highway 54 west of Port Edwards and struck a tree.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the [illegible] office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is [illegible] as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q: Can a child born before the end of the year be claimed as a dependent for the whole year?

A. Yes, as long as the dependency tests are met for the calendar year in which the child was born.

Q: I didn't have a job when I moved here. Does that mean I won't be able to deduct my moving costs?

A. You may [illegible] to deduct your moving expenses if you meet certain requirements. In [illegible] to accept a [illegible] someone transferred [illegible] location by his present employer may qualify.

The [illegible] requirement is that your new place of employment [illegible] 50 miles farther from your [illegible] home than your [illegible] was.

The second requirement is that you be a full-time employee in your new location at least 39 weeks during the 12 months following the move.

For details, send a post card to your IRS district office and ask for a copy of Publication 521, Tax Information on Moving Expenses.

Q: I didn't pay any estimated tax this year and now I find I'm way underwithheld. What should I do?

A. File an estimated tax declaration, Form 1040ES, as soon as possible and pay whatever should have been paid by this date. This will reduce the penalty for underpayment of estimated tax. Form 1040ES and instructions may be obtained from any IRS office.

Q: What's the deadline for reporting the social security tax I withhold for my cleaning woman?

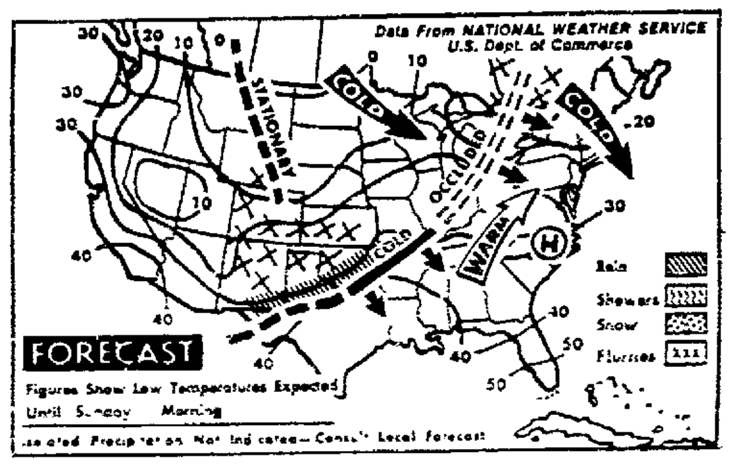

A. February 1 is the due date for the Employer's Quarterly Tax Return for Household Employees for October, November and December.

Q: If someone dies during the year, does an income tax return have to be filed if there was any income or earnings?

A. Yes, the same general tax filing requirements apply to taxpayers who are deceased. There are special provisions, however. For details, send a post card to your local IRS office and ask for a copy of Publication 559, Federal Tax Guide for Survivors, Executors and Administrators. It's free.

Q: What's the filing date for farmers next year?

A. April 15. However, farmers who did not file estimated tax declarations by January 15 should file their 1970 returns and pay the tax due by March 1 to avoid possible penalties for underpayment of estimated income tax.

Snow Flurries are forecast tonight for the Southwest. There will be cold weather over much of the northern part of the nation and warm temperatures in the Southeast. (Ap Wirephoto Map)

Something Fishy

Football Fan's Murder Unnoticed for 2 Days

BY ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — As detective Peter Minderman stared at the color television set in the simple living room of the Socalaw house, he was baffled.

The body of Artie Socalaw was still in the same chair where he had died. All the suspects in the case were also in the living room. There was Artie's wife Emma, and Artie's best friends, George Stevens Jr., Chuck McDermott, Sam Markay and Tony Valenti.

"All right," said detective Minderman, "let's start from the beginning. You guys began watching pro football two days ago on Saturday at noon, right in this living room."

"That's correct," said Stevens. "Then suddenly Sunday night, somewhere during the third quarter of the Raider game, we noticed there was something wrong with Artie. We waited until the game ended at 7 and then went over to his chair. He was dead."

"You can imagine what a shock this was, coming after the 49ers' defeat of the Minnesota Vikings," Chuck McDermott added.

"But," said detective Minderman, "the coroner said Artie had been dead for 24 hours. How come no one discovered it before then?"

"Well," said Sam Markay, "Artie was always quiet when he watched a pro football game. He wasn't one of these guys who holler and shout after each play. So when he didn't say anything for 24 hours, we figured he was just suffering because Dallas beat the Detroit Lions."

"When you're watching pro football on TV," said Tony Valenti, "you don't notice whether people are breathing or not."

Detective Minderman looked over at Mrs. Socalaw. "When did you last see your husband alive?"

"You mean moving around and that sort of thing?" Mrs. Socalaw asked. "I believe it was sometime in July before the exhibition games started. He hasn't left that chair since the Redskins played the Patriots in a pre-season game. I can't wish to dispute the coroner's report, but I thought Artie was dead three months ago."

"That's not true," Stevens said. "Just before the Baltimore-Cincinnati game, Artie asked me if I wanted a piece of fruitcake."

"Fruitcake?" detective Minderman said. "Where did the fruitcake come from?"

"I made it," said Mrs. Socalaw. "I always make fruitcake during the holiday season. It helps me forget."

"Did anyone else eat the fruitcake?"

"I did," said McDermott.

"No ill effects?" Minderman asked.

"None that I can tell," McDermott said.

"Damn," said detective Minderman. "There goes the poisoned-fruitcake theory."

"Did he eat anything else?" Minderman asked.

"I gave him a tuna fish sandwich," McDermott said.

"A what?"

"A tuna fish sandwich. You see Mrs. Socalaw refuses to feed us, so we each bring our own food. This time my wife made me a tuna fish sandwich."

"But don't you know what's going on with tuna fish?" Minderman asked.

"I'm not much for fishing. The only sport I watch is football," McDermott said.

"Your wife tried to knock you off with a tuna fish mercury-poisoned sandwich," detective Minderman said. "Only Artie became the victim, instead of you."

"I knew she was sore at me," McDermott said, "but I didn't think she'd go this far."

Minderman went to the phone and called the McDermott house. "Mrs. McDermott, I'm sending someone over to arrest you for the tuna fish murder of Artie Socalaw."

"Don't worry, Gloria," Mrs. Socalaw grabbed the phone and shouted. "I'll testify in your behalf. We can always say it was a crime of passion."

Your Money's Worth

Soft Drinks Replacing Milk as No. 1 Drink

BY SYLVIA PORTER

What kind of drinker are you?

Do you drink every day 1.8 glasses standard eight-ounce glass of fluid milk and cream?

Or 1.3 glasses daily of canned and bottled soft drinks?

Or 1.13 glasses of beer?

Or one half cup of coffee?

Or less than one ounce a day of distilled spirits?

Or only a half ounce of wine.

Porter

equivalent to one glass of wine every 16 days?

Or only another half ounce of tea, also equivalent to one glass every 16 days?

If your drinking does amount to these totals daily, you are merely matching the per capita consumption of these beverages in the U.S.

I [illegible] before each statistic because I assume that none of you is identical to the mythical "per capita drinker" in the U.S. At the same time, I also assume none of you drinks precisely this much of all these drinks daily, although millions of you drink much more of several of them.

What I find fascinating about these figures during these heaviest hard-liquor drinking hours of the year is the extent to which [illegible] consumption of soft drinks is threatening to replace milk as America's number one beverage. And even [illegible] [illegible] breakfast [illegible] [illegible] as [illegible] fast [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] is still in the long-term downtrend begun in 1950 when the average American drank 600 glasses of milk a year. The only upward [illegible] lies in the fact that 20 per cent of all milk sold last year was low-in-fat.

And clearly, with the high level Commission for Heart Disease Resources now urging us to slash our fat intake, fat-rich milk will continue in a long-term decline.

— Simultaneously, our intake of soft drinks is in a tremendous upsurge. One estimate is that 84 per cent of all Americans over 13 years of age are soft drink consumers. Total sales of soft drinks have now soared past 4.1 billion cases — and this despite a 20 per cent drop in sales of low-calorie soft drinks after the cyclamate ban.

— Another drink in a long downtrend is coffee. While we account for almost 50 per cent of the world's consumption, adults are drinking only 2.6 cups a day against almost 3 in the early 1960s.

— How do we explain the phenomenal rise of soft drinks?

— One reason has to be the power of advertising, the fabulous marketing efforts of such companies as Coca-Cola, Pepsi-Cola, Royal Crown, Canada Dry, Seven-Up.

— Another explanation has to be the almost continual introduction of new soft drinks — more than 135 new brands between 1961 and 1968 alone.

As one illustration, my family's purchases of soft drinks plunged after our daughter went to college but last summer up they jumped again. Reason: our introduction to the new pick-me-up Gatorade and the popularity of that special thirst-quencher at our golf course.

P. S. This being New Year's Day, I hereby pledge that my gang alone will pulverize those statistics on distilled spirits, wines and coffee. Less than one ounce of scotch? A half ounce of wine? A half cup of coffee? In New York's Northern Westchester County on Dec. 31, 1970? Ho, ho!

Clemency Granted to 16 Prisoners in State

MADISON (AP) — Two men convicted of first degree murder were among 16 prisoners granted executive clemency Thursday by Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

Receiving commutation of sentences at the start of the new year were:

McKenzie Davis, 61, convicted in Milwaukee County of first degree murder in 1965, and Tilmon Creer, 55, sentenced in Milwaukee County for first degree murder in 1964.

Their life sentences were commuted to 25 and 35 years respectively for good behavior.

Receiving pardons were:

Robert H. Bonn, 28, sentenced in Kenosha County for burglary in 1961.

David W. Dougherty, 60, sentenced in Waukesha County on a morals offense in 1955.

Door County

Margaret A. Igoe, 21, sentenced in Door County on a marijuana possession charge in 1968.

Arthur T. Laabs, 57, sentenced in Clark County for falsifying company records in 1967.

David L. Lamere, 33, sentenced in Marathon County for receiving stolen property in 1961.

Michael D. Lavery, 20, sentenced in Dane County for possession of a firebomb in 1970.

Jimmie L. Lightle Jr., 26, convicted in Dunn County of breaking and entering in 1964.

Patrick A. Moore, 30, sentenced in Milwaukee County for burglary in 1964.

Myron H. Mularkey, 43, convicted in Marquette County of criminal assault in 1953.

Allan Rotberg, 21, sentenced in Dane County for petty theft in 1969.

Armando Savaglio, 35, sentenced in Kenosha County on a morals charge in 1959.

Michael L. Smith, 25, convicted in Columbia County of forgery in 1969.

Kerr. Weisel 23, sentenced in Dane County for selling hashish in 1969.

Charles O. Williamson, 58, convicted in Sheboygan County for assault with intent to rob in 1962.

Knowles also denied pardons for 41 other inmates at Wisconsin prisons.

Your Problems

AA No Answer Unless She's Ready for It

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing in the hope that my mother will see this letter and do something about herself. Mom is a big wheel in our town. Everyone knows her as an active leader and a crusader for worthy causes.

Her problem: Booze. Mom doesn't touch a drop during the day. She starts nipping while she fixes supper. She cooks with sherry and drinks half a bottle before Dad gets home. If he is 30 minutes late, the food is burned and she is plastered. Mom fell twice last week and was lucky she didn't break her neck. It makes me sick to see a woman of her intelligence staggering around making no sense. I'll be going away to college next year and I'm scared to death of what might happen to Mom if she's left alone in the house. Please, Ann, tell her to join A. A. — D. M.

Dear D. M.: Telling her to join A. A. is no answer. Until your mother feels she's ready for A. A. it won't do her any good. I hope she sees this letter, recognizes herself and decides the time is now.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You gave some advice to the woman whose mother called her 10 times a day. Do you have any advice for me? My mother is wonderful. It's my mother-in-law who is driving me buggy.

We don't need an alarm clock. She wakes us up every morning at 7:30. I counted her calls yesterday. There were 11. Her last call was at 9:35 at night. She was telling us to go to bed and get some rest.

If my husband and I aren't home she starts calling our friends. We've had several people tell us that Don's mother was looking for us the other night. They hoped nothing was wrong. This can be embarrassing, especially when she wakes people up.

When our daughter is home (weekends) she answers the phone. I've asked her to tell

Landers

Grandma I'll call her back. This makes Grandma mad so she phones every five minutes until I talk to her. My husband says to take the phone out, but I hate to cut myself off from friends and other family. What do you suggest? — Ma Bell's Prisoner

Dear Prisoner: Your mother-in-law has a case of chronic telephonitis — a neurotic compulsion for which there is no known cure. I suggest a second phone, unlisted. It would be worth the money to free yourself from her merciless badgering. Inform your friends and family of the new number. Leave the old phone in — just for your mother-in-law. Turn the bell down so the ring is distinguishable from the second phone. When the old phone rings you'll know it's the doll and you can answer when and if you feel like it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Two years ago you printed a saying in your column: "To worry is not to trust. To trust is not to worry." These words helped me and my family through a very rough period.

My older brother was sent to Vietnam just about then. Everyone in the family adored him. If anything had happened to my brother we would have all gone to pieces. I embroidered your saying, framed it and hung it on the kitchen wall. It became our family motto.

My brother is home now and we are so thankful. I am sure we all worried less because of the comfort we found in that saying. Although I made the tapestry to give us courage while waiting, I now realize it goes for every aspect of life. Thank you, Ann. — Poughkeepsie

Dear Po: I'm glad the motto helped, and I'm sure your letter will help others.

How far should a teen-age couple go? Can necking be safe? When does it become too hot to handle? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking and Petting — What Are the Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

World Champions

by IRA G. CORN JR. TEAM CAPTAIN

Who has never played against a bidding hog?

One of the game's super irritants, he always manages to bid one more, creating havoc wherever he can. His overbearing aggressiveness sometimes ends in disaster but not often enough to compensate for the exasperation he spreads.

Observe how a bidding hog was repaid in the defense of today's slam hand.

Both vulnerable

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
	1 ♦	Pass	1 ♥
Dbl.	2 ♥	2 ♠	4 NT
Pass	5 ♦	Pass	6 ♥
Pass	Pass	6 ♠	Dbl.
Pass	Pass	Pass

Note how the mere presence of the bidding hog affects a player's judgment. West, in an effort to close South's mouth, impulsively bid four no-trump.

Use of the Blackwood convention when holding a worthless doubleton is not a good policy. However, East-West reached a fine slam which would have been fulfilled except for the inevitable bid of six spades by South. West doubled in resignation.

West's opening lead of the heart king held the first trick. He switched to the ace and another diamond. East signalling with the diamond eight. East won the second diamond with his jack, cashed the heart queen and continued with the diamond king.

South ruffed with one of his high trumps, and West cleverly discarded a club instead of overruffing. South was now able to capture West's trump king via a finesse. However, West's gambit convinced him that East had the spade king. Wouldn't you think so?

South played the queen of spades, and when West played low, South refused the spade finesse. Instead, he played dummy's spade ace, hoping to catch a singleton king. South was shocked when East discarded on the space ace, and he realized what West had perpetrated.

South continued with another spade. West won his king and led his now lone club to East's ace. East returned to club for West to ruff. Down six — 1,700 points.

Note that if West had merely overruffed with the spade king, the penalty would have been 300 points less. The penalty of 1,400 points would have been roughly equal to the value of the slam — 1,430 points. A virtual standoff.

Which do you think West enjoyed more? Three hundred extra points or the satisfaction of getting even with South?

The Aces will answer your bridge questions in this column. Send questions to The Aces, P. O. Box 12363, Dallas, Tex. 75225. Include the name and city of your local newspaper. For a personal reply, include a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Town Board Of Greenville Notes Repairs

GREENVILLE — The Greenville town board noted in the December meeting that the cost of repairing 12 bridges was $33,969. The town will be reimbursed for half the cost by the county when funds are appropriated.

Robert Paschke was appointed health officer for the town to fill the unexpired term left vacant by Dr. W.H. Towne.

Six more alert receivers will be purchased to improve the town fire protection system. The Town of Greenville will be host to the Wisconsin Town Association meeting this year.

The new weather enclosure on the town hall entrance has been completed and should eliminate any drafts in the door area.

All-Out Soviet Aid Claimed By Egyptians

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Egypt says it has been offered "unlimited" military and political support by the Soviet Union in a joint struggle to "isolate" the United States and Israel.

The claim was in a report by Vice President Ali Sabry that dealt with the talks the Russians and Egyptians held Dec 20-27 in Moscow. Quotes from the report were published today in the semi-official Cairo newspaper Al Ahram.

Al Ahram said the Kremlin expressed "full understanding" of Egypt's military needs and said it would help Cairo confront "technological advances," meaning electronic weapons systems provided to Israel by the United States.

The report said the Soviet leaders "expounded at length their assessment of the conflict in the Middle East and its place in the world strategy of the Soviet Union" and "emphasized the necessity of Egypt's victory in the current struggle with America and Israel."

Tough Stand

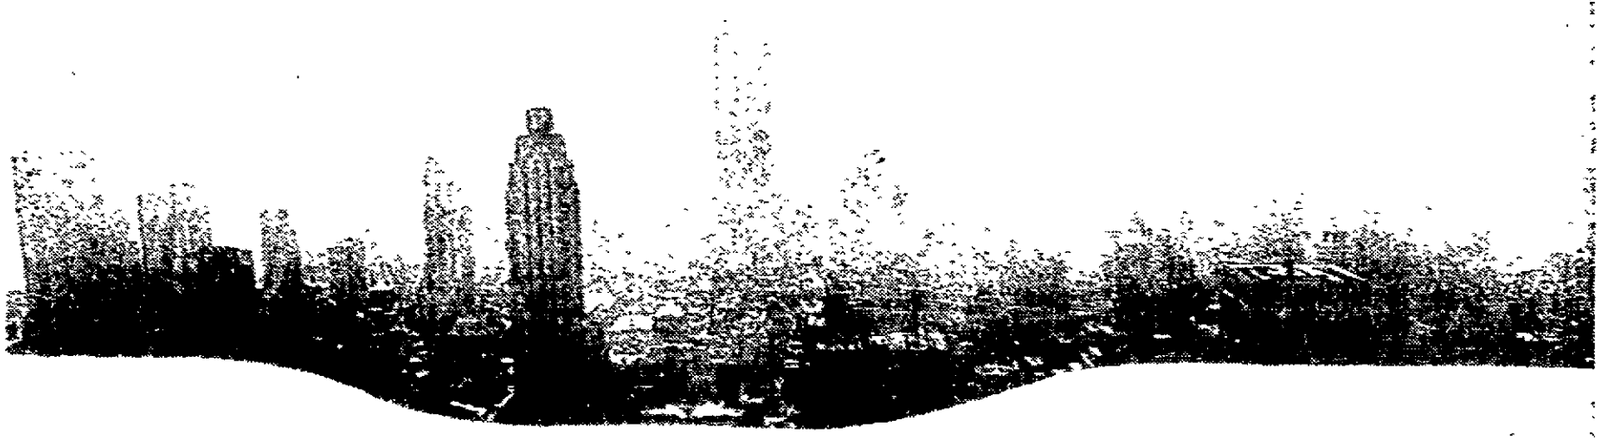

The Cairo press also indicated that Egypt would take a tough stand at the Arab-Israeli peace talks expected to resume soon in New York under U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring.

Al Ahram rejected Israel's stand that peace must come to the Middle East before any timetable is discussed for the withdrawal of Israeli forces from Arab territories occupied in the 1967 six-day war. Egypt has been demanding such a timetable as a precondition for extending the current Middle East cease-fire, which expires Feb 5.

"This is only a re-statement of Israel's terms for a contractual agreement with the Arabs," Al Ahram said. "Such Israeli maneuvering will only further complicate the situation, placing responsibility for an explosion—which could occur very soon—squarely on America and Israel."

Talks Delegate

East Digs Out From Giant Snowstorm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Most traffic was moving again early today on the Northeast's highways, railroads and air lanes after a 12-hour storm dumped up to two feet of snow across a broad area from Virginia to Vermont, moved out to sea Friday evening, leaving snowplows busy at work, many rural roads still impassable, and New Year's Day events postponed or canceled.

The District of Columbia area had its heaviest snowfall in nearly four years, with eight inches closing National Airport and 15 inches hampering operations at Dulles.

Washington snow removal crews cleared main arteries by midday, when a snow emergency order was lifted.

Rural Roads

Half the rural roads in the Philadelphia area, blocked by heavy drifting, remained closed early today. But railroads in Pennsylvania and New Jersey were back to normal after frozen switches had caused delays. The city's international airport reopened after a 3½-hour shutdown.

Philadelphia street crews worked through the night to clear the parade route for the 71st annual Mummers Parade, postponed from Friday.

State authorities in Maryland reported most main roads in good condition but many rural routes uncleared. Much of the snow was expected to melt today with temperatures forecast in the 40s.

"We're just sitting tight until they plow us out," reported one resident of Virginia, where many roads remained impassable in mountain regions after more than 20 inches of snow.

South Vietnamese To Aid Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government announced today that it has agreed to provide armed escort for tanker ships and trucks carrying petroleum supplies to the capital of Cambodia, critically short of fuel because enemy troops have blocked its lifeline to the sea.

A spokesman said the South Vietnamese Interior Ministry had decided to "ease all procedures," apparently meaning that the Cambodians will not be charged a fee for the escort service from Kompong Som to Phnom Penh.

Phnom Penh has been cut off from Kompong Som, Cambodia's only deep-water port and the site of a big oil refinery, since Nov. 20, when Communist-led troops seized a mountain pass on Highway 4.

Moving Petroleum

Plans for moving petroleum and other vital supplies by alternate routes reportedly have been complicated by South Vietnamese demands for payment for the escort service.

The spokesman said the new agreement means that Cambodia will be able to buy petroleum products from oil companies in South Vietnam and bring them into Phnom Penh by tankers up the Mekong River.

Oil tank trucks with Cambodian markings and license plates and driven by Cambodians have been moving between Saigon and Phnom Penh for at least three days in convoys of a dozen or more.

The spokesman said he did not know how much gasoline and oil was being provided for the Cambodians.

In battle action today, North and South Vietnamese forces fought for 10 hours inside Vietnam's demilitarized zone as the Viet Cong's New Year cease-fire entered its final hours.

Early reports said more than a battalion of South Vietnamese troops were involved in the fighting, but Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen reported later from Da Nang that the only casualties reported were five government soldiers wounded when their armored vehicle struck a mine.

Informants said the battle began when a South Vietnamese patrol clashed with a company of North Vietnamese troops just south of the DMZ and pursued it across the boundary.

The South Vietnamese later received reinforcements, including troops in armored personnel carriers. Bad weather hampered air support.

Rocket Fire

The South Vietnamese were hit by mortar and rocket fire pulled out of the DMZ late this afternoon.

Meanwhile, unofficial figures showed at least 12 Americans killed and 49 wounded since the 72-hour Viet Cong cease-fire began Thursday morning. South Vietnamese casualties were listed as 32 men killed and 93 wounded.

Allied spokesmen said at least 53 enemy troops had been killed during the period, 21 by American fire and 32 by the South Vietnamese.

Cease - Fire

The Americans and South Vietnamese did not observe the Viet Cong cease - fire but declared their own 24-hour truce beginning at 6 p.m. Thursday. The allied cease-fire was one of the quietest ever, with one American and nine South Vietnamese reported killed and 10 Americans and 52 South Vietnamese reported wounded.

Twenty-five enemy soldiers were reported killed and two captured over the 24 hours.

A year ago, the allies' 24-hour New Year's truce period saw six Americans and 25 South Vietnamese killed and 11 Americans and 74 South Vietnamese wounded.

Community Relations Effort

Superpolice Teams Start Brooklyn Experiment

NEW YORK (AP) — Sixteen hand-picked patrolmen under a sergeant dubbed the "Little Police Chief," have gone into action as the first of the new "neighborhood police teams," an effort to improve police-community relations.

In the closely watched trial program the 16 "super cops" made their first patrols Friday in the 77th Precinct, a 12-block area of Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant section.

The program's major aim, police say, is to improve community relations by giving men on the beat greater authority to help not only the victims of crime but anyone needing assistance.

"There are some groups who are bitter toward police," said Sgt. William Ambrose, 46, a police veteran of 26 years who heads the 16-man team. "I see this as an opportunity to help lessen the hostility between the police and the community."

Ambrose, bearing the title "Little Police Chief" in his new assignment, gave one example Friday of how the new program works.

Riding in a patrol car in the early morning, Ambrose was hailed by a woman who said she needed a prescription filled but couldn't find a pharmacy that was open on New Year's Day.

The sergeant drove her to the nearest pharmacy about a mile away and outside the borders of the 77th Precinct, then returned her home.

All policemen, except for Ambrose team, are under orders not to carry civilians in police cars and none are expected to leave their precincts unless ordered out in an emergency by their superiors.

The Question

"How can I help," is the question," said Ambrose, "not 'There is no thing I can do.'"

Like his men, Ambrose has new authority not usually enjoyed by most sergeants on the city's 30,000-man police force.

It is up to him alone to decide what shifts his men will work and what shift he himself will take. Even when he is off-duty, problems in his sector will be referred directly to him to be resolved.

The 16 men working with Ambrose were all volunteers, selected from nearly 40 officers who asked for the assignment. Eight are black and eight white.

"It's a new concept and we think it's a good one," said police Lt. Edward Smith at precinct headquarters. "We all would like to get a little closer to the people."

Williams Resigns To Aid Successor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., quietly resigned from the Senate effective with the new year, to give his successor, William V. Roth Jr., the edge in seniority over other newly elected senators.

A spokesman said Roth, a Republican now serving in the House, planned to be sworn in as a senator at 11 a.m. EST, when the Senate meets for its final session of the 91st Congress.

11 Slain in Detroit During Opening Hours of New Year

DETROIT (AP) — Six persons, including a 7-year-old boy, were slain in Detroit, five by gunshot and other by strangulation, on the first day of the new year.

During the first nine hours of 1971, six persons, including a 7-year-old boy, were slain in the city of Detroit. There were only two such deaths on New Year's Day a year ago — a year when a record 550 homicides were reported.

Seven-year-old James Simmons Jr. was hit in the face by a stray bullet Friday morning as he stood with his parents on the porch of a friend's house, police said. They said they did not know where the bullet came from.

A second victim, Innocenio C. Rodriquez, 58, was shot by a Detroit policeman who said he was Harold Stinnis, 41, spreadeagled between Rodriquez and another man, who was later held for attempted murder.

Friends found the body of Harold Stinnis, 41, spreadeagled and tied to his bed. A pillow case covered his brutally beaten face, police said, and an electric cord was wrapped around his neck.

Police said Stinnis had a record of narcotics involvement and theorized that he was killed for revenge.

The body of a fourth victim, Michael Brown, 30, was found by police in a vacant lot with a gunshot wound in his lower abdomen. Brown reportedly had earlier been involved in a quarrel and gunfight at his home.

Police said George R. Webb, 31, was shot to death during a brawl at a New Year's Eve party, where four others were wounded.

Nixon Acts on 66 Measures

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a snowy holiday combining football and business, President Nixon has signed a flurry of major bills passed in the closing days of the 91st Congress.

Nixon spent New Year's Day with members of his family and a group of aides at the snow-covered presidential retreat at Camp David, Md. He is expected to return to Washington Sunday.

Nixon acted on 66 bills—a record for him.

He signed a housing bill containing $2.9 billion and provision for a national urban-growth policy.

The new law, for the first time, provides government insurance against crime in high-risk city areas and requires the president to make recommendations to Congress for setting urban-growth policy.

Most of the money will be used to rebuild blighted city areas, help the poor buy and rent homes, assist in development of new communities and increase public-housing subsidies.

Other major holiday signings by Nixon included new laws:

—Requiring automobile manufacturers to eliminate 90 per cent of harmful exhausts by Jan. 1, 1975. The law allows a one-year extension if manufacturers can prove they don't have the capability of producing a virtually pollution-free engine by the deadline.

—Extending for two years the 7 per cent excise tax on new cars and the 10 per cent levy on telephone calls. The law, expected to bring in $4 billion over a two-year period, also speeds up collection of estate taxes.

—Funding construction of the interstate highway system through 1976, at a cost of $9.7 billion. The law provides $1.1 billion for primary and secondary roads.

—Appropriating $2.5 billion in foreign aid, including $250 million for foreign sales of surplus arms.

—Allowing the Federal Reserve Board to decide whether corporations whose holdings include one bank should be required to divest the banks.

Pipeline Repair Crews Shatter Quietness of Marsh

JACKSON (AP)— The quiet, soft beauty of the white-blanketed Jackson Marsh Wildlife Area is shattered by the roar of heavy equipment and blotched by the dark scars of muck torn up by the vehicles and strewn on the snow.

The stench of fuel oil hangs over the area.

Workers have been trying this week to locate a rupture in a pipeline buried in the water and muck. The pipe broke Monday and spewed a foul billow of oil into the marsh before the flow could be stopped.

Workers were skimming the lightweight fuel oil Friday from the creek that winds through the marsh.

Repair crews labored to get backloaders through the sticky mire to reach the spot where the broken pipe lies beneath the ice and snow.

"The break is in the worst possible location," said Carl Meyerdirk, a spokesman for the West Shore Pipeline Co., Chicago. "It is six feet down in water, which is under ice, which is under snow."

"There isn't much ice in the marsh," said Delbert Cook, chairman of the Cedar Creek Restoration Council. "Theres a good chance that there could be a lot of moving around of the oil in there. I'm hopeful that it can be contained, but with high enough temperatures, it might break loose into Cedar Creek proper."

The oil that leaked is a light home fuel oil, a spokesman for the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources said.

Both he and Cook said the firm was doing a good job of cleaning up and containing the oil.

High Pressure

The pipeline is a common carrier of oil products jointly owned by 10 oil firms and managed by American Oil Co. It runs between Hammond, Ind., and Green Bay.

The rupture in the pipe—which carries the oil under high pressure—was discovered by the employees at the firm's Granville oil terminal.

In the few minutes before the pressure was cut, enough oil spewed out to create a slick on the marsh. A heavy covering of snow on the river ice prevents an accurate estimate of the exact amount.

Cedar Creek—which runs through the 2,000-acre marsh—was dammed with bales of straw to hem in the oil.

Area Dammed

Crews worked all night Monday digging to an inspection point in the pipeline. Nitrogen was pumped into it and when the bubbles rose from the break Tuesday, its location was pinpointed.

The area around the break, Meyerdirk said, will have to be dammed and pumped free of water before a repair crew can begin work. He estimated it will take a couple of weeks.

Most of Friday's efforts were aimed at getting equipment through the marsh to the break. Only some of the turf is solid enough for heavy equipment. Ice thickness is unpredictable.

Getting around in the marsh boils down to a guessing game—with a wrong guess resulting in a soaking or stuck vehicle.

Snowmobilers served as spectators Friday—and acted as couriers between the site and the nearby communities of Jackson and Grafton.

Schreiter Announces

Supervisor Joins Executive Race

A 15-year veteran of the Outagamie County Board today entered the contest for county executive.

John R. Schreiter, 40, became the fourth candidate for the newly created post to be filled by election in April. Annoucing their intentions earlier were Appleton Mayor George Buckley, County Administrator Alvin Woehler and Kimberly Public Works Director Patrick Flanagan. More candidates are expected to announce next week.

Schreiter, a licensed heating contractor, was born in Appleton and has spent most of his life here.

Air Force Veteran

He has been in business here for 16 years and has served seven terms on the county board. Presently a member of the influential executive committee, Schreiter, during his board tenure, also has been on the purchasing and general accounts committee and the civil service and salary committee and was chairman of the courts, justice and enforcement committee of which he is now a member.

He earned several commendation medals while serving in the Air Force during the Korean War.

Educated at St. Lawrence preparatory school, Schreiter later completed a course in personnel management through the University of Wisconsin Extension.

He is a member of the Appleton Breakfast Optimist Club. Schreiter, his wife and five children life at 821 S. Pierce Ave.

Schreiter, in a prepared text, stated: "I am firmly convinced that this level of government has an unlimited potential to resolve the problems of our local communities. During the campaign, we will address ourselves to these problems and what we believe to be their solution.

"First of all, let me say that I do not agree with previously announced candidates that a qualification for the office should be a thorough knowledge of law, nor do I believe it to be important for a candidate to know the essentials of accounting. I say this because qualified staff in these areas already are provided for. The positions of corporation counsel and finance director comprise the initial staff to assist the executive in fulfilling his prescribed duties, particularly those duties relating to an executive budget.

"The qualifications that I base my candidacy on are my 15 years of legislative experience, a capacity to listen to and to work with people, to render decisions using sound, common sense judgment and most important, an uncompromising belief in the principles of truth and honesty in public office.

"So therefore, if we are to achieve the potential that Outagamie County has we must address ourselves not only to the legislation needed to reach that potential, but first and foremost, we must return to the citizens of this county, confidence and pride in their county government.

"Only when we return dignity to public office and insist that the everyday affairs of county government are open and above board and conducted on a sound, effective and business-like basis, can we return this pride and this confidence in local government.

"On behalf of every citizen of Outagamie County and with their support, I intend to bring to the office of county executive the dignity, the dedication of purpose, the creative leadership that they have a right to expect and demand.

"I intend to mold this new office of county executive into one deserving of your trust and confidence. I intend to use whatever talents God gave me to secure for them what ever is needed to bring about a more efficient, a more effective and a more responsive county government."

Knowles Denies Part In Jack Olson's Defeat

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles denied Friday his comments about the inevitability of a state tax hike gave Democrats the lever needed to pry Republicans out of the executive mansion.

Observers during the fall campaign saw Knowles' remarks as undermining Lt. Gov. Jack Olson's key campaign theme—that he could avoid a tax increase.

"Both candidates were dealing with unrealities in the tax picture," Knowles said in a Milwaukee television interview.

"I wanted to clear the air once and for all," said Knowles, who is retiring after six years as governor to take the job of board chairman of Inland Financial Corp., Milwaukee.

Used Remarks

"My position was a middle position," said Knowles, adding that he knew the state's financial situation. He said he and Olson both understood the state's "serious" fiscal problems, adding that both candidates seemed to be avoiding "the truth of the situation."

Olson, during the campaign, indicated a tax hike could be avoided by cutting state department budget requests, if the economy grew and if Congress passed a federal revenue sharing program.

On several occasions, Lucey used Knowles' remark to chide Olson's tax statements.

Last month, Olson said Knowles comments "were crucial to the election and regardless of the clarifications, they did affect my credibility as a candidate."

Friday, Knowles said his statement was compatible with Olson's stand. The reason Olson was not elected to succeed him was that the national issues of inflation and unemployment worked against the Republican party, he said.

Asked about any major disappointments during his six years as governor, Knowles said one was "my inability to elect a Republican governor as my successor."

Another disappointment, Knowles said, was his inability to deal effectively with the Republican controlled 1969 legislature. He cited two reasons.

The majority of Republicans were determined to enact their own budget and programs without the assistance of the Democrats.

And Democrats were uncooperative and would not compromise on important matters.

"The Democrats just wanted to sit on the sidelines and not try to find areas of compromise," Knowles said.

He said he has warned Lucey the greatest problem he would have "was to be the budget and revenue to balance the budge."

State agencies have requested $2.2 billion for the 1971-73 biennium, an increase of $1 billion from present spending levels.

4 Injured in New Year's City Crashes

Milwaukee Man Taken to Hospital By Ambulance

New Year's holiday traffic accidents in Appleton resulted in injuries to four persons.

Gerald Matschke, 24, Milwaukee, was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by ambulance about 2:15 a.m. Friday after the car he was in, driven by Joanne Heeter, 1306 E. Jardin St., collided with a camper-pickup truck driven by Thomas J. McGowan, 63, 5300 Long Court, Appleton.

The accident occurred at Glendale Avenue and Locust Street. Police said Matschke suffered a head injury.

Cars driven by Thomas M. Brock, 19, 742 W. Prospect ave., and Louis A. Mader, 24, 2128 N. Division St., were involved in an accident on S. Memorial Drive near Riverview Lane about 2:40 a.m. Friday.

Police said Mrs. Mader, a passenger in her husband's car, suffered a cut forehead and a right leg injury. Both cars were northbound when the rear end collision occurred.

Ella Sullivan, 2114 N. Erb St., and Judith Ann Sullivan, 14, same address, complained of neck injuries when the car Mrs. Sullivan was driving was struck in the rear by a Fox River Bus Lines bus on Wisconsin Avenue at Meade Street late Thursday morning.

The Sulivan auto was stopped for an automatic signal when it was rammed by the bus, driven by Russel B. Kain, 27, 520 E. Commericial St.

Shoveling Is Fatal to Man Friday Night

A 65-year-old Appleton man collapsed and died Friday night shortly after he helped a friend shovel snow.

Amos F. Kohl, 901 N. Summit St., suffered a heart attack according to Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps who investigated with Appleton police. Kohl was dead on arrival at St. Elizabeth Hospital about 8:30 p.m. He had no history of heart trouble, Kemps said.

Kohl had helped Mrs. Beatrice Hanson, 1510 Schneider Place, clean snow from her sidewalk. He collapsed as he was getting into his truck parked in the driveway.

Funeral arrangements are being handled through the Wichmann Funeral Home.

Village Police 5-Year Veteran Resigns Force

LITTLE CHUTE — Patrolman George Vander Zanden, a police officer for the past five years, has submitted his resignation from the department effective Monday.

Vander Zanden, in a letter to Police Chief Robert Nechodom, indicated he was leaving the force to go into business for himself.

State Veterans Go to School Under G.I. Bill

Total of 20,450 Were in Training In Wisconsin in 1970

MILWAUKEE — A record 20,450 veterans were in training under the G. I. Bill as of Dec. 1, 1970 in the state of Wisconsin.

Joseph J. Mulone, director of the Veteran Administration Regional Office, states that of this total, 11,213 are enrolled in institutions of higher learning, and 7,237 are attending below college level schools.

The director said that apprenticeships and on-the-job training accounted for the remaining 2,000 veterans.

Servicemen on active duty also are eligible for schooling benefits under certain conditions and there are 310 such cases in Wisconsin.

Veterans who served honorably on active duty for more than 180 days, any part of which occurred after Jan. 31, 1955 are eligible for G. I. Bill benefits, Mulone advises.

While attending school full-time, veterans without dependents are allowed a monthly allowance of $175. With one dependent he receives $205, with two dependents $230, plus $13 per month for each additional dependent.

Veterans attending school less than full-time and those training on the job receive lesser amounts.

Mulone suggested that persons desiring more information should call or visit the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Milwaukee or their nearest County Veterans Service Officer.

Knowles Makes Suggestions

Environmental Views Aired

MADISON (AP)—Suggestions for coping with environmental problems were offered to the head of the federal environmental protection agency by Gov. Warren P. Knowles Thursday.

In a letter to William D. Ruckelshaus, administrator of the new federal agency, Knowles made the following recommendations:

Federal construction grants for municipal sewerage treatment facilities must be maintained at their present level and increased if necessary.

The new federal environmental agency should improve its communications and coordination with the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

Law Enforcement

Federal grants to the DNR to administer water quality and air pollution abatement programs must be increased if the state agency is to play an effective role in environmental law enforcement.

Knowles, who leaves office Monday, told Ruckelshaus his suggestions were the result of personal experience in dealing with various federal environmental agencies during his six years as governor.

Knowles asserted some Wisconsin cities were behind sewerage treatment deadlines because of a lack of federal money promised five years ago under the federal water quality act.

He was also critical of the poor communication between the federal government and the DNR. The DNR still does not have a clear set of administrative rules and regulations, Knowles said, to form pollution abatement deadlines already approved by the federal government.

Knowles said he recognized the necessity of state participation in water quality and air pollution abatement programs, yet the DNR needs a "substantial increase" in federal funds if it is to play its proper role in the state-federal partnership," the chief executive said.

Redevelopment Units Held to 6 Pct. Interest

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin's local redevelopment authorities cannot legally borrow money under guaranteed federal loan contracts if the interest rate exceeds 6 per cent—as it has in the past—Atty. Gen. Robert W. Warren said Thursday.

Counties, Warren said in another opinion, can adopt a county housing code to meet federal requirements for redevelopment grants, subject to certain limitations.

The ruling in interest rates will not affect current programs because the interest rate has fallen, said Charles M. Hill Sr., secretary of Local Affairs and Development.

Congress has passed legislation enabling the U.S. Secretary of Housing and Urban Development to waive the higher interest rate for communities in states with laws barring rates over 6 or more per cent, Hill said.

The authority to waive the higher interest rate expires July 1, 1972, and federal funding could be jeopardized after that date, Hill said.

'Workable Program'

The second opinion involves counties trying to qualify for federal redevelopment grants. To qualify, communities are required to show they have a "workable program" for the community development.

This includes the stipulation that the communities have in effect for six months an approved minimum standards housing code related, but not limited to health, sanitation and occupancy requirements.

They also must show they have an effective enforcement program.

Warren noted that counties' power to enforce housing codes is "normally exercised over only a portion of the county—in unincorporated areas — and that counties do not possess the variety of enforcement options and specific statutory authorizations which are available to most Wisconsin municipalities when dealing with adequate housing."

Reedsville Youth's Death Probed

MANITOWOC (AP) — An autopsy was ordered Friday to determine the cause of death of Jeffrey Csida, 18, of Reedsville, who died Friday several hours after being found in a ditch near Wisconsin 148 near Cato.

The Manitowoc County sheriff's office said the youth had been beaten and the death was being investigated as a homicide.

2 Break-ins Reported To Neenah Police On New Year Holiday

NEENAH — There were two break-ins reported to police over the New Year's holiday.

On the night of Jan. 1, a window was broken in the south door of the vocational school, 410 S. Commercial St., to get into the building. Inside, the window on an office door was broken. Nothing was reported missing.

On New Year's Eve, $30 in cash, a stereo and over $100 of records were taken from the apartment of Charlene Moderson, 124 E. North Water St. A hole was broken in a window and it was pryed open to gain entry.

No One Seriously Hurt

6 Persons Injured in 6 Outagamie Accidents on New Year's Day

Six persons were injured, none believed seriously, in six New Year's Day traffic accidents on Outagamie County roads.

William C. Balza, 38, 1012 W. Commercial St., Appleton, was hospitalized for treatment of head and face cuts after his car ran off the end of Outagamie County Trunk CA at Two Mile Road, three miles north of Appleton, at 2:30 a.m. Friday. Police estimated damage to his car at $1,800.

A one-car accident on State 96, ½ mile northeast of Kaukauna at 3:50 a.m. Friday sent David J. Beard, 18, route 1, West De Pere, to Kaukauna Community Hospital with unspecified injuries. He was released after treatment.

Police said Beard was northbound when his car went out of control and struck a telephone pole. Damage was estimated at $200.

About 6:45 p.m. Friday, Karen Steinke, 114 Austin Ave., Neenah, suffered a bump on the head and a right arm injury when the car she was in, driven by Joan C. Thibodeau, 137 Jackson St., Neenah, struck a telephone pole after leaving U.S. 10 in Dale.

Henry J. Pavlichek, 50, West Allis, suffered a left arm injury and his car sustained an estimated $1,600 damage when it collided with a car driven by Calvin A. Larsen, 44, Hortonville, at State 76 and Mayflower Drive, 3½ miles north of Appleton, about 9:15 a.m. Friday.

Taken to Hospital

Police said Larsen was northbound on Mayflower and failed to yield the right of way to Pavlichek who was traveling northwest on State 76.

Jerry Zadduck, 17, 24 Mill St., Clintonville, was taken to Clintonville Community Hospital Friday afternoon for treatment of head injuries he suffered when his car went into a ditch along County Trunk M, seven miles north of Shiocton. He told police he lost control of his car when he attempted to miss a deer.

A 25-year-old Appleton man was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital with face injuries and possible exposure resulting from a one-car accident about 5:50 a.m. Friday on U.S. 41, four miles northeast of Kaukauna.

Edward A. Lau, 1216 S. Jefferson St., told police he fell asleep while westbound on 41. His car reportedly went into a ditch and hit a culvert. Police said considerable time may have passed before a motorist found Lau alongside the road.

Mirror 'Y' Stops Texas Turf Attack In Cotton Bowl Test

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — For 32 games, the last 30 of them victories, Texas had lived by its fearsome Wishbone offense. Friday, the top-ranked Longhorns died 24-11 in the Cotton Bowl at the hands of Notre Dame and a new-fangled Wishbone defense.

The stunning setback undoubtedly cost Texas a second straight national championship, even though second-ranked Ohio State lost to Stanford 27-17 in the Rose Bowl, because No 3 Nebraska downed Louisiana State 17-12 in the Orange Bowl and fourth-rated Tennessee trounced Air Force 34-13 in the Sugar Bowl.

The final Associated Press poll will be released next week.

The sixth-ranked Fighting Irish of Notre Dame, bent on revenge for a 21-17 Cotton Bowl defeat by Texas a year ago and coming off a loss in the regular season finale that crushed their own national championship dreams, shocked Texas in the first half with their newly concocted Mirrored Wishbone defense.

Same Line Up

The Longhorns must have been embarrassed no end at seeing Notre Dame line up behind its defensive line exactly the way Texas did behind its offensive line. It was like looking in a mirror and there was nothing they could do about it.

In the Wishbone offense, the three deep backs form almost a straight T-formation, but the middle man — the fullback — is set a couple of feet in front of the halfbacks, resembling a Y.

When that happened, Notre Dame linebacker Jim Wright assumed a position directly opposite the fullback — the two lines separating them — with linebacker Tim Kelly and defensive back Mike Crotty several feet behind him on either side opposite the Texas halfbacks.

After a fruitless first period which saw them trailing 14-3, the Longhorns, the nation's top rushing team but only 102nd among 118 major college football teams in passing, did what Notre Dame wanted. They broke up their Wishbone and went to more of a passing attack by flanking halfback Jim Bertelsen. Notre Dame simply moved Crotty out to cover him.

Mirrored Wishbone

The Mirrored Wishbone was the reason Coach Ara Parseghian closed all practice sessions this week. And just in case any spies managed to sneak a look, Notre Dame scrimmaged with 13 men on defense to camouflage their true alignment.

After quarterback Eddie Phillips rocked them with a 63-yard gallop to the Notre Dame 10 on Texas' first play, the Irish stiffened. They limited Texas to a field goal and a mere 3-0 lead at that point and held the Longhorns to 216 yards on the ground, compared to their 374.5 average.

Notre Dame also scored the most points against Texas in two years and they all came in the first half.

Just as they unveiled the Mirrored Wishbone at the start, in the scoreless second half the Irish returned to their normal defense — a 4-4 or split-6, with two linebackers moving up to form a six-man forward wall.

"They didn't win by confusion," insisted Darrell Royal of Texas. "They won because of

NBA Weakling Sees Loss Streak Reach 2 Straight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Guess what? The Cleveland Cavaliers lost a game.

Normally, that wouldn't be too unusual, but the weak National Basketball Association expansion club recently put together a two-game winning streak, their only back-to-back victories.

Now they're back in the old groove, losing to the Baltimore Bullets 127-105 Friday night for their second straight setback.

Earl Monroe and Jack Marin scored 22 points apiece as the Bullets racked up 30 points or more in each quarter and handed the tattered Cavaliers their 40th loss in 45 games.

Elsewhere in the NBA, San Diego beat Los Angeles 117-106 and Seattle edged Portland 121-113. There were no American Basketball Association games.

Take Lead

Baltimore took over at the start with a 3-2 lead and was never threatened. The Bullets opened a 65-51 advantage at halftime and built their lead to 27 points in the second half.

Bobby Smith and John Johnson led Cleveland with 18 and 16 points respectively, and rookie Dave Sorenson added 14.

Elvin Hayes pumped in 40 points to lead the Rockets to their first triumph over the Lakers in 13 games. Jerry West of Los Angeles led all scorers with 41 points.

Seattle saw its 10-point lead at the start of the fourth period wiped out by a Portland surge before Lee Winfield's free throw with five seconds remaining locked up the Sonics' victory. Player-Coach Lenny Wilkens' 24 points and 23 by Pete Cross paced Seattle while Geoff Petrie of the Trail Blazers took scoring honors with 40 points.

Toledo Owns Longest College Winning Streak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toledo became the major college football team with the longest consecutive victory string Friday after Notre Dame snapped Texas' skein of 30 triumphs in the Cotton Bowl.

Toledo, a 40-12 victor over William & Mary in last Monday's Tangerine Bowl, has won 23 straight, including 12 this year.

The all-time record for most consecutive victories is 47 by Oklahoma from 1953-57.

Tagge Paces Huskers to Orange Bowl Crown

By ED SHEARER
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI (AP) — "I trust that The Associated Press poll you astute writers handle has more authority than the one we coaches have," shouted a jubilant Bob Devaney as he claimed college football's national championship for 1970 after his Nebraska Cornhuskers dumped Louisiana State 17-12 in the Orange Bowl game.

Devaney, shedding a maroon blazer which was drenched after his poll-conscious players tossed him into a shower, left no doubt that he believed his unbeaten team should be No. 1 in the final AP poll next week.

"There's no doubt about it," said Devaney, "those two games certainly gave our team a little more motivation tonight, but I must say this bunch motivated themselves pretty well all year.

"This is definitely the biggest victory of my career," he said.

Ranked Third

It didn't come easy.

The Cornhuskers, ranked third rushed out of the gate to take a 10-0 lead in the opening period on a 25-yard field goal by Paul Rogers and a three-yard run by Joe Orduna. Each followed a fumble recovery.

But the fifth-ranked Southeastern Conference champions kept fighting back, trimming the lead to 10-6 on a pair of field goals by Mark Lumpkin.

With two minutes left in the third quarter, LSU drove 75 yards, helped by a 19-yard pass interference penalty, to score on the period's final play—a 31-yard pass from Buddy Lee to Al Coffee.

Tagge, voted the game's outstanding back, got his staggering club to regroup and promptly drove them 67 yards to the winning touchdown.

The Husker quarterback scored it from the one with 6:10 elapsed in the final period when, as he was belted at the one, he stretched his arms, pushing the ball into the end zone.

The arm-stretching act on the third down play was quick thinking by Tagge, who later said, "I thought I made a lot of mental mistakes. Yes, those broken plays were my fault. I just went the wrong way on some new plays we put in for this game."

Defense Deadly

However, it was the Nebraska defense that proved most deadly for LSU as the Huskers dumped Tiger backs for losses 14 times totaling 115 yards.

Sophomore Willie Harper, a 205-pound end, was the heart of the defense. He blocked one pass at the line of scrimmage, forced LSU's Wayne Dickinson into a four-yard punt late in the game, stole the ball from the Tiger quarterback in the fourth quarter and made four tackles for 46 yards in losses. He was voted the game's outstanding lineman.

LSU's hopes for a last minute miracle died when linebacker Bob Terrio intercepted Bert Jones' pass with 45 seconds remaining.

The only battle remaining for the Huskers is that in the final poll. The race for No. 1 appears to be between the Huskers, Notre Dame and fourth-ranked Tennessee, which whipped Air Force in the Sugar Bowl.

The turn of events in the Cotton and Rose bowls brought back bitter memories for Devaney. Exactly five years ago No. 1 Michigan State lost in the Rose and No. 2 Arkansas lost to LSU in the Cotton.

Nebraska, ranked third, took on No. 4 Alabama in the Orange Bowl that night and the Crimson Tide soared to a 39-28 victory that earned them the No. 1 spot in the AP's first poll following bowl games.

"I told my players before the game that I knew they weren't going to do that," said Devaney.

"We weren't going to muff it again," he said.

Plunkett Rallies Stanford to Edge Buckeyes, 27-17

By DAN BERGER
Associated Press Sports Writer

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — John Sande smiled and spoke with such softness you'd never have guessed he had just dismantled an All-American in the Rose Bowl.

"I guess it was the best game I've ever played," said Stanford's senior center. "Well, after all I concentrated on him and prepared just for him for weeks. We all did a great job."

The "him" was Jim Stillwagon the cat-quick 6-foot 225-pounder who plays middle guard for Ohio State and terrorizes rival quarterbacks.

"We figured if we could give Jim Plunkett time to pass we could beat them" said the muscular 6-foot, 225-pound Sande.

As it was, Stanford's Heisman Trophy - winning quarterback was protected well as he completed 20 of 30 psses for 265 yards and was dumped for losses only twice as the Indians whipped the favored Buckeyes 27-17 on New Year's Day.

most of the attention in the

Plunkett, who commanded most of the attention in the dressing room after the game, commented first, "John Sande did a great job on Stillwagon."

The star Buckeye lineman made only one unassisted tackle and helped on a half - dozen others.

"I studied films of Stillwagon," Sande said. "He's quick fast, strong and I couldn't find a single weakness in his play. We didn't use many trap blocks or ankle blocks because he can recover so quickly.

Watch Moves

"What we tried to do was watch which way he wanted to go, then try to move him out of the way. I tried to match his quickness and I got a lot of help."

Stanford coach, John Ralston praised Sande's job, terming it one of the keys to victory, and adding, "He was tickled to death to be able to block Stillwagon one-on-one and he did a great job."

Stanford won the game through the air, but first took a quick 10-0 lead by running the ball. The first touchdown followed shortly after a 42-yard run on a reverse by wide receiver Eric Cross.

A four-yard smash by Jackie Brown brought the touchdown. Six minutes later, Steve Horowitz booted a 37-yard field goal.

Caps Drive

The first capped a 65-yard drive, including a 37-yard scamper by end Bruce Jankowski on an end-around play.

The second advance featured Kern's expert handling of the option rollout. He contributed

Broken Play Was Exciting Says Ralston

Indian Coach Cites Linebackers, Team Effort on Defense

By DAN BERBER
Associated Press Sports Writer

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A revamped offense and a more aggressive second-half defense sparked Stanford to its upset 27-17 victory over Ohio State in the Rose Bowl football game, but one play seemed to excite winning coach John Ralston the most.

It was a third down, 15-yards-to-go, pass on a broken play from quarterback Jim Plunkett to tight end Bob Moore that carried 35 yards to the Ohio State two and gave the Indians needed momentum.

They scored three plays later from the one and controlled the game the rest of the way in the fourth quarter.

"Isn't that Plunkett some sort of quarterback?" asked Ralston, who has been the Stanford head man for all of Plunkett's 32 games there.

"My heavenly days, what are we going to do without him?"

Ralston said many of his New Year's Day plays were put in for Ohio State, including the first play from scrimmage.

On that one, Plunkett rolled to his left and handed off to wide receiver Eric Cross on a reverse that went 41 yards to the Ohio State 18.

"We changed our offense for this game," said Ralston. "We wanted to keep them off-balance with play action passes and screens. But in the second half, our receivers came to me and said, 'we think we can beat them with individual routes,' so we changed a little in the second half."

On his more aggressive defense for the final two quarters, Ralston said: "They run real well up the middle and run the option very well, too, so in the first half we were trying to contain them and we were laying back a little bit.

"I guess we weren't sure about our responsibilities on the option and we were guessing.

"In the second half, we decided to go after them. If we missed them, somebody would have to take up the slack.

Ralston said the linemen took the punishment and the linebackers made the tackles. He praised the play of linebackers Jeff Siemon, Dennis Moore and Ron Kadziel.

19 Tackles

The trio combined for 19 tackles and assisted on 10 more.

Plunkett said the pass to Moore, setting up the go-ahead score with Stanford trailing 17-13, came on a broken play.

"We were lined up strong to the left and Randy Vataha was the No. 1 target. But they put on a good rush and I had to scramble. So Moore, who had

Baltimore Will Meet Japanese

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles have accepted an invitation to make a month long exhibition tour of Japan next fall.

Plans call for the 1970 world series champions to play 18 games against Japanese teams of the Central and Pacific leagues, starting in Tokyo on Oct. 23 against the Tokyo Giants, winners of the Japanese baseball title for the past six seasons.

The Giants are owned by the Yomiuri Shimbun, the largest newspaper in Japan, whose president Mitsuo Mutai issued the invitation to the Orioles.

Jerold C. Hoffberger, the Orioles' chairman of the board, accepted the invitation with the consent of Bowie Kuhn, the commissioner of baseball.

Sixty members of the Orioles' organization, including the wives of players and front office executives, will make the trip. All expenses will be defrayed by the Yomiuri Shimbun.

Alabama, Oklahoma Play to 24-24 Tie In Bluebonnet Bowl

HOUSTON (AP) — Alabama, coming into the 12th annual Bluebonnet Bowl with a 6-5 record, may have felt their 24-24 tie with Oklahoma Thursday night was a moral victory.

But then, Tide Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant has been quoted in the past as saying a moral victory is "like kissing your sister."

"We'll be a lot stronger next year," Oklahoma linebacker Gary Baccus said after the game. "In the long run, this game will help next fall. We're a very young team and we're come this far already. We feel we have no way to go but up even higher."

The entire OU offensive backfield will be back next season. They have speed to burn in Joe Wylie and Gregg Pruitt, and in Leon Crosswhite they have power running up the middle.

Johnny Musso, a junior, was the Tide's most effective runner, gaining 138 yards on 27 carries, many after he sprained his right ankle.

Hunter handed the ball to Musso, who started running as if to sweep right end. Hunter drifted to the left and took the pass from Musso just beyond the line of scrimmage and sprinted into the end zone.

With just over a minute remaining, the Sooners tied it 24-all on Bruce Deer's 42-yard field goal.

Alabama then moved to the 17 in three plays but missed a 32-yard field goal attempt with one second remaining.

"I feel like I cost them the game," Bryant said. "I tried to play it safe and it turned out to be the wrong thing to do."

With 24 seconds remaining, Bryant ordered his team to let the clock run until five seconds showed, then call a time out and go for the three-pointer. The kick was wide.

"We had time to score," Bryant said. "I should have let them try it. It was my decision, not the boys."

Oklahoma jumped to a 21-7 lead on TD runs of 58 and 25 yards by Pruitt and a two-yard dive by Wylie.

Alabama scored its other points on a four-yard pass from Hunter to Randy Moore, a five-yarder to David Bailey and a 20-yard field goal by Richard Ciemny.

gone down to the 20, cut toward the right flag and I threw it high.

"He's tall and I knew he could go up and get it."

The 6-foot-3 Moore said:

"When I saw Jim running to his right, I knew it was a broken play and my instructions then are to go to the right corner. When I saw the ball coming, all I could think of was that it was a touchdown.

"I didn't care who was covering me."

Ralston praised Ohio State quarterback Rex Kern.

"He's a tremendous quarterback and I can readily understand why he was the top player here two years ago," he said.

Kern was named the outstanding Rose Bowl player in the 1969 game, a 27-16 victory over Southern California.

Plunkett, who won the honor this time, said at least half his plays were called at the line of scrimmage because of changes in the Buckeye defense.

Devaney: We're No. 1

By BEN FUNK
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI (AP) — "Hell, yes, we're No. 1," Coach Bob Devaney shouted Friday night after his Nebraska Cornhuskers snatched a hair-raising 17-12 victory over LSU and staked a claim to the national football championship.

"We're the only undefeated team. I can't see how the Pope himself could vote for Notre Dame," Devaney declared in the wild atmosphere of a jubilant Nebraska dressing room.

Cries of "We're No. 1" rang from the Cornhusker cheering section throughout the last quarter of a game undecided until Bob Terrio intercepted a pass from a charging LSU team with less than a minute to go.

And when the Huskers, yelling and tumbling each other, ran into the dressing room, the Nebraska band stood outside and delivered lusty serenades.

"It was a dream come true," said quarterback Jerry Tagge.

He referred to the day's earlier defeats of No. 1 Texas by Notre Dame and No. 2 Ohio State by Stanford, smashing upsets that put the national title on the line in the Orange Bowl.

On His Own

Tagge, who scored the game-winning touchdown on a one-yard plunge in the fourth quarter, said Devaney told him to "run anything I wanted" in the drive.

But he said Devaney "told us we didn't necessarily have to throw deep."

"We thought we could beat them deep," Tagge said, "but it didn't work out that way."

"You're damned right we're No. 1," yelled defensive tackle Larry Jacobson. "Nobody would believe us the whole year, but we finally proved it."

Before the game, the longest telegram ever delivered by Western Union came to the team from fans in Huskerland. It contained 46,200 signatures. Unrolled, it was 1,400 feet long.

The message read:

"Congratulations and best wishes to the finest coaching staff and players in America. You are No. 1 with us. We are very proud of you. Go Big Red."

"We ran on them," said fullback Dan Schneiss. "That's something nobody else could do all year."

Nebraska rushed for 132 yards against the nation's No. 1 defense.

The Cornhuskers are scheduled to arrive back in Lincoln about 2 p.m. Sunday for what is expected to be a riotous reception.

Vols Break Jinx, Win 34-13

By JERRY ESTILL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Tennesee won the Sugar Bowl and it couldn't have been any sweeter for Bobby Scott.

"I thought we had to prove we had a good team and that we were capable of winning a bowl game ... that it's not just a jinx," the Vols' quarterback said after the 34-13 New Year's Day triumph over Air Force.

Tennessee had lost three straight bowl games before Friday's resounding victory. The Vols jumped to a 24-0 first-quarter lead, then let the defense do the rest over the stunned Falcons.

"We got the hot hand there early and threw and caught a little bit and put some points on the board," said Coach Bill Battle of fourth-ranked Tennessee.

"Defensively I thought we played pretty well all day and offensively we played well in spots, but we made a lot of mistakes and played poorly at times," he added. "Fortunately, when we played poorly we were usually in their back yard and it didn't hurt us too much."

Battle said Tennessee's "execution went down a little bit" after that explosive first quarter, "but I'm sure the Air Force had a lot to do with that."

Coach Ben Martin of Air Force said Tennesee's pass defenders were the best his Falcons had ever played against.

Excellent Secondary

"Their secondary is an exceptional group of personnel," said Martin. "Their defense wins ball games for them."

The Falcon coach said his own defense "recovered very nicely in the second half, but you can't win a game on defense when you are behind 24-7 at the half.

Air Force had come into the game with one of the nation's most productive offenses and quarterback Bob Parker completed 23 of 46 passes for 239 yards Friday. But the Falcons lost 12 yards rushing, had four passes intercepted and lost four fumbles.

Tennesee, meanwhile, generated 392 yards offensive—306 passing and 88 rushing.

Scott completed 22 of 49 passes for 283 yards and was named the game's outstanding player.

Earlier in the week Battle had said he didn't know whether his team was ready emotionally to play, but that doubt vanished shortly before the kickoff.

"I don't know what the key was, but when we walked out that door I knew we were ready to play," he said. "You just get a feeling right before they walk out there ... the enthusiasm ... the look in everybody's eyes ... slapping each other ... jumping up and down."

St. Patrick, Holy Name in Catholic Final

NEENAH — Menasha St. Patrick will meet Kimberly Holy Name for the championship of the Catholic Boy Basketball League's seventh grade tournament at 7:30 p.m. today at the St. Margaret Mary gym.

St. Margaret Mary and Appleton Sacred Heart will clash at 6:30 p.m. for the third place trophy.

St. Patrick defeated Sacred Heart, 47-34, in Thursday's semi-finals as Dan Gamsky hit 18 points and Pat Mc Clone added 14. Greg Sexton posted 17 for Sacred Heart.

Holy Name ousted St. Margaret Mary, 41-31, topped by Steve Uelman's 22 points. Bill Galuska netted 10 for the Neenah squad.

their fine football team. They're big and strong and they played better than we did. We hadn't anticipated their defense and it surprised us a little bit. But we fumbled a kickoff at our 14 and gave them an easy touchdown. You can't give the defense credit for that one."

Whatever the reason, All-American fullback Steve Worster was braked with 42 yards on 16 carries and Bertelsen carried eight times for a scant five yards. Only on an 18-play, 84-yard scoring drive in the second period did Texas look like the machine that chewed up 30 consecutive opponents, 10 this season.

The butter-fingered Texans also lost five of their nine fumbles, with Worster bobbling four and losing three, and the miracles Texas fans have come to expect from their enchanted Longhorns never materialized.

Meanwhile, All-American quarterback Joe Theismann sparked the Irish to a 21-3 after only 16½ minutes with a 26-yard touchdown pass to Tom Gatewood and scoring runs of three and 15 yards. The second TD followed Danny Lester's fumble of a kickoff at the Texas 14.

Phillips, Texas' slippery quarterback, was named the outstanding offensive player. He carried 23 times for 164 yards and completed nine of 17 passes for 199 yards before he was knocked groggy and sidelined with nine minutes left. His total of 363 yards broke the record of 279 set by Theismann a year ago.

Stanford Upsets OSU in Rose Bowl

a 32-yard run to the advance.

Stanford cut the margin to a single point early in the second half on a 48-yard field goal by Horowitz, a Rose Bowl record by four yards.

OSU promptly stretched the lead to four points on Fred Schram's 32-yard field goal in this 57th Rose Bowl.

The Buckeyes mounted further momentum late in the third period and drove to Stanford's 19. On the next play, the game's entire complexion reversed.

On a fourth down with inches to go, Stanford linebacker John Kadziel threw Brockington for a one-yard loss and Stanford took over.

Plunkett promptly marched his club upfield to the Ohio State 37. With a third down and 15, Plunkett sent wide receiver Randy Vataha wide to the left with tight end Bob Moore lined up on that side, too.

No. 1 Target

"Randy was the No. 1 target, but Jim was forced to run," explained Moore. "On that kind of broken play, my instructions are to run to the flag at the end zone.

"When I saw the ball coming, all I could think of was that it was going to be a touchdown."

Moore leaped high for a spectacular catch, falling down at the two. Three plays later Brown went over from the one, and the Indians were ahead.

Defensive back Jack Schultz capped matters by intercepting a Kern pass at the OU 25. Two plays later, Vataha caught a 10-yard touchdown throw from Plunkett.

Kern, despite suffering a charleyhorse late in the game, led all rushers with 129 yards and the Bucks outgained Stanford, 439 yards to 408. The losers held a 22-21 edge in first downs.

But the big difference was Plunkett. In addition to his great passing, he changed at least half of his plays at the line of scrimmage after noting Ohio State's defensive positioning.

Top Ranked Quints Will Face New Foes

UCLA to Test Dayton, Warriors Play at Detroit

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

UCLA and South Carolina bring their smash road hits home tonight and that's news.

Good news for UCLA and South Carolina ... and bad news for Dayton and Clemson.

Top-ranked UCLA, the Steel Bowl tourney winner, hosts Dayton and second-rated South Carolina, the Holiday Festival champ, entertains Clemson in a big night of post-holiday basketball games.

While UCLA and South Carolina are doing the entertaining, it's doubtful that Dayton and Clemson will enjoy their visits. Both the Bruins and Gamecocks are tough at home.

UCLA has lost a total of four games overall in five years and Coach Tom Wooden isn't used to losing anywhere—home or away. In 24 years, he's won over 500 games for a 77.4 winning percentage.

Forwards Sidney Wicks and Curtis Rowe are the reasons for UCLA's success of late.

"Sidney is doing it all," says Wooden, "and Rowe has never played a bad basketball game in his three years here."

The Uclans have been averaging a little under 100 points a game this year and have held opponents to about 25 points less.

Along with Adolph Rupp of Kentucky and Wooden, Coach Frank McGuire is the only active major college coach winning more than 70 per cent of his career games. In 20 seasons, McGuire has a 71.1 percentage, including a 25-3 mark last year and 8-0 this season.

McGuire doesn't think about records, though.

"They told me the other day I won my 100th game at South Carolina in the Holiday Festival," said McGuire. "I didn't know—because I don't think about milestones, just winning."

Third-ranked Marquette, winner of the Milwaukee Classic, travels to Detroit; fourth-ranked Southern California, the Trojan Invitational winner, hosts No. 18 Louisiana State and No. 5 Western Kentucky plays at East Tennessee.

Menasha St. Patrick Risks Unbeaten Mark In Boys League Play

The Catholic Boys Basketball League, after a week's layoff, resumes play today and Sunday with a card featured by two games matching once-beaten teams.

Menasha St. John, the undisputed leader with a 6-0 record, is host to Menasha St. Patrick (1-5). Appleton St. Pius (5-1) is at Kaukauna Holy Cross (5-1) and Little Chute St. John (5-1) visits Kimberly Holy Name (5-1).

Other pairings are New London Precious Blood (0-6) at Neenah St. Gabriel (0-6), Appleton St. Joseph (4-2) at Appleton Sacred Heart (3-3), Appleton St. Thomas More (0-6) at Menasha St. Mary (3-3), Neenah St. Margaret Mary (3-3) at Kaukauna St. Mary (1-5) and St. Bernadette (4-2) at Appleton St. Mary (3-3).

Racing Head Dies

SEATTLE (AP) — Joseph Gottstein, 79, president of Longacres Race Track, died Friday night.

Gottstein was a founder of the Thoroughbred Racing Association of the United States.

No Further Snow Expected

Baltimore Field In Good Condition

BALTIMORE (AP) — "It was better today than it was last week against the (Cincinnati) Bengals," said John Mackey after a New Years Day workout for the Baltimore Colts at Memorial Stadium.

Mackey's sentiments were echoed by virtually the entire team, despite a seven-inch snowfall that began New Years Eve and required the efforts of some 316 workers with assorted machinery to clear the playing field.

The turf had been covered with a tarpaulin as a precaution before the storm, and groundskeepers speculated that the snow acted as an additional insulator to keep it from freezing solid.

The Oakland Raiders, who oppose the Colts in Sunday's American Football Conference championship playoff game, arrived late Friday and were scheduled to work out this afternoon at Memorial Stadium.

Mackey reported his injured leg in good condition Friday and demonstrated it to reporters by nearly running over teammate Mike Curtis on a pass play.

Early New Years Day, hardly a snow shovel could be heard on the sidewalks around the stadium, but inside workers had begun the heavy snow removal task at the crack of dawn.

City officials estimated that the nine-hour task cost about $15,000. Gusts of wind had whipped the snow into three-foot drifts in some sections of the playing field.

No further snow was expected before game time.

Ara Gets Revenge, Irish Reach Peak

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Notre Dame Coach Ara Parseghian tossed a whole new bag of tricks at Texas in the Cotton Bowl and the Irish whipped the top-ranked Longhorns 24-11 Friday.

"Basically what we tried to do was to mirror their Wishbone," the gleeful Parseghian said, drying off from a victory splash in the shower. "We wanted to force Texas into a passing situation, to make them come out of their full-house backfield.

"After the Arkansas game—Texas' 42-7 victory over Arkansas—I became convinced that it would be impossible to stop the Wishbone with any general defense," Parseghian said. "If we had played an eight-man line today, we would have been beaten."

Since Last Year

Parsheghian said he had been "doodling with it" since the Irish's 21-17 loss to Texas in last year's Cotton Bowl. "I talked to Darrell Royal about their Wishbone during the off-season. We wanted to learn more about it."

By forcing the ground-oriented Longhorns into a passing situation, Parseghian explained, the Horns would be left with three backs in the backfield. Then, Notre Dame merely "mirrored" the UT backfield with three linebackers assigned to a man.

"We wanted to force Texas to pass and this is what they did," Parseghian said. "But that (quarterback Eddie) Phillips almost ruined it for us."

30 Game Streak Broken

The victory climaxed a 10-1 season for the Irish.

"In 21 years of coaching, I've been in some excited dressing rooms," Parseghian said. "But I've never experienced anything like this. You've gotta realize these guys just broke a 30-game winning streak. But that's what streaks are for ... to break."

In addition to the surprise defense, Parseghian also employed a quick-kick on third down that went 74 yards and used defensive back Clarence Ellis as a receiver on offense for one play.

Ellis' pass reception was complete for 37 yards. "It was a surprise to me too," said Ellis, who was named outstanding defensive player of the game.

East JVs Win Over Burlington

The Appleton East junior varsity basketball team boosted its record to 6-2 recently with a 44-27 non-conference win over Burlington.

The Junior Patriots, who took a 20-7 halftime lead, were led by Jim Vandenberg, with 10 points. Dan Heinritz added eight.

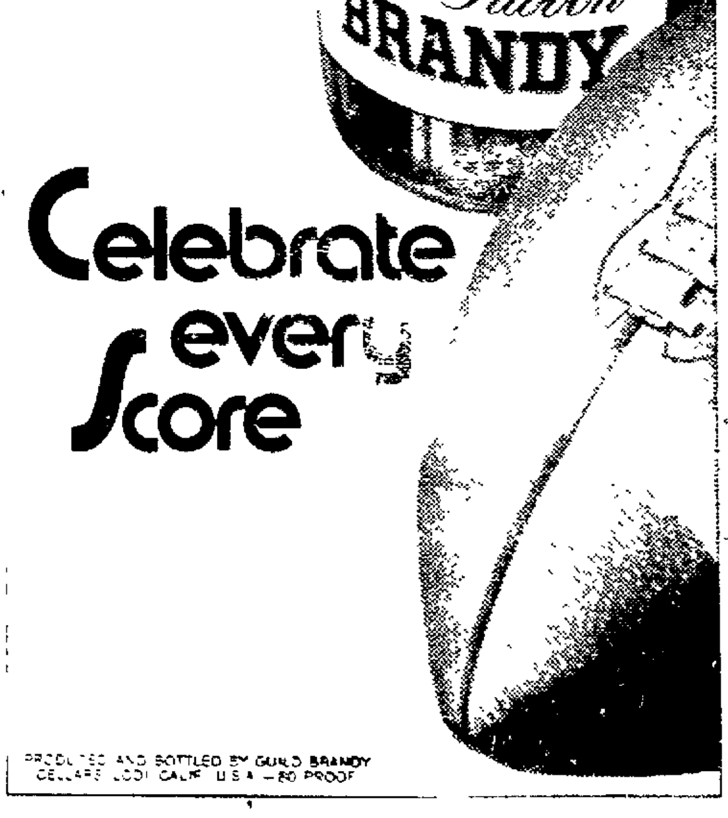

2 Area Teams Enter Reedsville Tourney

Kaukauna St. Aloysius meets Manitowoc St. Mary this afternoon in the Reedsville Athletic Association's annual grade school basketball tournament.

The only other Fox Cities area team entered is Freedom St. Nicholas, which faces Kellnersville St. Joseph Sunday night.

Panel Views Changes

Goals Same But Ministers Differ on Image of Roles

The reasons men enter the ministry and the reasons they remain in it are about the same for all but the images of the role and duty of clergymen in today's world are as many as the men seeking that profession.

That seemed to be the consensus of a six-member panel consisting of college students who hope to enter the ministry, seminarians and ministers at a seminar Monday.

It was sponsored by the Winnebago Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church and the Northeast Wisconsin Association, United Church of Christ (UCC).

Representing UCC were the Rev. John Baumann, Kiel, a pastor for 20 years; N. Hengel Nordstrom, Oshkosh, a last-year student at Chicago Theological Seminary, and Jeff Nichols, Green Bay, a Carroll College student.

Presbyterian representatives were the Rev. Sam Buffat, Stevens Point; the Rev. Ted Jackson, graduate of McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago, ordained six months ago and serving a parish in Merrill, and Don Rueff, a University of Wisconsin graduate who plans to enter a seminary next fall.

The Rev. Gordon Gravener, director of the American Foundation of Religion and Psychiatry, Green Bay, acted as moderator.

It was an effort to determine how views change from the time of their decision to the time of fulfillment and after.

Our Purpose

As each man spoke, it was obvious all of them had accepted the call and decided to stay in the field for one major reason — to work with and help people.

However, all found it difficult to pinpoint what their role in a changing society should be.

Society is past the stage where they accept the old-style idea of a minister who knew all and as such was the dispenser of truth and justice," said Baumann.

And I must admit I am glad of it because it gives me freedoms I didn't have 20 years ago," he added.

"It gives me the opportunity to be honest — to answer 'I don't know' to a question I can't answer; it lets me say such things as 'I can't speak for the church but my view is ...'

"But at the same time ministry still gives me the opportunity to instill hope in people and to be there when they need me. It gives me all the freedoms of today while I still do what I intended to do when I entered the ministry — work with people," he said.

His ideas were apparently evolved with time and tempered by two decades in the field because a somewhat different picture of the role in society was painted by a newly-ordained minister.

Mixed Map

"It is a mixed map of frustrations and rewards," stated Jackson. "And the seminary didn't prepare me for the scale of each of these."

Using the vernacular of today, the young man outlined the "uppers and downers" he has experienced during the half year in Merrill.

"I thought the ministerial alliance is great. It gives one the opportunity to get together with one's colleagues. But I found a lack of depth because discussions were non-threatening and neutral.

"A great upper was that ministers are asked to join many local service committees. But going along with that is the downer that they aren't expected to say much, just lend credibility to the group," he cited as examples.

In short, Jackson concluded, we are expected to be what we are not in society and it is up to us to cut our own road and act accordingly."

Not Certain

Buffat, who is somewhere between the two in both age and experience, admitted that he has not yet formulated his ideas of precisely what it means to be an ordained minister.

"I don't know, exactly, what the full functions are, but I do know that other fields and professions have the same hangups and I have found that there is more freedom in the church to do what you feel your role calls you to do," he explained.

That role, however, he indicated, must be evolved. It is not given to one during his years of learning, nor in his ordination vows.

The fact that the seminary doesn't always prepare men for what is expected of them in the outside world was echoed by Nordstrom who told the group that there are a fantastic number of courses the seminary teaches "but it doesn't teach how it really is."

The young man who serves as a student minister at Rosendale, Wis., admitted that he was all set to "hang it up" after one year in the seminary but decided to continue after he got into the program which let him receive "on-the-job training."

"I didn't enter it to learn how to write term papers, that's not my career. I entered the seminary to learn professionalism," he added.

Representing the other end of the pole were the two young men who have not yet received seminary training. Strangely enough, their idealogical ideas of the ministry seemed to mesh quite well with those of the older men who had been out for years.

"I want involvement with people on a higher level than just listening to their problems. I want to go beyond the social worker's and psychiatrist's role," explained Nichols.

Adding to that, Rueff said, "The ministry should have more of a balance of theological truths and action." It's not enough, he indicated, to speak from the pulpit; if you are truly concerned, you will carry out those ideas through involvement.

The progression of images from the hopeful ones of the college students, to the strong and somewhat frustrated ones of the seminarians, ending with the tempered ones of the men with years of experience, prompted the moderator to remind the group of the saying:

"Everything has its impact. The church recruits them as lambs; the seminary trains them to become tigers and the congregations try to make pussycats out of them."

Area Delegates To Take Part In UCC Parley

Methodist Bishop R. T. Alton Will be Featured Speaker

A number of area people and representatives of local congregations are expected to take an active part in the lay conference of the Northeast Association of the United Church of Christ Jan. 9 in Sheboygan.

The Rev. Dr. Ralph T. Alton, bishop of the Wisconsin Conference, United Methodist Church and formerly pastor of an Appleton church, will give the theme, "What Will Happen to the Church in the 70's."

About 200 laymen are expected to attend.

The bishop's address will be followed by group discussions and by a reactor panel made up of Alton, Mrs. Edgar Dickey, the Rev. Robert Findlay, and the Rev. Paul H. Olm, executive minister of the association, all of Appleton, and William Lammers, Plymouth.

A summary statement will be made by the Rev. Mrs. Arthur Snow, pastor of Christ Congregational Church, Clintonville. Paul Fargot, Oshkosh, is chairman of the Association's Division on Lay Life and Work. He will serve as panel moderator.

The Rev. Gerald Wick, pastor of Peace UCC, Shawano, is general chairman. Arrangements for the event are being made by Mrs. Kenneth Bohannon, Sheboygan; Edgar Combs, New London; Harold Richter and Mrs. Roy Thiel Jr., both of Fond du Lac.

Today in History

Today is Saturday, Jan. 2, the second day of 1971. There are 363 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1942, in the early days of World War II fighting in the Pacific, the Japanese captured the Philippine capital of Manila.

On this date:

In 1492, the Spaniards took Granada from the Moors.

In 1788, Georgia became the fourth state to ratify the U.S. Constitution.

In 1890, Miss Alice Sanger of Indianapolis reported for work as a White House stenographer. She was the first woman to be employed by the office of the president.

In 1900, the U.S. announced agreement on an open door policy in China, providing equal rights to nations trading with the Chinese.

In 1921, religious services were broadcast for the first time—by radio station KDKA in Pittsburgh.

In 1960, Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts announced his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Ten years ago — The U.N. Security Council met to hear Cuba's charge that the United States was plotting aggression against her.

Five years ago — There was a subway strike and a bus strike in New York as the new mayor, John Lindsay, took office.

Dependents of Missing GIs Can Get Education Benefits

MILWAUKEE — The Veterans Administration has announced a new law which provides education benefits for wives and children where a serviceman has been listed as missing in action for more than 90 days or was captured in the line of duty by a hostile force.

Wives and children can receive as much as $175 education assistance a month for attending school on a full-time basis. Home loan provisions also [illegible] are available for such wives.

[illegible] J. Mollica, director of the Milwaukee Veterans Administration Regional Office, also announced that servicemen on active duty now are eligible to receive education assistance from the Veterans Administration after they have served 181 days.

He also stated that increases in payments [illegible] because of acquiring an additional dependent through marriage, birth or adoption [illegible] be paid from the date the event occurred if dependency proof is received within one year of that date.

Further information on this new legislation may be received by writing to the Veterans Administration Regional Office at 342 North Water Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin 53202. The telephone number is Area Code 414 224-1101.

A Real Bargain

Vatican Supermarket

ROME (AP) — The Vatican's supermarket and its tax-free cigarettes and cheap gasoline came under fire this week.

A Dutch member of the European Parliament asked why the tiny church-state with 900 residents would need to import three million pounds of French and West German butter a year.

A Rome newspaper said the butter, meat, liquor and other Vatican-sold items were finding their way into Rome where Italian prices are far higher.

Bargain Shop

The Vatican bargains, no secret around town, have touched off a lot of jokes. One of the three filling stations in the Vatican sells BP (British Petroleum). Some wags are calling it Buon Pastore (Good Pastor). The Vatican BP has prompted a parody of an advertising slogan: "With Buon Pastore, put a priest in your motore."

The Vatican's bargain shop is a big, modern supermarket-type store just inside one entrance to Vatican City.

Shoppers must have a green purchase permit issued by the Vatican. Rome's daily Il Messaggero says 4,000 employes and dependents are entitled to the permits in addition to the Vatican's 900 residents.

Newspapers suggest that the purchase permits may be handed around from friend to friend until many times that number of persons are buying.

The Vatican's L'Osservatore Romano said the Dutch protester, M. H. Vredeling, was wrong in his butter figures. The newspaper said the Vatican bought no butter from France last year but did purchase 208 million pounds of French sugar. Vredeling complained the Common Market butter was getting into Italy through the Vatican at less than Common Market prices.

L'Osservatore said 152,240 pounds of West German butter was purchased, plus Austrian and Danish butter in quantities not stated.

Quite a Number

Considering that not only Vatican employes but priests and nuns and religious institutes might all be eligible for permits, the Vatican newspaper said the total number of legitimate purchasers could well run into "tens of thousands."

Purchasers are limited to 55 packs of cigarettes a month—20 Italian and 35 foreign. A double ration is allowed for major holidays. The saving is considerable, up to 30 cents a pack.

Buyers are limited to two bottles of liquor a day. Scotch whisky sells for about 45 per cent less than the price outside Vatican walls.

Meat averages 50 cents a pound less than in Rome butcher shops.

Motorists with Vatican tickets can buy regular gasoline for 48 cents a gallon, high test for 69 cents. Italian filling stations get up to 95 per cent more.

Congressional Signoff Anticipated for Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The longest-running Congress in 30 years creaked today toward an afternoon adjournment; apparently guaranteeing a lengthy dispute over the supersonic transport plane will be replayed when the new session convenes.

Only two items stood in the way of adjournment. One was funding of the Transportation Department through March 30 —including money for the SST. The other: the adjournment resolution.

Both items cleared the House Thursday.

And Senate action on both apparently was assured when Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chief opponent of the SST, reportedly agreed to allow the government to subsidize the high-speed plane for another three months.

Interim Measure

Without that agreement, there was little chance the Senate would approve the interim money measure for the Transportation Department before the 91st Congress is required to call it quits by noon Sunday.

But Proxmire, by agreeing to drop his filibuster against the SST, reportedly won an agreement for a separate vote on the aircraft in March.

The $290 million requested for development of the 1,800-mile-an-hour plane is included in the $2.6-billion transportation money bill. The Senate voted earlier to eliminate the SST appropriation, the House voted to keep it and a conference committee settled on $210 million.

The same bill carries money for the Federal Aviation Administration, the Coast Guard, the highway program and a host of other transportation projects. Because of parliamentary procedures, the Senate would have had to kill the entire transportation bill to get rid of the SST.

President Nixon, in signing Friday a resolution convening the new Congress Jan. 21, cautioned that if the Senate failed to approve the interim transportation appropriation—with the SST money—he would have no alternative but to call a special session before that date.

Before lengthy sessions earlier in the week, the SST was but one of several roadblocks to adjournment. But one by one the House and Senate chipped away at the backlog—approving some major proposals and shelving others—until nothing else remained.

A major casualty was a bill raising benefits for 26 million Social Security recipients. The House approved a package based on a 5 per cent increase in benefits; the Senate voted for a 10 per cent hike.

Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said too little time remained to compromise the differences but promised a new attempt—with benefits retroactive to Jan 1—when the 92nd Congress convenes.

Another bill pushed aside in the final days was a Nixon administration request for $1.5 billion to help aid desegregation of schools.

Action was completed on bills extending the food stamp program for three years; revising procedures for raising the pay of federal employes and providing for virtually semi-automatic annual increases; extending excise taxes on new cars and telephone calls; appropriating $2.5 billion for foreign aid, and funding interstate highway construction through 1976.

Cigarette Commercials End With A Bang

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The cigarette commercial bowed off television Friday night after a $1.25 million fling by Philip Morris up to midnight.

The last commercial on network television was a 60-second revue from flapper to Female Lib for Virginia Slims on NBC's "Tonight" show at exactly one minute before the midnight deadline.

Philip Morris bought all of the time of the three late-night talk shows and time on the Friday Night Movie, but the heaviest investments were in the Sugar, Cotton and Rose Bowls—all touting Marlboro Country for the male audience.

In all, Philip Morris purchased 25½ minutes on the networks for final plugs for Marlboros, Virginia Slims, Parliament and Benson & Hedges.

The R. J. Reynolds Co. bought seven minutes including four in the Orange Bowl telecast and two in the Sugar Bowl, for Winston, Salem, Camel Filters and Doral.

The prohibition against cigarette commercials on television and radio, passed by Congress, went into effect at midnight Friday.

The ABC Evening News Friday night screened a series of vintage cigarette commercials, opening and closing the segment with the original Johnny calling for Philip Morris.

Liggett & Myers and Lorillard each bought a minute on ABC's Tom Jones Show for the only other network purchases.

The other cigarette makers bought time on local stations for spot announcements or bought no time at all for the final day. None bought time on network radio Friday.

The final network commercials began shortly after noon on NBC's coverage of the Tournament of Roses Parade. The demographic appeal to women was in evidence there as the cigarettes advertised were Benson & Hedges, Virginia Slims and Parliament.

Soon afterwards, the appeal to male football fans, and the prices, also rose. NBC asked $135,000 a minute for the Rose Bowl, but regular advertisers rarely pay the full asking price.

NBC asked $75,000 a minute for the Orange Bowl, CBS $70,000 for the Cotton Bowl, and ABC $53,000 for the Sugar Bowl.

Experts to Examine Mine After Explosion

HYDEN, Ky. (AP) — Federal and state inspectors enter the Finley Coal Co. mine today searching for the cause of an explosion that claimed the lives of 38 miners last Wednesday.

The inspection team is headed by James Westfield, an assistant inspector for the U.S. Bureau of Mines, and H. N. Kirkpatrick, state commissioner of mines and minerals.

"We will start without previous thoughts of prejudices," Westfield said. "The cause of the explosion will be so apparent that even a child can see it."

Speculation prior to the actual investigation centered on the disaster being caused by a combination of explosives and coal dust.

Everett Barlett, local supervisor for the state Department of Mines and Minerals, crawled through the right shaft during rescue attempts Wednesday and Thursday.

Explosives Involved

"Explosives were involved in it . . . probably more than the coal dust," he said.

Bartlett said he felt the initial explosion occurred in a personnel carrier that reportedly was carrying a cargo of explosives at about the time of the disaster

He said rescue workers found the personnel carrier about 1,600 feet into the mine.

"I felt like that was where it happened," Barlett said. "We found three bodies there. They were torn up much worse than any others that I saw."

He added, however, that his conclusion were based on hasty observation, made while wearing a gas mask and "we were not spending a whole lot of extra time looking around."

While the actual on-site investigation is expected to be completed within a short time, the official cause of the blast may not be known until after a lengthy hearing.

Separate services for two victims were conducted Friday and individual services for the remainder will be conducted during the weekend.

Mayors Marry While in Office

ROSELLE PARK, N.J. (AP) — The mayor's office here is no bachelor's paradise.

Mayor Eugene J. Carmody announced during a New Year's Day meeting of the borough council that he will marry Miss Rosemary McDevitt of Summit. This will make Carmody the fourth mayor to marry while in office and the third in eight years.

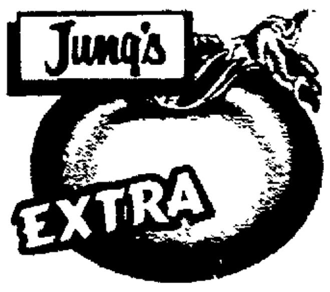

Carmody, 36, became engaged Christmas Eve to Miss McDevitt after a four-year courtship.

Previous mayors were married in office in 1954, 1962 and 1964.

Manitowoc County Employes at Work

MANITOWOC (AP) — Negotiators for Manitowoc County and Local 986 of the American Federation of State County and municipal Employes agreed Friday night to extend their work contract on a day to day basis.

The workers voted Thursday to go on strike Monday morning.

Our Lower Profile in Asia

In the Nixon Administration's efforts to present a "lower profile" militarily throughout Asia, as well as wind down our participation in active combat in Indochina, it's been announced that 26,000 ground troops will be withdrawn from South Korea.

But this isn't the whole picture.

Actually we have about the same number of ground troops in Korea — about 50,000 — as the Koreans do in Vietnam, which can be regarded as some sort of a trade-out or merely an attempt to prove that we have allies in Vietnam. But there are other pressures upon the United States — primarily political — which demand that lower profile while at the same time Asian leaders may be biting their finger nails about our leaving completely.

Okinawa is to revert to complete Japanese control in 1972. The opposition to the American military presence, not only on Okinawa but in Japan, is something the political leaders in Japan must consider seriously. There are not so many unfortunate incidents between American servicemen and Japanese civilians as occur, for instance, in the Philippines. But we can become a political issue not only for the Communist-inspired or others on the far left, but for those who remember Hiroshima and Nagasaki and want no part of an American inspired vendetta against mainland China, however remote that appears to be.

In Japan, the United States is virtually returning the naval repair yard at Yokusuka, although one drydock remains, which is the only one west of Hawaii with equipment to repair aircraft carriers. Three squadrons of 4-F Phantom fighter bomber jets have been removed from Japan — but sent to Korea. And while a small group of F-102 Delta Dagger planes, based in Okinawa, will no longer be available to the South Koreans, long range aircraft from a base near Tokyo now will be. And, until the change-over in Okinawan administration, two F-4 Phantom jet squadrons will transfer from Japan to Okinawa.

A number of military experts, including the late General Douglas MacArthur, have warned the United States against ever getting involved in a land war in Asia, a tragedy we had to find out for ourselves or through the misunderstandings of our commanders in chief. But maintaining a military presence in Asia — even on a virtually unnoticeable level — is another matter. It is clear that many Asian leaders hope that we will, although their motives are not necessarily noble. Japan rests secure under our nuclear umbrella. Leaders in the Philippines know we could not tolerate a Communist invasion of that country, despite the considerable Huk activity which is probably local banditry rather than ideological Marxist. We even prevented the take over of Quemoy and Matsu, unimportant islands but politically a bete noir to the Nationalist Chinese.

Can our air power keep peace in the Pacific? It has not in Vietnam. The limits of air power have become even more apparent there than in World War II when in the final event ground combat troops had to take over. It is possible that the threat of our air power may deter war but this argument would have been more acceptable had we been able to do the job in Vietnam.

In the long run the Asian nations must once again take on the major responsibility for their own defense or perhaps, to be more realistic, for their own diplomatic negotiations, without holding the threat of American intervention over their opponent's heads.

Your Investment in Your Children

How much is a child worth to his parents?

The question is not one which can be answered in monetary terms, most parents would assert. The worth of a young life is measured in things like love, devotion and sometimes even sacrifice.

Yet raising a child in the manner most of us would consider normal is not inexpensive. An investment of $34,000 is no small sum. That figure is the average spent by Outagamie County parents to raise a child to age 18. It is well over three times the average yearly income per family in the county.

Perhaps that figure gives one more indication of how important an act the bringing of a child into the world really is. Population control is a vital part of the effort to rebalance our planet ecologically. For those who aren't worried about such things, maybe considering the financial impact of a child will convince them that children should be planned like every other major expenditure ... and considered carefully like other acts of love.

Russian Reaction to Hijackings

The Russians yawned during all the skyjacking episodes in this country, most of which came from Cubans wanting to get to that Communist controlled country in the Caribbean. They didn't make much of a fuss over the three successful and one abortive hijackings of planes to the Middle East by Arab extremists.

But then they discovered or at least claimed they did, a conspiracy in Russia to hijack a plane to fly some Russian Jews to Israel. Two of the conspirators were condemned to be shot although no plane was ever stolen. Others have received heavy prison sentences and reportedly there are more arrests and trials contemplated.

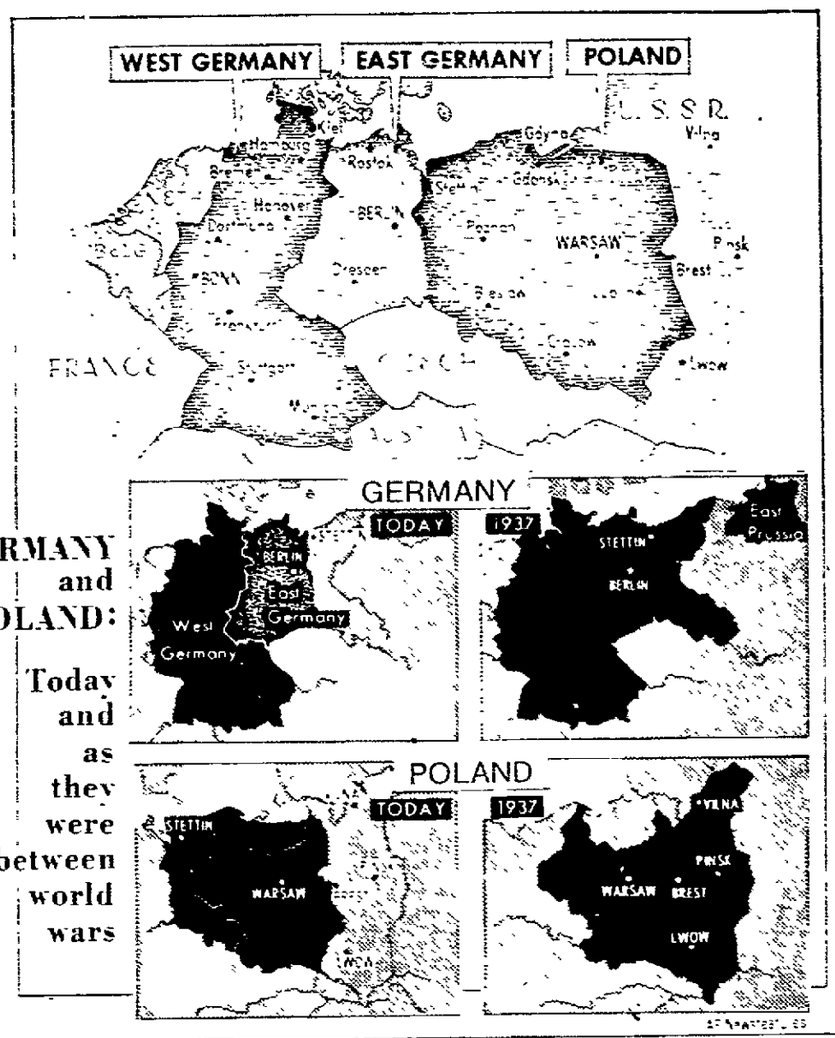

In no way can the hijacking of commercial planes be condoned. Whatever the legal elements, the danger to innocent passengers from what may well be gun-happy hijackers, hopped up on goodness knows what, is immense. Most nations, including Cuba, have cooperated in returning hijacked planes and passengers safely as soon as possible. The Arab nations did not in the case of the four hijacked to Syria but in a way they couldn't because the commando liberation movement has been out of government control for some time. But negotiations in those cases saved the passengers if not the planes.

However, the heavy Russian penalties to the conspiracy they have announced seem aimed not so much as a deterrent to hijacking as to discourage efforts of Jews and others to get out of the Soviet Union. There have been a number of Russian Jews who have applied unsuccessfully for exit visas. This is quite different from the motives of the hijackers to Cuba, for instance, who could have gone legally, even with their expenses paid.

The Soviet authorities have responded a little to the outcries in the West which they apparently didn't expect. They must have thought they would have received sympathy from Western nations because of the rash of hijackings in this part of the world. They have complained that after all one defendant's wife and two daughters and the pregnant wife of another were absolved of any conspiracy, although charges had been brought against them. They insist this is a hijacking and not a national problem and certainly not at all anti-Semitic in origin.

But the doubts remain. A growing number of Jews living in Russia want out. It's the same old business of fear that emigration means doubts as to the home land—which it does—and the old iron curtain clanging down once more.

German-Polish Treaty Ends Many Years of Antagonism

BY S. CHARLES ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

The recent signing in Warsaw of a treaty between the Federal Republic of West Germany and Poland marked the end of many years of German-Polish antagonism, and of more than eight centuries of direct German involvement in Eastern Europe.

When West German Chancellor Willy Brandt, along with Polish Premier Stefan Cyrankiewicz, signed the document, he officially renounced West Germany's claim to more than 40,000 square miles of territory which formerly constituted about one-fourth of the old German Reich.

He also took a step which, from the end of the second world war until recent years, had been unthinkable to many West Germans.

That step, however, was the first toward an objective long advocated by German liberals — "Begegnung," or reconciliation, with Poland after centuries of enmity.

End Political Isolation

In a larger sense, the treaty is an integral, essential component of Brandt's "Ostpolitik," or Eastern Policy, which seeks to overcome the political isolation in which Germans found themselves vis-a-vis Eastern Europe after the war.

While West Germany's treaty is substantively only a pact between herself and Poland, it would not have been possible without at least the benevolence of Moscow.

The Soviet Union's attitude toward the treaty, in turn, seems to signal a thaw in relations between herself and West Germany — contrasted with two decades of postwar Soviet propaganda which labeled West Germany "revanchist" and "neo-Nazi."

Perhaps the most important political fact behind the treaty is that the Soviet Union and her client, Poland, felt it advisable to conclude any agreement at all with West Germany concerning lands which border, not on the Federal Republic, but on East Germany, Walter Ulbricht's German Democratic Republic.

In 1950, shortly after it was created, the Communist East German government recognized the new German-Polish border, the Oder-Neisse Line, as an "inviolable peace and friendship line between Germany and Poland."

Since then, the official East German attitude has been that the question of the lost eastern territories was resolved once and for all, and in any case was of no legitimate concern to West Germany.

Now, 20 years later, the Warsaw Pact powers have recognized — probably over Ulbricht's objections — a legitimate West German interest in these territories. The reason for this reflect a European concern for historical precedent not widely understood in the United States.

Settlers Resettled

The lands taken from defeated Germany after the second world war include the provinces of Silesia, Pomerania and East Prussia, and the Baltic ports of Stettin on the Oder and Danzig on the Vistula.

All told, these territories were home to between eight million and 10 million Germans, most of whom were brutally uprooted and transported to concentration camps during the war.

An estimated 500,000 Germans remained behind in the eastern territories, which at one time supplied food for nearly half the Reich. Slowly, over the years, the territories have been repopulated with Polish settlers, many of them driven from the part of eastern Poland annexed by the Soviet Union.

It might be argued that by signing a treaty with West Germany, Poland and the Soviet Union are adding legal respectability to the division of Germany.

It seems more probable, however, that the Warsaw Pact powers are genuinely interested in a general detente between Eastern and Western Europe.

With the signing of the Polish treaty, it now seems likely that significant progress can be made in West German efforts to reduce tension and increase contacts, especially economic contracts, with Eastern Europe.

Berlin Question Next

It seems likely that real progress can be expected toward a reduction of tensions between the two Germanies, and toward an amicable solution to the Berlin question.

The treaty also means that the Soviet Union and East Germany will find it difficult to stress the supposed threat of "neo-Nazi imperialism" in an effort to keep West Germany isolated from Eastern Europe.

It means that West Germany herself is undergoing a change in political orientation which ultimately will make her less dependent on her Western allies of the NATO pact, and more her own master in foreign policy.

The major question now is whether the West Germans themselves are willing to abandon the dogma of postwar politics for the potential economic and political gains of a realistic approach to the European situation.

Carrier Boy's Public 'Thank-You'

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Jan. 7, 1871.

Our carrier boy desires his warmest thanks to be returned to the people of Appleton generally for the very generous patronage bestowed upon him on Monday last — New Year's Day.

His pockets were made plethoric by the dimes, quarters and half dollars showered upon him during his tour with the beautifully written address presented the friends and patrons of The Crescent. It was written (The Carrier's Address) by one of Appleton's most charming and gifted maidens, and was awarded a high mood of praise by its many readers.

Not receiving the "copy" until the Friday evening before it was printed, we were compelled to issue it more hastily than we liked.

25 YEARS AGO
Saturday, Dec. 29, 1945.

According to Post-Crescent reporter Miss Charlotte McIntyre, both the Terrors and Neenah outclassed their basketball opponents in the Neenah High gymnasium the previous night. The versatile reporter based in the Neenah-Menasha office wrote the following description: "Appleton and Neenah went on shooting sprees last night to down the Milwaukee suburban teams, Whitefish Bay and Wauwatosa, 51 to 24 and 51 to 36, respectively, in the first of two double-header basketball games in the Neenah gymnasium last night."

There was little doubt about the outcome of either game, Miss McIntyre reported. "It wasn't because the suburban cage teams didn't try, they just couldn't shoot. Whitefish Bay had the poorest record with only about 15 per cent of its shots connecting for counters while Wautosa made good on 23 per cent of its attempts. Appleton was making 35 per cent of its baskets count on the scoreboard while Neenah, out of its shooting slump for the first time in about four games, hit 40 per cent of its tries at the hoop."

10 YEARS AGO
Saturday, Dec. 31, 1960.

Winners in the grade school divisions of the annual free throw contest sponsored by Neenah Recreation Association were Dick Sorensen, 8th grade; Don Steffin, 7th grade; Mike Pavich, 6th grade, and Paul Drzewiecki, 5th grade.

Members of the Clintonville chapter, Future Farmers of America (FFA) named winners in the annual corn yield contest were Richard Kortbein, Dennis Hansen, Dan Frederick, Dan Behnke, LeRoy Klemp and Dale Wait. E. A. Hutchinson was club adviser.

Dr. John Swanson, senior research associate at the Institute of Paper Chemistry, was to speak before fellow members of the Lake States section of the Technical Association of the Pulp and Paper Industry (TAPPI).

Wisconsin Report

Government by Far Is State's Fastest Growing Employer

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — In the puffery that accompanied the publication of the "Mission 70" report compiled by the State Department of Local

Wyngaard

Affairs and Development, the most important of the comparatively few tangible conclusions somehow has had almost no public attention.

In the review of the nonfarm labor market trends in the state the document acknowledged that the state's experience during the last five years has been less favorable than that of the country as a whole. Then it cited a fact that has had altogether too little attention in the endless discussions and conferences and reports on the Wisconsin economy, namely:

Government has been the state's fastest growing employer.

Rose 34 Per Cent

During the last five years, the number of jobs paid for out of taxes or their equivalent in long term debt accumulation, has risen about 34 per cent.

During that period governmental employment in the country as a whole rose by only 27.4 per cent.

During that period manufacturing employment in the state rose by only 10.3 per cent, which contrasted with a gain of 16.5 per cent in the nation. Remembering that Wisconsin has been boasting about its industrialization and that its planners acknowledge industry as the best reliance for the state's economy in the future, that is a comparison that should be pasted into hats.

Perhaps realizing the curious contrast in a Wisconsin industrial employment lag and a Wisconsin public employment advance over the rest of the country, the magnum opus of the "Mission 70" thinkers, as prepared by the bright young men of DLAD, concludes that another huge leap forward in Wisconsin government employment is not likely in the next five years.

Major Reasons Cited

There are two major reasons, it is said:

1. "Wisconsin taxpayers would be reluctant to finance another such increase in government employment."

To which the rank and file citizen may remark: "What else is new?"

But the fuzzy conception of this document and its authors is best disclosed in the second of the "two major reasons," to wit:

2. "Wisconsin probably does not need so large a rise of government employment in the years ahead."

The document then labors the familiar argument about the post-World War II baby crop and its echoes in school construction and operation costs, the boom in college enrollments, the need for new schoolteachers and plant expansion at every educational level, etc., etc.

Fatigued by Repetition

That is plausible enough with respect to the growth of the governmental services nationwide, although it may be doubted that there is a literate taxpayer in this country who has not become fatigued with the repetition.

But it begs a very important question: What makes Wisconsin distinctive with respect to the post-war birth rate, the rise in school enrollments, the expansion of higher education, etc.?

The fact is that Wisconsin has spent beyond those causes. This leads to the inevitable result that its relative tax position is also less favorable than those of many other states of the country. It provides fuel for the arguments of those who claim that the burden of taxation has a relation to economic growth and employment opportunities.

The "Mission 70" report, remembering that its producers boasted about the participation of hundreds of thinkers, that they spent seven months or more in writing the document, and that its authors were so proud of their work that they arranged for premature release of it to a Milwaukee newspaper before it reached the hands of the officers who presumably have some power to act upon its conclusions, is a clinical example of the melange that so often passes for "planning."

Is Realistic Finding

The curiously equivocal section on employment as a whole in relation to governmental expansion is singled out here because it is one of the few realistic findings in the copious volume — albeit one that a college freshman could compile in an hour from the materials at hand in any public library.

No more marvelous understatement could be composed than the observation that the people of Wisconsin will be reluctant to bear another round of tax increases such as they have endured in the last half decade. One need only peruse the current press releases of the new Democratic state administration to apprehend the extent of that reluctance even among liberals.

Student Tells Why OCTC Should be Kept Going

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

What would be the advantage of keeping our school open? Who would benefit from its extension?

Let's approach the problem objectively. To begin with all educational institutions inspire academic, cultural, aesthetic, and philosophic appreciation. In our community O.C.T.C. has inspired these appreciations in many surrounding villages and towns. Students attend from Green Bay, De Pere, Mineral Point, Little Chute, Kimberly, etc. and (even Missouri). Education raises the living standards of communities. We have to admit, considering the number of students graduated from here, O.C.T.C. has contributed to higher living standards for many within our community.

This educational institution benefits the individual in other ways. It would be economically impossible (for some who are of good potential teacher material) to obtain academic achievement elsewhere. Many who are intellectually inclined and therefore contribute to the betterment of our community would find it very inconvenient to commute to a university for four years.

Also, within these halls of ivy are students with intellectual barriers. The teacher-pupil rapport within these walls takes into consideration all students, genius as well as potential teachers with hang-ups. We are helped to rid ourselves of academic or educational philosophic barriers. We are all given equal opportunity to pursue our careers in the educational field. Our methods courses, academic achievements, involvement in social functions, as well as the persistence of perfection pursued by our administrator are all contributing factors to our advantage. We the majority would like to make it possible for others be exposed to these advantages. Let's write to the people in authority who can help us maintain the privileges of having this school in our community.

Art Institute Has Good Year

CHICAGO (AP) — The Art Institute of Chicago reports its attendance during 1969-1970 was the second highest in the museum's history with 2,392,431, a gain of 292,859 over last year.

Charles C. Cunningham, the institute's director, said contributions also increased, with $596,655 given to the Annual Contributors Fund, which was 22 per cent over the amount given last year.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Here's a little tip for you, which may help some rainy-day shoppers.

In a little while I must go to my local supermarket with my trusty shopping cart and it looks like rain. So in my purse will be my rain bonnet and one of those big green trash bags (used for leaves, etc.). This is folded flat as it comes from its box and should it rain, my purchases will go into this "raincoat" so I don't arrive home with water-logged paper bags.

Sure saves a mess.

Ann Lowe

Gals, even if you don't walk to the grocery store, it would be a good idea to carry one of these bags along on your next trip to your favorite shopping center.

You never know when you may be caught in a downpour ems" that seal bread packages.

These containers fit perfectly in the top of my dishwasher and permit ample washing action around the nipples.

A New Mother

Dear Heloise:

For those who like to sew, there's a helpful hint.

Take one of those stretch-hair bands, double it, and tack or pin it around the head of the machine. You have an instant pin cushion right at your finger tips.

Mrs. R. Burroughs

Dear Heloise:

My small strainer just isn't large enough to hold a large can of fruit when I want to drain off the juice. So I use the basket of my large percolator (party size — 30 cups).

I leave it right on the stem and set it in a bowl so I have both hands free to work with.

My small percolator basket also does double-duty this same way when we are on camping trips and our storage space is limited.

Laura Silvieus

Dear Heloise:

Some folks use the touch system when typing, some hunt-and-peck, but I just peck — so — get a tall, cold drink, an aspirin and an easy chair, cause even this will be easier to read than if I used the "writer" that God gave me.

Jon

Dear Heloise:

For those ladies who dislike getting scratches on table tops and other furniture from ash trays, vases, and other ceramic accessory pieces with rough bases, here is a trick I use that really works.

Mark the base pattern on a piece of construction paper, cut it out, and glue or tape the pattern on the bottom of the base.

If you are afraid the paper will show a bit, choose a color to blend with the accessory piece.

Carol

Dear Heloise:

I have always looked for a way to keep my cosmetics together, and, at the same time, make it easy to pick them up and put them back quickly. The solution to my problem was to buy a space-saving turntable at the local hardware store.

This turntable spins so that all my makeup and perfume is always right at my fingertips.

I hope this idea will be of help to other women with my problem.

Adam-12 Boys Busy With Con Artists

BY TV SCOUT

7:30-8 — Channel 5 — The Adam-12 boys have a few minor problems — drunk drivers and an exploding camper and arsonists — but their major concern tonight is the Johnson family. This is a group of seedy bunco artists who con homeowners with phony roof repairs, lumber deliveries and even snake-catching.

6:30-7:30 — Channels 2-7 — Mission Impossible goes to school this week. There is a campus confrontation and some corrupt politicians try to foment trouble to further their wicked ambitions. The good guys use the same tactics that work in Latin American and European countries on an American campus. Among them they pose as a policeman, a mayor, an illegitimate daughter and a millionaire.

6:30-7:30 — Channel 5 — Whatever happened to Bill Haley and the Comets? Those were the guys who had a lot to do with the beginnings of rock-and-roll and, if you've been wondering about them, watch The Andy Williams Show tonight. The boys are still alive and spouting. Petula Clark is No. 1 guest lady and Flip Wilson, 1970's hero, is also around, bringing along some of his best characters. Sly and the Family Stone round out the guest list.

8:30-9 — Channels 2-7 — The Mary Tyler Moore Show has a funny romantic story. Mary likes Paul, but she has already dated Paul's brother, Howard. Mary and Paul go to see Paul's folks and it's obvious that Howard is their pet, and they think she is Howard's girl. Howard invents things — like talking cigarette boxes and musical razors.

8:30-9:30 — Channels 11-9 — The Most Deadly Game has one of those multi-suspect murder stories. There's a group on an archeological dig in Indian caves and a girl is killed — by poison on an earring. All the others have reason to wish her dead, but the killer may surprise you.

9-10 — Channels 2-7 — Mannix (Mike Connors) is hired by a man, who is promptly killed, which naturally intrigues our hero. The plot is complicated, with everybody using phony names and having something to hide. It's about a gold theft and dishonor among gold thieves and have to make a mad dash to the car with your arms full of packages.

Dear Heloise:

Since I am breast-feeding my baby, I only need small bottles of water and juice. It is easy to put the bottles in the dishwasher, but I wanted to put the nipples, rims and tops for the nipples in the dishwasher too.

To do this, I used two plastic fruit baskets that fruit comes in and placed their open ends together, forming a container for the nipples.

I fastened them together on two opposite sides with the plastic-covered wire "twist-

London Theater Turns Both 'Sweet, Clean'

'Blue' Jokes, Smut, 4-Letter Words No Longer Fashionable Entertainment

BY DONALD M. McNICOLL

LONDON (AP) — The in-thing for the London theater this holiday season is snow-white cleanliness.

Smut and four-letter words are out. So are jokes with double meanings.

The squeamish need avoid only two West End productions. "Oh! Calcutta" and "Pyjama Tops."

Pantomimes, a traditional Christmas mixture of fairy tale and vaudeville, have not been so clean for years. Pantos, as they are abbreviated, used to be notorious for blue jokes and uproarious vulgarity. The jokes were supposed to be too subtle for the host of children in the audience, and just subtle enough for adults.

Dirty Hint

In "Aladdin" at the Palladium, the nearest thing to a doubtful exchange comes when Abanazar says, "You know what I want," and the widow Twanky replies, "Yes, but you're not going to get it."

Pantomimes are supposed to be for children. In recent years some had become so indecent that one noted British performer, Richard Hearne, spurned them.

Just about the rudest word in any of the current pantomimes is "Fatface," shouted by Mr. Toad at a policeman during his trial in "Toad of Toad Hall." The children roared their delight at this piece of abuse.

The clean touch is evident in many productions besides pantos.

One of the greatest of the clean money-spinners, of course, is Agatha Christie's murder mystery, "The Mousetrap," in it's 19th year—that's right, 19th year.

Another of the notable clean ones is "Charly Girl," a musical comedy starring Anna Neagle that has been running six years.

Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit" and J. B. Priestley's "When We Are Married" have been revived.

Herbert Kretzmer, drama critic of the Daily Express, says: "People on the whole still prefer to spend their money on good, clean, old-fashioned plays."

Finnish Textile Design Subject Of Art Lecture

Sister Mary Remy Resor, professor of art at Mount Mary College in Milwaukee, will present an illustrated lecture on Finnish textile design at 2 p.m. Friday, Jan. 8, in Lawrence University's Worcester Art Center.

Sister Remy recently returned from a year in Finland on a Fulbright Scholarship. She did research in textiles, and studied at the Helsinki School of Industrial Design, where she became acquainted with the work of many fine designers.

Sister Remy's illustrated lecture will include examples of the work of Finnish designer-craftsmen, which she finds notable for the use of blazing color and economy of artistic expression.

Her own work has been exhibited nationally and she has toured the world under the auspices of the U.S. State Department.

In addition to studying overseas under a Fulbright Scholarship, Sister Remy also has studied in Scandinavia under a Tiffany grant.

Italian Thriller Best Foreign Film

NEW YORK (AP) — "Investigation of a Citizen Above Suspicion," the thriller starring Gian Maria Volonte and Florinda Bolkan, has been selected as the official Italian entry for consideration in the Best Foreign Language Film category in this year's Academy Award nominations.

The film already has won both the Jury's Special Grand Prize and the International Critics' Prize at the Cannes Film Festival.

Car Strikes Man as He Gets Mail

OSHKOSH — Gary G Mueller, 34, 1444 Manitowoc Road, Menasha, stepped out to get the mail Thursday and spent New Year's Eve in Theda Clark Hospital with two broken legs.

Returning from the mail box across Manitowoc Road, he was struck by a car driven by Ronald E Roberts, 17, 625 S. Arlington St., Appleton, about 12:20 p.m. as it traveled west.

An accident at 2 p.m. Thursday on State 47, just south of Memorial Drive, Town of Menasha, damaged two cars involved Winnebago County police said a car driven by Louis A. Luedtke, 20, was southbound when it was struck by a car operated by Barney J. Hietpas, 71, Kaukauna, when that car began a left turn. Damage to the two cars was estimated at a combined $600

Neal H Gullikson, 27, route 1, Larsen, was advised to see a doctor for a bloody nose he sustained when his car went off the north side of State 110 about 5:50 a.m., Friday, and struck a power pole

Vehicles driven by Gregor Neiys Jr., Waupaca, and Frederic C Auslair 19, Oshkosh, were damaged about 5:15 p.m., Friday when they collided at the intersection of State 44 and County Trunk X. Winnebago County police said the Neiys car skidded into the intersection from the county trunk road, striking the second car. A passenger, Linda Poiratz, 17, Oshkosh, was advised to see a physician for a sore arm.

A 2:15 a.m., Friday accident on Brighton Beach Road, near the Milwaukee railroad tracks sent Eugene H. Laux, 21, 985 Higgins Ave., Neenah, to Theda Clark Hospital for treatment of a cut upper lip. Laux told Winnebago County sheriff's officers he slid off a curve in the icy road and struck a tree stump. His car sustained $1,300 damage.

A collision of two vehicles on N. Main St., at Prospect Avenue, Oshkosh, shortly after noon Thursday injured passengers in each car. Ivy Plabody, 55, Appleton, was advised to see a doctor for a whiplash and Wendy Brandt, 17, Oshkosh, was treated at Mercy Medical Center for a head laceration.

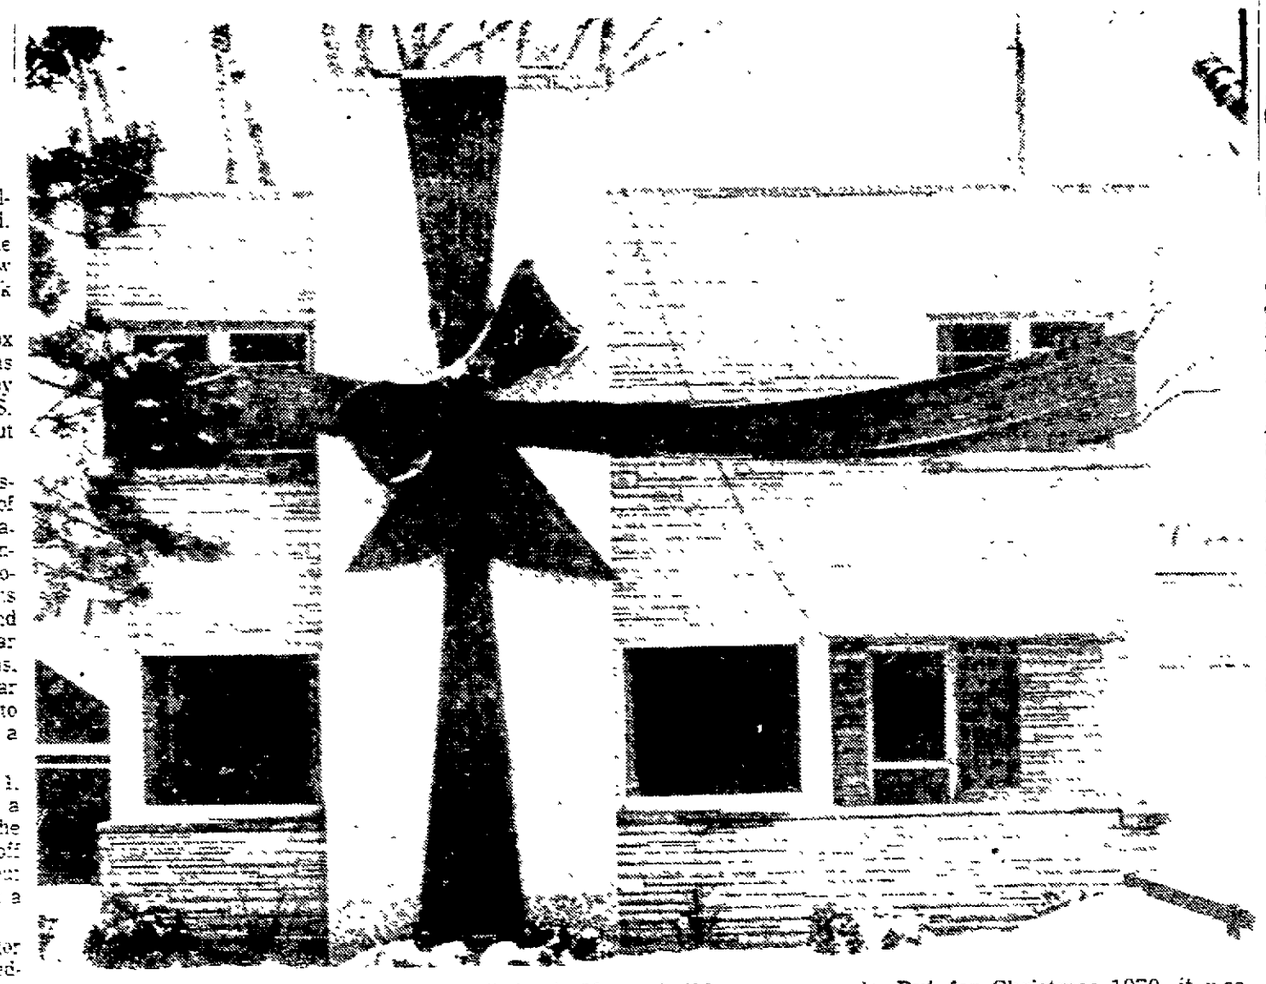

The women were injured when a car driven by Dennis R. Mueller, 17, 907 Merritt Ave., Oshkosh, slid into a car driven by Horace D. Plabody, 55, 634 Verbrick St., Appleton, as the Plabody car waited for a vehicle ahead to turn. Damage to the cars was estimated at $500.

Bergstrom Art Classes Will Begin This Week

NEENAH — The winter season of art classes sponsored by the friends of the Bergstrom Art Center will begin next week.

The adult clases will start Tuesday at the Bergstrom Art Center, 165 N Park Ave, Neenah. The children's classes will start Saturday, Jan 9.

The classes are under the direction of Mrs Thomas M. Dietrich, Appleton, who can answer questions about the courses

This Picturesque abode on Edgewater Drive in Menasha will go back to being just another home as the holiday season ends. But for Christmas 1970, it was one big "gift" for people driving by.

First Baby of 1971

Little Rohnda Gean Showered With Gifts

NEENAH-MENASHA — First baby of 1971 in the Twin Cities was a girl, born to Mr. and Mrs Joseph Selwitschka, 724 Jefferson, Town of Menasha, at 3:37 p.m. in Theda Clark Hospital

Little Rohnda Gean (that's how the name is spelled) and her parents will receive a shower of gifts from area merchants.

A happy Mrs. Selwitschka, 20, said Rohnda Gean was her second — and last child. Her first was a boy. She said, "That's it. I had my girl and I'm going to stop."

The runner-up was also a girl, born at 10:37 p.m. to Mr. and Mrs Gary Boreen, route 1, box 274 A, Larsen.

Three babies were born on New Year's Eve, not quite late enough to be the first in 1971, but in time to make a $625 exemption on their parents' income tax returns for 1970.

They are: A boy to Mr. and Mrs Vern Jahsman, 1016 Deerfield Ave., Menasha; a boy to Mr. and Mrs Thomas Demeny, 407 N Clark St., Black Creek; and a girl to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Frank, 407 E. Forest Ave., Neenah

Almost a year old is the 1970 first baby, Patrick Paul Solis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guadlupe Solis, 129 Union St., Neenah In 1969 the tiny winner was James G. Lauson III, son of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Lauson Jr., 1130 Honeysuckle Lane, Neenah The 1968 winner was Heidi E. Eckert, daughter of Mr and Mrs John Eckert of Neenah

The first baby and her parents will receive a gift from Linsdau Florist Inc., Menasha; an electric alarm clock from Goodyear Service Store, Neenah; a Tom and Jerry set from Menasha Hardware, a surprise from the First National Bank of Neenah; an alarm clock from Drucks Electric, Menasha; a feeding set from the Golden Griddle Restaurant, Neenah; A crib blanket from Kresge's, Neenah; a pizza for papa from the Village Inn, Menasha, four McDonald's "all Americans"; a baby suit from the Menasha Sweet Shop; Boosies from R & R Yarn Shop, Neenah; a $25 U. S. savings bond from the Twin City News-Record, a coffee maker from Firestone, Neenah; a $10 gift certificate from the Bank of Menasha; six free passes to the Neenah Theatre, a $5 gift certificate from Gunderson Cleaners, Menasha; a $5 certificate from Wanserski's Menasha; flowers from Kraemer Inc., Neenah, and two dozen diapers from Jandrey's, Neenah.

Brittle Trees Cause Fires

Farewell to Tannenbaum

Tannenbaum, tannenbaum, how pretty you were. We even had a song about you. But now, as you become crisp, brown and brittle, we had better take you down before you burn the house down

Although those aren't exactly his words, Robert Ertl, Appleton fire inspector, suggests that persons discard their Christmas trees "as soon as possible after the holiday season."

He warns that people watch for "dried out spots. You can feel it, or see it if the lights discolor the needles. Either take the tree down, or change the locations of the lights We recommend the tree be removed"

Not recommended is destroying them in the fireplace, though Ertl admist the scent is delightful. Dried out trees are "extra snappy, and the sparks will fly," Ertl warns, "even before you can get the screen in front of the fireplace again." The City of Appleton will pick up the trees on its regular garbage collections.

Fire Department records indicate no runs directly attributable to improperly cared for or aged Christmas trees so far this season. They caused no fires last January.

"I think the artificial trees are cutting down the hazards considerably," another inspector, William Deltgen says.

Both of them don't discount the possibility of fire this year yet, however. And fire prevention is their business. They suggest your ounce of care may prevent tragedy.

Police & Fire Beat

KAUKAUNA — Two men working the 3 to 11 p.m. shift at Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co. reported car equipment stolen Wednesday.

Edward Nigl, 1818 N Oneida St., Appleton, reported the theft of two studded snow tires, valued at $60, from his car which was parked in the lower mill parking lot and Terry Miller, 1097 E Lincoln Ave., Little Chute, reported a battery taken from his car which was parked in a lot near the Grignon Home. No value estimate was placed on the battery

Weekend Toll Reaches 204

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's traffic death toll for the New Year's weekend reached 204 today.

Snow ended for the most part after the first big storm of the winter in the northeast, but rural roads remained snow-covered in many areas. Light snow fell in the northern and central Rockies and over the Great Lakes. Highways were clear and dry in most other sections

The traffic death count began 6 p.m., local time Thursday and will end at midnight Sunday

Aircraft Pollution Law Goes Into Effect

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A new state law cracking down on aircraft pollution had just gone into effect, so even though it was New Year's Day Air Pollution Control District officers hustled to the two major airports with cameras, charts and binoculars.

The start was discouraging. The morning smog was so thick they could hardly see the planes, much less the exhaust.

But by day's end the officers had issued 104 citations against 10 airlines Each violation if upheld, carries a $500 fine.

The district said it had sent warning letters to the airlines about jetliner exhaust.

Airline spokesmen said they believed federal antipollution regulations approved Thursday by President Nixon would preempt the new California law

Since 1969 she served as night supervisor at St Mary Hospital, Racine She is survived by a brother, Edward Mullen, Green Bay, and sisters Mrs Joseph Reed, Miss Alice Mullen and Mrs John Dilger, all of Seymour. Funeral services were to be conducted today in Racine

Emphasis on Sugar Pushed Cuba Backward in Past Year

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The precariously balanced Cuban economy took a giant step backward in 1970 as a result of an overwhelming concentration on sugar production.

The Communist island set a sugar production world record of 8½ million tons but suffered disastrous setbacks in other economic sectors.

Fidel Castro's Soviet-backed Socialist experiment salvaged a few bittersweet victories in the process.

The year was marked by startling revelations of economic deficiency and inefficiency made by Castro himself. The bearded premier's admissions of crushing failures in the general development of the country were capped by a surprising statement which implied the possibility of his stepping down from the direction of Socialism in that Caribbean island of almost 9 million people.

He told a nationwide radio-TV audience and several hundred thousand people in Havana's Plaza de la Revolucion in July: "It would be better to tell the people to look for somebody else It would be better, but it would be hypocritical on our part. I believe that we, the leaders of this revolution, have cost the people too much in our process of learning ... The people can replace us whenever they wish—right now if you so desire."

His matter-of-fact statement was followed by shouts of "no, no" and "Fidel, Fidel," and the prime minister has not mentioned it since.

Gloomy Picture

Castro and his top economic expert, Carlos Rafael Rodriguez, have outlined a somewhat gloomy picture of the economy during the year.

Objective observers outside Cuba have confirmed these shortcomings and added some of their own to the list.

The one bright spot, ironically viewed as a resounding failure even by Castro and his lieutenants, was the record sugar crop produced by hundreds of thousands of workers in the fields and mills

The total is a world record not likely to be broken for many years

Castro had staked the prestige of his revolution on achieving a 10-million-ton figure by 1970, and he failed despite the massive mobilization of the Cuban population.

Sugar is the barometer of the Cuban economy and exports constitute 80 per cent of the country's foreign exchange earnings

As it turned out, the failure to reach the 10-million mark was the least of Castro's problems More important was the depressing effect the overwhelming concentration on sugar production had on other sectors of the economy—not only in the country's light industry field but in other agricultural production as well.

Production Drops

The production of meat, milk, bread, beans, tobacco and beer declined.

There were slowdowns or interruptions in deliveries of steel, fertilizers, electric power, shoes and clothing, according to Cuba's own experts Optimum quotas for other consumer products and raw materials for industry were not met

By contrast, the rice quota was raised to six pounds per person per month and fish and eggs became a bit more plentiful.

Cuba added to its merchant marine and fishing fleets and Castro boasted that foreign trade was up over 1969 despite critical loading and unloading problems in the country's ports and delays in acquiring the necessary ships both for imports and exports. Figures were unavailable.

Nickel production also increased, according to all reports. It reportedly brought in a good share of hard currency in 1970. Castro estimated foreign sales of 217.8 million pesos for the year. The peso is rated officially on a par with the dollar although its purchasing power is much less.

Consumer rationing—a fact of life for eight years—remained in effect on most food items, clothing, shoes, soap, toothpaste and even toilet paper. A drop in tobacco production added cigarettes and cigars to the list of items Cubans get only with ration books.

Poor Transportation

Some of the country's basic problems contributing to a depressing effect on the overall economy and Castro's long-range development plans are an antiquated transportation system, almost a total absence of natural power sources, a critical housing shortage and inefficiency and absenteeism of workers in the slowly evolving industrial field.

These remained largely unresolved.

By government estimate, Cuba has to import more than five million tons of petroleum a year from the Soviet Union. Imports are the only means of keeping virtually every light-bulb burning and each and every machine operating.

The country has no coal and little hydro-electric energy, although several small power plants have been built and others are under construction

Blackouts have become a harsh fact of life in Havana and other large cities as a result of a systematic effort to conserve electricity, and therefore oil. Electric power is turned off in large areas of the Cuban capital on a regularly scheduled basis throughout the day.

Castro was the first to admit that "the heroic effort to raise production of sugar to increase our purchasing power resulted in imbalances of the economy, in diminished production in other sectors and, in short, in an increase in our difficulties . . ."

Absenteeism Problem

Absenteeism turned out to be a major problem for the Communist regime during the year

Castro himself revealed in September that 400,000 offending workers were creating "a corrosive demoralizing and disorganizing action which cannot be tolerated, either by this country or any other."

After several warnings by government officials, labor leaders took steps to cut down the high rate of malingering and announced that stiff penalties would be imposed.

A new program to "democratize" labor unions, collectives and work centers was begun in efforts to make the rank and file more aware of their responsibilities to the productive effort and to their leaders.

Castro called for the "absolutely free elections" of labor leaders

"If a leader moves away from the spirit of the revolution, the masses can sweep him aside in an instant," Castro told a workers' conference. "We will see to it that any official can be removed overnight. If the labor movement is not democratic, it is no good."

So far, these plans have not been put into practice.

More From Fewer

Castro says he wants more and better work out of fewer people He wants to instill in the worker a sense of "honor" in work instead of a sense of desperation causing the worker to labor 16 hours a day, spurred on by hunger and the threat of imprisonment. Observers say this explains the crackdown on absenteeism among the Cuban labor force.

Although acknowledging the futility of massive mobilization for sugar cane cutting year after year, Castro continues to insist on the value of sugar to the economy and Cuba's general well-being

A strong possibility for the coming year is a request for increased Soviet aid for mechanized cane cutting and to replace outmoded milling machinery.

Cuba succeeded during the year in firming up relations with its old trading partners—Spain, France, Britain, Sweden, Canada, outside the Communist bloc—and opening up new markets and suppliers.

The election of a Marxist-Socialist as president of Chile—his old friend Salvador Allende—was a distinct gain for Castro, economically as well as politically.

As the year drew to a close, Chilean and Cuban negotiators were working up a trade agreement which was expected to result in a trade volume of $50 million a year at the outset.

Although the amount is relatively modest, both Cuba and Chile view it as highly significant—Cuba because it can acquire some of what it needs closer to home and Chile because it has big plans for increased production and export of agricultural products.

Castro viewed the coming year with rising hopes for re-establishing diplomatic and economic relations with other Latin American nations

Steiger to Speak To Local GOP

NEENAH — Sixth District Cong William A Steiger, R-Oshkosh, will be the guest speaker at the January meeting of the Neenah-Menasha Republican Party Wednesday evening.

Steiger will just be returning from Washington, where legislators are busy wrapping up the last regular session of the 91st Congress. Steiger will probably answer questions about the session

The meeting at the Black Angus in Neenah will also include election of officers and planning of programs for 1971.

A social hour will run from 7:15 to 8 p.m. when the meeting will begin

Just 1 Room Damaged In Neenah Home Fire

NEENAH — Major damage was done to the wall and ceiling of a second-floor bedroom and adjacent storage room Friday afternoon by a fire in the Thomas Volkman home, 809 Harrison St., Neenah

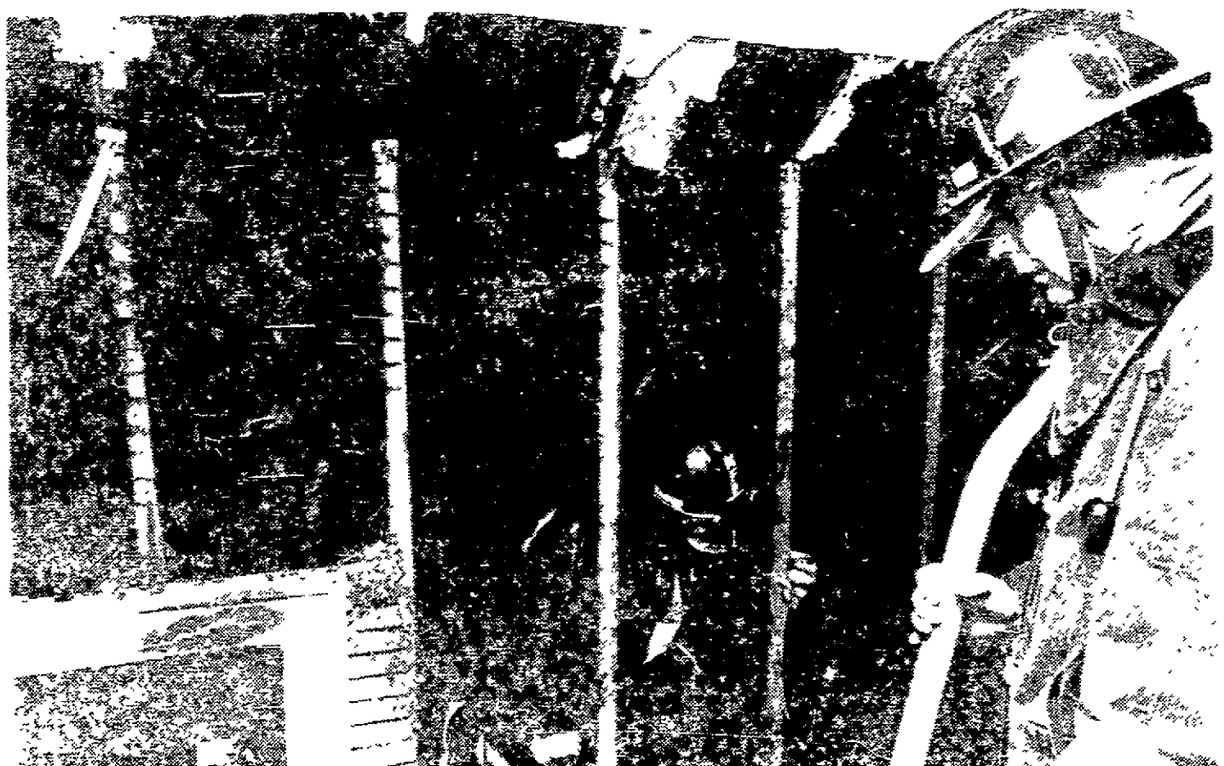

The Neenah fire department said damage was confined to the one room, but had no estimate of the cost The cause was undetermined but is being investigated.

Loaded Gun Missing From Vinland Home

OSHKOSH — S R Francen, owner of a tavern at state 45 and county trunk G, Town of Vinland, reported to Winnebago County police that a 22 caliber automatic was missing from living quarters attached to the tavern at 9 a.m., Friday. He said the Belgian Browning, nine-shot weapon was last seen Thursday when it was kept under a mattress It was fully loaded, he said

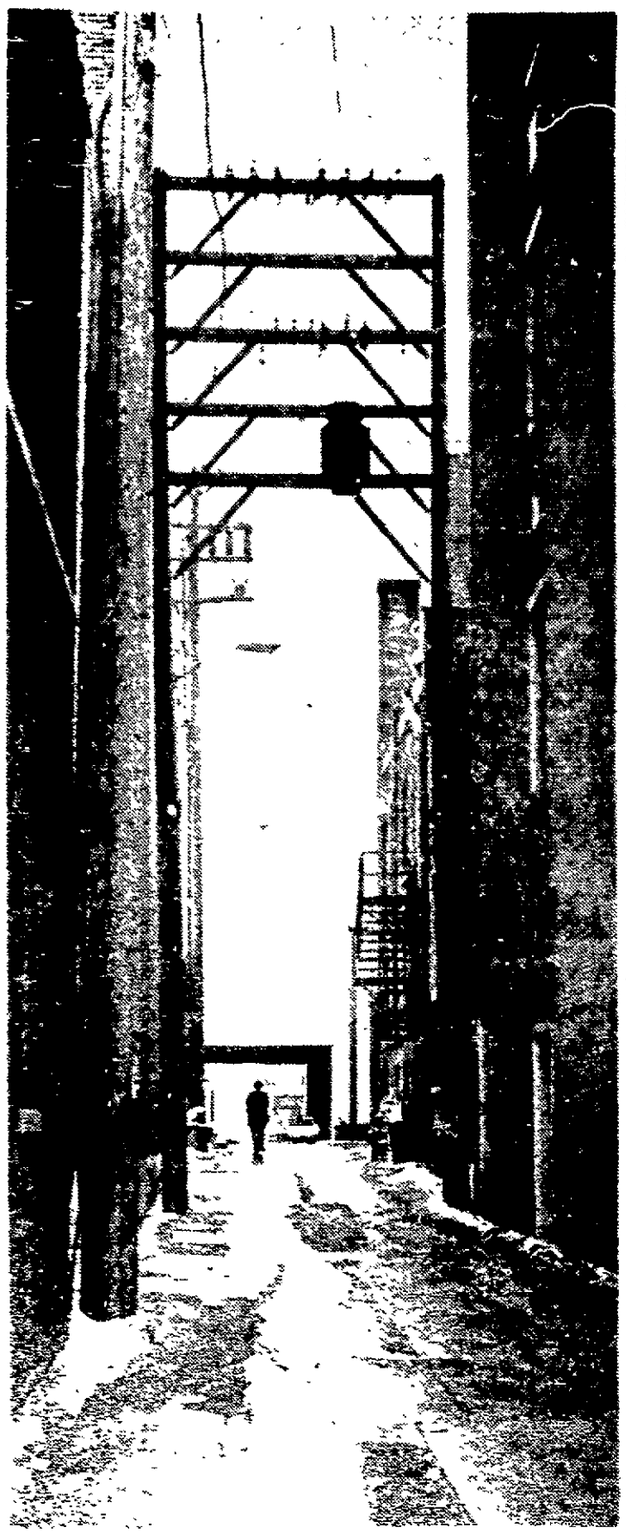

It May Not make an inspiring picture, but this lone thistle bush sitting in a desolate field somewhere in Neenah-Menasha can at least remind us that it can be cold and lonely for a lot of things in the world even during the happy holiday season. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Pipeline Repair Crews Shatter Quietness of Marsh

JACKSON (AP)— The quiet, soft beauty of the white-blanketed Jackson Marsh Wildlife Area is shattered by the roar of heavy equipment and blotched by the dark scars of muck torn up by the vehicles and strewn on the snow.

The stench of fuel oil hangs over the area.

Workers have been trying this week to locate a rupture in a pipeline buried in the water and muck. The pipe broke Monday and spewed a foul billow of oil into the marsh before the flow could be stopped.

Workers were skimming the lightweight fuel oil Friday from the creek that winds through the marsh.

Repair crews labored to get backloaders through the sticky mire to reach the spot where the broken pipe lies beneath the ice and snow.

"The break is in the worst possible location," said Carl Meyerdirk, a spokesman for the West Shore Pipeline Co., Chicago. "It is six feet down in water, which is under ice, which is under snow."

"There isn't much ice in the marsh," said Delbert Cook, chairman of the Cedar Creek Restoration Council. "Theres a good chance that there could be a lot of moving around of the oil in there. I'm hopeful that it can be contained, but with high enough temperatures, it might break loose into Cedar Creek proper."

The oil that leaked is a light home fuel oil, a spokesman for the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources said.

Both he and Cook said the firm was doing a good job of cleaning up and containing the oil.

High Pressure

The pipeline is a common carrier of oil products jointly owned by 10 oil firms and managed by American Oil Co. It runs between Hammond, Ind., and Green Bay.

The rupture in the pipe—which carries the oil under high pressure—was discovered by the employees at the firm's Granville oil terminal.

In the few minutes before the pressure was cut, enough oil spewed out to create a slick on the marsh. A heavy covering of snow on the river ice prevents an accurate estimate of the exact amount.

Cedar Creek—which runs through the 2,000-acre marsh—was dammed with bales of straw to hem in the oil.

Area Dammed

Crews worked all night Monday digging to an inspection point in the pipeline. Nitrogen was pumped into it and when the bubbles rose from the break Tuesday, its location was pinpointed.

The area around the break, Meyerdirk said, will have to be dammed and pumped free of water before a repair crew can begin work. He estimated it will take a couple of weeks.

Most of Friday's efforts were aimed at getting equipment through the marsh to the break. Only some of the turf is solid enough for heavy equipment. Ice thickness is unpredictable.

Getting around in the marsh boils down to a guessing game—with a wrong guess resulting in a soaking or stuck vehicle.

Schreiter Announces

John R. Schreiter

A 15-year-veteran of the Outagamie County Board today entered the contest for county executive.

John R. Schreiter, 49, became the fourth candidate for the newly created post to be filled by election in April. Annoucing their intentions earlier were Appleton Mayor George Buckley, County Administrator Alvin Woehler and Kimberly Public Works Director Patrick Flanagan. More candidates are expected to announce next week.

Schreiter, a licensed heating contractor, was born in Appleton and has spent most of his life here.

Air Force Veteran

He has been in business here for 16 years and has served seven terms on the county board. Presently a member of the influential executive committee, Schreiter, during his board tenure, also has been on the purchasing and general accounts committee and the civil service and salary committee and was chairman of the courts, justice and enforcement committee of which he is now a member.

He earned several commendation medals while serving in the Air Force during the Korean War.

Educated at St. Lawrence preparatory school, Schreiter later completed a course in personnel management through the University of Wisconsin Extension.

He is a member of the Appleton Breakfast Optimist Club. Schreiter, his wife and five children life at 821 S. Pierce Ave.

Schreiter, in a prepared text, stated: "I am firmly convinced that this level of government has an unlimited potential to resolve the problems of our local communities. During the campaign, we will address ourselves to these problems and what we believe to be their solution.

"First of all, let me say that I do not agree with previously announced candidates that a qualification for the office should be a thorough knowledge of law, nor do I believe it to be important for a candidate to know the essentials of accounting. I say this because qualified staff in these areas already are provided for. The positions of corporation counsel and finance director comprise the initial staff to assist the executive in fulfilling his prescribed duties, particularly those duties relating to an executive budget.

"The qualifications that I base my candidacy on are my 15 years of legislative experience, a capacity to listen to and to work with people, to render decisions using sound, common sense judgment and most important, an uncompromising belief in the principles of truth and honesty in public office.

"So therefore, if we are to achieve the potential that Outagamie County has we must address ourselves not only to the legislation needed to reach that potential, but first and foremost, we must return to the citizens of this county, confidence and pride in their county government.

"Only when we return dignity to public office and insist that the everyday affairs of county government are open and above board and conducted on a sound, effective and business-like basis, can we return this pride and this confidence in local government.

"On behalf of every citizen of Outagamie County and with their support, I intend to bring to the office of county executive the dignity, the dedication of purpose, the creative leadership that they have a right to expect and demand.

"I intend to mold this new office of county executive into one deserving of your trust and confidence. I intend to use whatever talents God gave me to secure for them what ever is needed to bring about a more efficient, a more effective and a more responsive county government."

Knowles Denies Part In Jack Olson's Defeat

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles denied Friday his comments about the inevitability of a state tax hike gave Democrats the lever needed to pry Republicans out of the executive mansion.

Observers during the fall campaign saw Knowles' remarks as undermining Lt. Gov. Jack Olson's key campaign theme—that he could avoid a tax increase.

"Both candidates were dealing with unrealities in the tax picture," Knowles said, in a Milwaukee television interview.

"I wanted to clear the air once and for all," said Knowles, who is retiring after six years as governor to take the job of board chairman of Inland Financial Corp., Milwaukee.

Used Remarks

"My position was a middle position," said Knowles, adding that he knew the state's financial situation. He said he and Olson both understood the state's "serious" fiscal problems, adding that both candidates seemed to be avoiding "the truth of the situation."

Olson, during the campaign, indicated a tax hike could be avoided by cutting state department budget requests, if the economy grew and if Congress passed a federal revenue sharing program.

On several occasions, Lucey used Knowles' remark to chide Olson's tax statements.

Last month, Olson said Knowles comments "were crucial to the election and regardless of the clarifications, they did affect my credibility as a candidate."

Friday, Knowles said his statement was compatible with Olson's stand. The reason Olson was not elected to succeed him was that the national issues of inflation and unemployment worked against the Republican party, he said.

Asked about any major disappointments during his six years as governor, Knowles said one was "my inability to elect a Republican governor as my successor."

Another disappointment, Knowles said, was his inability to deal effectively with the Republican controlled 1969 legislature. He cited two reasons.

The majority of Republicans were determined to enact their own budget and programs without the assistance of the Democrats.

And Democrats were uncooperative and would not compromise on important matters.

"The Democrats just wanted to sit on the sidelines and not try to find areas of compromise," Knowles said.

He said he has warned Lucey the greatest problem he would have was to be the budget and revenue to balance the budget."

State agencies have requested $2.2 billion for the 1971-73 biennium, an increase of $1 billion from present spending levels.

4 Injured in New Year's City Crashes

Milwaukee Man Taken to Hospital By Ambulance

New Year's holiday traffic accidents in Appleton resulted in injuries to four persons.

Gerald Matschke, 24, Milwaukee, was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by ambulance about 2:15 a.m. Friday after the car he was in, driven by Joanne Heeter, 1306 E. Jardin St., collided with a camper-pickup truck driven by Thomas J. McGowan, 63, 5300 Long Court, Appleton.

The accident occurred at Glendale Avenue and Locust Street. Police said Matschke suffered a head injury.

Cars driven by Thomas M. Brock, 19, 742 W. Prospect ave., and Louis A. Mader, 24, 2128 N. Division St., were involved in an accident on S. Memorial Drive near Riverview Lane about 2:40 a.m. Friday.

Police said Mrs. Mader, a passenger in her husband's car, suffered a cut forehead and a right leg injury. Both cars were northbound when the rear end collision occurred.

Ella Sullivan, 2114 N. Erb St., and Judith Ann Sullivan, 14, same address, complained of neck injuries when the car Mrs. Sullivan was driving was struck in the rear by a Fox River Bus Lines bus on Wisconsin Avenue at Meade Street late Thursday morning.

The Sullivan auto was stopped for an automatic signal when it was rammed by the bus, driven by Russel B. Kain, 27, 520 E. Commericial St.

Shoveling Is Fatal to Man Friday Night

A 65-year-old Appleton man collapsed and died Friday night shortly after he helped a friend shovel snow.

Amos F. Kohl, 901 N. Summit St., suffered a heart attack according to Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps who investigated with Appleton police. Kohl was dead on arrival at St. Elizabeth Hospital about 8:30 p.m. He had no history of heart trouble, Kemps said.

Kohl had helped Mrs. Beatrice Hanson, 1510 Schneider Place, clean snow from her sidewalk. He collapsed as he was getting into his truck parked in the driveway.

Funeral arrangements are being handled through the Wichmann Funeral Home.

Village Police 5-Year Veteran Resigns Force

LITTLE CHUTE — Patrolman George Vander Zanden, a police officer for the past five years, has submitted his resignation from the department effective Monday.

Vander Zanden, in a letter to Police Chief Robert Nechodom, indicated he was leaving the force to go into business for himself.

State Veterans Go to School Under G.I. Bill

Total of 20,450 Were in Training In Wisconsin in 1970

MILWAUKEE — A record 20,450 veterans were in training under the G. I. Bill as of Dec. 1, 1970 in the state of Wisconsin.

Joseph J. Mulone, director of the Veteran Administration Regional Office, states that of this total, 11,213 are enrolled in institutions of higher learning, and 7,237 are attending below college level schools.

The director said that apprenticeships and on-the-job training accounted for the remaining 2,000 veterans.

Servicemen on active duty also are eligible for schooling benefits under certain conditions and there are 310 such cases in Wisconsin.

Veterans who served honorably on active duty for more than 180 days, any part of which occurred after Jan. 31, 1955 are eligible for G. I. Bill benefits, Mulone advises.

While attending school full-time, veterans without dependents are allowed a monthly allowance of $175. With one dependent he receives $205, with two dependents $230, plus $13 per month for each additional dependent.

Veterans attending school less than full-time and those training on the job receive lesser amounts.

Mulone suggested that persons desiring more information should call or visit the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Milwaukee or their nearest County Veterans Service Officer.

Knowles Makes Suggestions

Environmental Views Aired

MADISON (AP)—Suggestions for coping with environmental problems were offered to the head of the federal environmental protection agency by Gov. Warren P. Knowles Thursday.

In a letter to William D. Ruckelshaus, administrator of the new federal agency, Knowles made the following recommendations:

Federal construction grants for municipal sewerage treatment facilities must be maintained at their present level and increased if necessary.

The new federal environmental agency should improve its communications and coordination with the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

Law Enforcement

Federal grants to the DNR to administer water quality and air pollution abatement programs must be increased if the state agency is to play an effective role in environmental law enforcement.

Knowles, who leaves office Monday, told Ruckelshaus his suggestions were the result of personal experience in dealing with various federal environmental agencies during his six years as governor.

Knowles asserted some Wisconsin cities were behind sewerage treatment deadlines because of a lack of federal money promised five years ago under the federal water quality act.

He was also critical of the poor communication between the federal government and the DNR. The DNR still does not have a clear set of administrative rules and regulations, Knowles said, to form pollution abatement deadlines already approved by the federal government.

Knowles said he recognized the necessity of state participation in water quality and air pollution abatement programs, yet the DNR needs a "substantial increase" in federal funds if it is to play its proper role in the state-federal partnership," the chief executive said.

Redevelopment Units Held to 6 Pct. Interest

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin's local redevelopment authorities cannot legally borrow money under guaranteed federal loan contracts if the interest rate exceeds 6 per cent—as it has in the past—Atty. Gen. Robert W. Warren said Thursday.

Counties, Warren said in another opinion, can adopt a county housing code to meet federal requirements for redevelopment grants, subject to certain limitations.

The ruling on interest rates will not affect current programs because the interest rate has fallen, said Charles M. Hill Sr., secretary of Local Affairs and Development.

Congress has passed legislation enabling the U.S. Secretary of Housing and Urban Development to waive the higher interest rate for communities in states with laws barring rates over 6 or more per cent, Hill said.

The authority to waive the higher interest rate expires July 1, 1972, and federal funding could be jeopardized after that date, Hill said.

'Workable Program'

The second opinion involves counties trying to qualify for federal redevelopment grants. To qualify, communities are required to show they have a "workable program" for the community development.

This includes the stipulation that the communities have in effect for six months an approved minimum standards housing code related, but not limited to health, sanitation and occupancy requirements.

They also must show they have an effective enforcement program.

Warren noted that counties' power to enforce housing codes is "normally exercised over only a portion of the county—in unincorporated areas — and that counties do not possess the variety of enforcement options and specific statutory authorizations which are available to most Wisconsin municipalities when dealing with adequate housing."

Reedsville Youth's Death Probed

MANITOWOC (AP) — An autopsy was ordered Friday to determine the cause of death of Jeffrey Csida, 18, of Reedsville, who died Friday several hours after being found in a ditch near Wisconsin 148 near Cato.

The Manitowoc County sheriff's office said the youth had been beaten and the death was being investigated as a homicide.

2 Break-ins Reported To Neenah Police On New Year Holiday

NEENAH — There were two break-ins reported to police over the New Year's holiday.

On the night of Jan. 1, a window was broken in the south door of the vocational school, 410 S. Commercial St., to get into the building. Inside, the window on an office door was broken. Nothing was reported missing.

On New Year's Eve, $30 in cash, a stereo and over $100 of records were taken from the apartment of Charlene Moderson, 124 E. North Water St. A hole was broken in a window and it was pryed open to gain entry.

No One Seriously Hurt

6 Persons Injured in 6 Outagamie Accidents on New Year's Day

Six persons were injured, none believed seriously, in six New Year's Day traffic accidents on Outagamie County roads.

William C. Baliza, 38, 1012 W. Commercial St., Appleton, was hospitalized for treatment of head and face cuts after his car ran off the end of Outagamie County Trunk CA at Two Mile Road, three miles north of Appleton, at 2:30 a.m. Friday. Police estimated damage to his car at $1,800.

A one-car accident on State 96, ½ mile northeast of Kaukauna at 3:50 a.m. Friday sent David J. Beard, 18, route 1, West De Pere, to Kaukauna Community Hospital with unspecified injuries. He was released after treatment.

Police said Beard was northbound when his car went out of control and struck a telephone pole. Damage was estimated at $200.

About 6:45 p.m. Friday, Karen Steinke, 114 Austin Ave., Neenah, suffered a bump on the head and a right arm injury when the car she was in, driven by Joan C. Thibodeau, 137 Jackson St., Neenah, struck a telephone pole after leaving U.S. 10 in Dale.

Henry J. Pavlichek, 50, West Allis, suffered a left arm injury and his car sustained an estimated $1,600 damage when it collided with a car driven by Calvin A. Larsen, 44, Hortonville, at State 76 and Mayflower Drive, 3½ miles north of Appleton, about 9:15 a.m. Friday.

Taken to Hospital

Police said Larsen was northbound on Mayflower and failed to yield the right of way to Pavlichek who was traveling northwest on State 76.

Jerry Zadduck, 17, 24 Mill St., Clintonville, was taken to Clintonville Community Hospital Friday afternoon for treatment of head injuries he suffered when his car went into a ditch along County Trunk M, seven miles north of Shiocton. He told police he lost control of his car when he attempted to miss a deer.

A 25-year-old Appleton man was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital with face injuries and possible exposure resulting from a one-car accident about 5:50 a.m. Friday on U.S. 41, four miles northeast of Kaukauna.

Edward A. Lau, 1216 S. Jefferson St., told police he fell asleep while westbound on 41. His car reportedly went into a ditch and hit a culvert. Police said considerable time may have passed before a motorist found Lau alongside the road.

Irish Stun Texas; Indians Upset OSU

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — For 32 games, the last 30 of them victories, Texas had lived by its fearsome Wishbone offense. Friday, the top-ranked Longhorns died 24-11 in the Cotton Bowl at the hands of Notre Dame and a new-fangled Wishbone defense.

The studding setback undoubtedly cost Texas a second straight national championship, even though second-ranked Ohio State lost to Stanford 27-17 in the Rose Bowl, because No. 3 Nebraska downed Louisiana State 17-12 in the Orange Bowl and fourth-rated Tennessee trounced Air Force 34-13 in the Sugar Bowl.

The final Associated Press poll will be released next week.

The sixth-ranked Fighting Irish of Notre Dame, bent on revenge for a 21-17 Cotton Bowl defeat by Texas a year ago and coming off a loss in the regular season finale that crushed their own national championship dreams, shocked Texas in the first half with their newly concocted Mirrored Wishbone defense.

Same Line Up

The Longhorns must have been embarrassed no end at seeing Notre Dame line up behind its defensive line exactly the way Texas did behind its offensive line. It was like looking in a mirror and there was nothing they could do about it.

In the Wishbone offense, the three deep backs form almost a straight T-formation, but the middle man — the fullback — is set a couple of feet in front of the halfbacks, resembling a Y.

When that happened Notre Dame linebacker Jim Wright assumed a position directly opposite the fullback — the two lines separating them — with linebacker Tim Kelly and defensive back Mike Crotty several feet behind him on either side opposite the Texas halfbacks.

After a fruitless first period which saw them trailing 14-3, the Longhorns, the nation's top rushing team but only 102nd among 118 major college football teams in passing, did what Notre Dame wanted. They broke up their Wishbone and went to more of a passing attack by flanking halback Jim Bertelsen. Notre Dame simply moved Crotty out to cover him.

Mirrored Wishbone

The Mirrored Wishbone was the reason Coach Ara Parseghian closed all practice sessions this week. And just in case any spies managed to sneak a look, Notre Dame scrimmaged with 13 men on defense to camouflage their true alignment.

After quarterback Eddie Phillips rocked them with a 63-yard gallop to the Notre Dame 10 on Texas' first play, the Irish stiffened. They limited Texas to a field goal and a mere 3-0 lead at that point and held the Longhorns to 216 yards on the ground, compared to their 374.5 average.

Notre Dame also scored the most points against Texas in two years and they all came in the first half.

Just as they unveiled the Mirrored Wishbone at the start, in the scoreless second half the Irish returned to their normal defense — a 4-4 or split-6, with two linebackers moving up to form a six-man forward wall.

"They didn't win by confusion," insisted Darrell Royal of Texas. "They won because of

NBA Weakling Sees Loss Streak Reach 2 Straight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Guess what? The Cleveland Cavaliers lost a game.

Normally, that wouldn't be too unusual, but the weak National Basketball Association expansion club recently put together a two-game winning streak, their only back-to-back victories.

Now they're back in the old groove, losing to the Baltimore Bullets 127-105 Friday night for their second straight setback.

Earl Monroe and Jack Marin scored 22 points apiece as the Bullets racked up 30 points or more in each quarter and handed the tattered Cavaliers their 40th loss in 45 games.

Elsewhere in the NBA, San Diego beat Los Angeles 117-106 and Seattle edged Portland 121-118. There were no American Basketball Association games.

Take Lead

Baltimore took over at the start with a 3-2 lead and was never threatened. The Bullets opened a 65-51 advantage at halftime and built their lead to 27 points in the second half.

Bobby Smith and John Johnson led Cleveland with 18 and 16 points respecuvely, and rookie Dave Sorenson added 14.

Elvin Hayes pumped in 40 points to lead the Rockets to their first triumph over the Lakers in 13 games. Jerry West of Los Angeles led all scorers with 41 points.

Seattle saw its 10-point lead at the start of the fourth period wiped out by a Portland surge before Lee Winfield's free throw with five seconds remaining locked up the Sonics' victory. Player-Coach Lenny Wilkens' 24 points and 23 by Pete Cross paced Seattle while Geoff Petrie of the Trail Blazers took scoring honors with 40 points.

Toledo Owns Longest College Winning Streak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toledo became the major college football team with the longest consecutive victory string Friday after Notre Dame snapped Texas' skein of 30 triumphs in the Cotton Bowl.

Toledo, a 40-12 victor over William & Mary in last Monday's Tangerine Bowl, has won 23 straight, including 12 this year.

The all-time record for most consecutive victories is 47 by Oklahoma from 1953-57.

Plunkett Rallies Stanford to Edge Buckeyes, 27-17

By DAN BERGER
Associated Press Sports Writer

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — John Sande smiled and spoke with such softness you'd never have guessed he had just dismantled an All-American in the Rose Bowl.

"I guess it was the best game I've ever played," said Stanford's senior center. "Well, after all I concentrated on him and prepared just for him for weeks. We all did a great job."

The "him" was Jim Stillwagon the cat-quick 6-foot 225-pounder who plays middle guard for Ohio State and terrorizes rival quarterbacks.

"We figured if we could give Jim Plunkett time to pass we could beat them" said the muscular 6-foot, 225-pound Sande.

As it was, Stanford's Heisman Trophy - winning quarterback was protected well as he completed 20 of 30 psses for 265 yards and was dumped for losses only twice as the Indians whipped the favored Buckeyes 27-17 on New Year's Day.

most of the attention in the

Plunkett, who commanded most of the attention in the dressing room after the game, commented first. "John Sande did a great job on Stillwagon."

The star Buckeye lineman made only one unassisted tackle and helped on a half - dozen others.

"I studied films of Stillwagon," Sande said. "He's quick fast, strong and I couldn't find a single weakness in his play. We didn't use many trap blocks or ankle blocks because he can recover so quickly.

Watch Moves

"What we tried to do was watch which way he wanted to go, then try to move him out of the way. I tried to match his quickness and I got a lot of help."

Stanford coach, John Ralston praised Sande's job, terming it one of the keys to victory, and adding, "He was tickled to death to be able to block Stillwagon one-on-one and he did a great job."

Stanford won the game through the air, but first took a quick 10-0 lead by running the ball. The first touchdown followed shortly after a 42-yard run on a reverse by wide receiver Eric Cross.

A four-yard smash by Jackie Brown brought the touchdown. Six minutes later, Steve Horowitz booted a 37-yard field goal.

Caps Drive

The first capped a 65-yard drive, including a 37-yard scamper by end Bruce Jankowski on an end-around play.

The second advance featured Kern's expert handling of the option rollout. He contributed

Broken Play Was Exciting Says Ralston

Indian Coach Cites Linebackers, Team Effort on Defense

By DAN BERBER
Associated Press Sports Writer

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A revamped offense and a more aggressive second-half defense sparked Stanford to its upset 27-17 victory over Ohio State in the Rose Bowl football game, but one play seemed to excite winning coach John Ralston the most.

It was a third down, 15-yards-to-go, pass on a broken play from quarterback Jim Plunkett to tight end Bob Moore that carried 35 yards to the Ohio State two and gave the Indians needed momentum.

They scored three plays later from the one and controlled the game the rest of the way in the fourth quarter.

"Isn't that Plunkett some sort of quarterback?" asked Ralston, who has been the Stanford head man for all of Plunkett's 32 games there.

"My heavenly days, what are we going to do without him?"

Ralston said many of his New Year's Day plays were put in for Ohio State, including the first play from scrimmage.

On that one, Plunkett rolled to his left and handed off to wide receiver Eric Cross on a reverse that went 41 yards to the Ohio State 18.

"We changed our offense for this game," said Ralston. "We wanted to keep them off-balance with play action passes and screens. But in the second half, our receivers came to me and said, 'we think we can beat them with individual routes,' so we changed a little in the second half."

On his more aggressive defense for the final two quarters, Ralston said "They run real well up the middle and run the option very well, too, so in the first half we were trying to contain them and we were laying back a little bit.

"I guess we weren't sure about our responsibilities on the option and we were guessing.

"In the second half, we decided to go after them. If we missed them, somebody would have to take up the slack.

Ralston said the linemen took the punishment and the linebackers made the tackles. He praised the play of linebackers Jeff Siemon, Dennis Moore and Ron Kadziel.

19 Tackles

The trio combined for 19 tackles and assisted on 10 more.

Plunkett said the pass to Moore, setting up the go-ahead score with Stanford trailing 17-13, came on a broken play.

"We were lined up strong to the left and Randy Vataha was the No. 1 target. But they put on a good rush and I had to scramble. So Moore, who had

Baltimore Will Meet Japanese

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles have accepted an invitation to make a month long exhibition tour of Japan next fall.

Plans call for the 1970 world series champions to play 18 games against Japanese teams of the Central and Pacific leagues, starting in Tokyo on Oct. 23 against the Tokyo Giants, winners of the Japanese baseball title for the past six seasons.

The Giants are owned by the Yomiuri Shimbun, the largest newspaper in Japan, whose president Mitsuo Mutai issued the invitation to the Orioles.

Jerold C. Hoffberger, the Orioles' chairman of the board, accepted the invitation with the consent of Bowie Kuhn, the commissioner of baseball.

Sixty members of the Orioles' organization, including the wives of players and front office executives, will make the trip. All expenses will be defrayed by the Yomiuri Shimbun.

Tagge Paces Huskers to Orange Bowl Crown

By ED SHEARER
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI (AP) — "I trust that The Associated Press poll you astute writers handle has more authority than the one we coaches have," shouted a jubilant Bob Devaney as he claimed college football's national championship for 1970 after his Nebraska Cornhuskers dumped Louisiana State 17-12 in the Orange Bowl game.

Devaney, shedding a maroon blazer which was drenched after his poll-conscious players tossed him into a shower, left no doubt that he believed his unbeaten team should be No. 1 in the final AP poll next week.

"There's no doubt about it," said Devaney, "those two games certainly gave our team a little more motivation tonight, but I must say this bunch motivated themselves pretty well all year.

"This is definitely the biggest victory of my career," he said.

Ranked Third

It didn't come easy.

The Cornhuskers, ranked third rushed out of the gate to take a 10-0 lead in the opening period on a 26-yard field goal by Paul Rogers and a three-yard run by Joe Orduna. Each followed a fumble recovery.

But the fifth-ranked Southeastern Conference champions kept fighting back, trimming the lead to 10-6 on a pair of field goals by Mark Lumpkin.

With two minutes left in the third quarter, LSU drove 75 yards, helped by a 19-yard pass interference penalty, to score on the period's final play—a 31-yard pass from Buddy Lee to Al Coffee.

Tagge, voted the game's outstanding back, got his staggering club to regroup and promptly drove them 67 yards to the winning touchdown.

The Husker quarterback scored it from the one with 6:10 elapsed in the final period when, as he was belted at the one, he stretched his arms, pushing the ball into the end zone.

The arm-stretching act on the third down play was quick thinking by Tagge, who later said, "I thought I made a lot of mental mistakes. Yes, those broken plays were my fault. I just went the wrong way on some new plays we put in for this game."

Defense Deadly

However, it was the Nebraska defense that proved most deadly for LSU as the Huskers dumped Tiger backs for losses 14 times totaling 115 yards.

Sophomore Willie Harper, a 205-pound end, was the heart of the defense. He blocked one pass at the line of scrimmage, forced LSU's Wayne Dickinson into a four-yard punt late in the game, stole the ball from the Tiger quarterback in the fourth quarter and made four tackles for 46 yards in losses. He was voted the game's outstanding lineman.

LSU's hopes for a last minute miracle died when linebacker Bob Terrio intercepted Bert Jones' pass with 45 seconds remaining.

The only battle remaining for the Huskers is that in the final poll. The race for No. 1 appears to be between the Huskers, Notre Dame and fourth-ranked Tennessee, which whipped Air Force in the Sugar Bowl.

The turn of events in the Cotton and Rose bowls brought back bitter memories for Devaney. Exactly five years ago No. 1 Michigan State lost in the Rose and No. 2 Arkansas lost to LSU in the Cotton.

Nebraska, ranked third, took on No. 4 Alabama in the Orange Bowl that night and the Crimson Tide soared to a 39-28 victory that earned them the No. 1 spot in the AP's first poll following bowl games.

"I told my players before the game that I knew they weren't going to do that," said Devaney.

"We weren't going to muff it again," he said.

Alabama, Oklahoma Play to 24-24 Tie In Bluebonnet Bowl

HOUSTON (AP) — Alabama, coming into the 12th annual Bluebonnet Bowl with a 6-5 record, may have felt their 24-24 tie with Oklahoma Thursday night was a moral victory.

But then, Tide Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant has been quoted in the past as saying a moral victory is "like kissing your sister."

"We'll be a lot stronger next year," Oklahoma linebacker Gary Baccus said after the game. "In the long run, this game will help next fall. We're a very young team and we're come this far already. We feel we have no way to go but up even higher."

The entire OU offensive backfield will be back next season. They have speed to burn in Joe Wylie and Gregg Pruitt, and in Leon Crosswhite they have power running up the middle.

Hunter handed the ball to Musso, who started running as if to sweep right end. Hunter drifted to the left and took the pass from Musso just beyond the line of scrimmage and sprinted into the end zone.

With just over a minute remaining, the Sooners tied it 24-all on Bruce Deer's 42-yard field goal.

Alabama then moved to the 17 in three plays but missed a 32-yeard field goal attempt with one second remaining.

"I feel like I cost them the game," Bryant said. "I tried to play it safe and it turned out to be the wrong thing to do."

With 24 seconds remaining, Bryant ordered his team to let the clock run until five seconds showed, then call a time out and go for the three-pointer. The kick was wide.

"We had time to score," Bryant said. "I should have let them try it. It was my decision, not the boys."

Oklahoma jumped to a 21-7 lead on TD runs of 58 and 25 yards by Pruitt and a two-yard dive by Wylie.

Alabama scored its other points on a four-yard pass from Hunter to Randy Moore, a five-yarder to David Bailey and a 20-yard field goal by Richard Ciemny.

gone down to the 20, cut toward the right flag and I threw it high.

"He's tall and I knew he could go up and get it."

The 6-foot-3 Moore said:

"When I saw Jim running to his right, I knew it was a broken play and my instructions then are to go to the right corner. When I saw the ball coming, all I could think of was that it was a touchdown."

"I didn't care who was covering me."

Ralston praised Ohio State quarterback Rex Kern.

"He's a tremendous quarterback and I can readily understand why he was the top player here two years ago," he said.

Kern was named the outstanding Rose Bowl player in the 1969 game, a 27-16 victory over Southern California.

Plunkett, who won the honor this time, said at least half his plays were called at the line of scrimmage because of changes in the Buckeye defense.

Dee Breuer Hits 574 in Couples Loop

Dee Breuer belted games of 211 and 215 for a 574 series to lead the Comic Couples League at the 41 Bowl in recent action.

For the men, Clarence Brasch was high with a 592 set.

In the St. Paul Couples League, a newly organized circuit which competes at the Thunderbowl, Lo Berg recorded a 530 series.

Devaney: We're No. 1

By BEN FUNK
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI (AP) — "Hell, yes, we're No. 1," Coach Bob Devaney shouted Friday night after his Nebraska Cornhuskers snatched a hair-raising 17-12 victory over LSU and staked a claim to the national football championship.

"We're the only undefeated team. I can't see how the Pope himself could vote for Notre Dame." Devaney declared in the wild atmosphere of a jubilant Nebraska dressing room.

Cries of "We're No. 1" rang from the Cornhusker cheering section throughout the last quarter of a game undecided until Bob Terrio intercepted a pass from a charging LSU team with less than a minute to go.

And when the Huskers, yelling and tumbling each other, ran into the dressing room, the Nebraska band stood outside and delivered lusty serenades.

"It was a dream come true," said quarterback Jerry Tagge.

He referred to the day's earlier defeats of No. 1 Texas by Notre Dame and No. 2 Ohio State by Stanford, smashing upsets that put the national title on the line in the Orange Bowl.

On His Own

Tagge, who scored the game-winning touchdown on a one-yard plunge in the fourth quarter, said Devaney told him to "run anything I wanted" in the drive.

But he said Devaney "told us we didn't necessarily have to throw deep."

"We thought we could beat them deep," Tagge said, "but it didn't work out that way."

"You're damned right we're No. 1," yelled defensive tackle Larry Jacobson. "Nobody would believe us the whole year, but we finally proved it."

Before the game, the longest telegram ever delivered by Western Union came to the team from fans in Huskerland. It contained 46,200 signatures. Unrolled, it was 1,400 feet long.

The message read:

"Congratulations and best wishes to the finest coaching staff and players in America. You are No. 1 with us. We are very proud of you. Go Big Red."

"We ran on them," said fullback Dan Schneiss. "That's something nobody else could do all year."

Nebraska rushed for 132 yards against the nation's No. 1 defense.

The Cornhuskers are scheduled to arrive back in Lincoln about 2 p.m. Sunday for what is expected to be a riotous reception.

Vols Break Jinx, Win 34-13

By JERRY ESTILL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Tennesee won the Sugar Bowl and it couldn't have been any sweeter for Bobby Scott.

"I thought we had to prove we had a good team and that we were capable of winning a bowl game ... that it's not just a jinx," the Vols' quarterback said after the 34-13 New Year's Day triumph over Air Force.

Tennessee had lost three straight bowl games before Friday's resounding victory. The Vols jumped to a 24-0 first-quarter lead, then let the defense do the rest over the stunned Falcons.

"We got the hot hand there early and threw and caught a little bit and put some points on the board," said Coach Bill Battle of fourth-ranked Tennessee.

"Defensively I thought we played pretty well all day and offensively we played well in spots, but we made a lot of mistakes and played poorly at times," he added. "Fortunately, when we played poorly we were usually in their back yard and it didn't hurt us too much."

Battle said Tennessee's "execution went down a little bit" after that explosive first quarter, "but I'm sure the Air Force had a lot to do with that."

Coach Ben Martin of Air Force said Tennesee's pass defenders were the best his Falcons had ever played against.

Excellent Secondary

"Their secondary is an exceptional group of personnel," said Martin. "Their defense wins ball games for them."

The Falcon coach said his own defense "recovered very nicely in the second half, but you can't win a game on defense when you are behind 24-7 at the half.

Air Force had come into the game with one of the nation's most productive offenses and quarterback Bob Parker completed 23 of 46 passes for 239 yards Friday. But the Falcons lost 12 yards rushing, had four passes intercepted and lost four fumbles.

Tennesee, meanwhile, generated 392 yards offensive—306 passing and 88 rushing.

Scott completed 22 of 40 passes for 283 yards and was named the game's outstanding player.

Earlier in the week Battle had said he didn't know whether his team was ready emotionally to play, but that doubt vanished shortly before the kickoff.

"I don't know what the key was, but when we walked out that door I knew we were ready to play," he said "You just get a feeling right before they walk out there ... the enthusiasm ... the look in everybody's eyes ... slapping each other ... jumping up and down."

St. Patrick, Holy Name in Catholic Final

NEENAH — Menasha St. Patrick will meet Kimberly Holy Name for the championship of the Catholic Boy Basketball League's seventh grade tournament at 7:30 p.m. today at the St. Margaret Mary gym.

St. Margaret Mary and Appleton Sacred Heart will clash at 6:30 p.m. for the third place trophy.

St. Patrick defeated Sacred Heart, 47-34, in Thursday's semifinals as Dan Gamsky hit 18 points and Pat Mc Clone added 14. Greg Sexton posted 17 for Sacred Heart.

Holy Name ousted St. Margaret Mary, 41-31, topped by Steve Uelman's 22 points. Bill Galuska netted 10 for the Neenah squad.

their fine football team. They're big and strong and they played better than we did. We hadn't anticipated their defense and it surprised us a little bit. But we fumbled a kickoff at our 14 and gave them an easy touchdown. You can't give the defense credit for that one."

Whatever the reason, All-American fullback Steve Worster was braked with 42 yards on 16 carries and Bertelsen carried eight times for a scant five yards. Only on an 18-play, 84-yard scoring drive in the second period did Texas look like the machine that chewed up 30 consecutive opponents, 10 this season.

The butter-fingered Texans also lost five of their nine fumbles, with Worster bobbling four and losing three, and the miracles Texas fans have come to expect from their enchanted Longhorns never materialized.

Meanwhile, All-American quarterback Joe Theismann sparked the Irish to a 21-3 after only 16½ minutes with a 26-yard touchdown pass to Tom Gatewood and scoring runs of three and 15 yards. The second TD followed Danny Lester's fumble of a kickoff at the Texas 14.

Phillips, Texas' slippery quarterback, was named the outstanding offensive player. He carried 23 times for 164 yards and completed nine of 17 passes for 199 yards before he was knocked groggy and sidelined with nine minutes left. His total of 363 yards broke the record of 279 set by Theismann a year ago.

Stanford Upsets OSU in Rose Bowl

a 32-yard run to the advance.

Stanford cut the margin to a single point early in the second half on a 48-yard field goal by Horowitz, a Rose Bowl record by four yards.

OSU promptly stretched the lead to four points on Fred Schram's 32-yard field goal in this 57th Rose Bowl.

The Buckeyes mounted further momentum late in the third period and drove to Stanford's 19. On the next play, the game's entire complexion reversed.

On a fourth down with inches to go, Stanford linebacker John Kadziel threw Brockington for a one-yard loss and Stanford took over.

No. 1 Target

"Randy was the No. 1 target, but Jim was forced to run," explained Moore. "On that kind of broken play, my instructions are to run to the flag at the end zone.

"When I saw the ball coming, all I could think of was that it was going to be a touchdown."

Moore leaped high for a spectacular catch, falling down at the two. Three plays later Brown went over from the one, and the Indians were ahead.

Defensive back Jack Schultz capped matters by intercepting a Kern pass at the OU 25 Two plays later, Vataha caught a 10-yard touchdown throw from Plunkett.

Kern, despite suffering a charleyhorse late in the game, led all rushers with 129 yards and the Bucks outgained Stanford, 439 yards to 408. The losers held a 22-21 edge in first downs.

But the big difference was Plunkett. In addition to his great passing, he changed at least half of his plays at the line of scrimmage after noting Ohio State's defensive positioning.

Top Ranked Quints Will Face New Foes

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

UCLA and South Carolina bring their smash road hits home tonight and that's news.

Good news for UCLA and South Carolina ... and bad news for Dayton and Clemson.

Top-ranked UCLA, the Steel Bowl tourney winner, hosts Dayton and second-rated South Carolina, the Holiday Festival champ, entertains Clemson in a big night of post-holidty basketball games.

While UCLA and South Carolina are doing the entertaining, it's doubtful that Dayton and Clemson will enjoy their visits. Both the Bruins and Gamecocks are tough at home

UCLA has lost a total of four games overall in five years and Coach Tom Wooden isn't used to losing anywhere—home or away. In 24 years, he's won over 500 games for a 77.4 winning percentage.

Forwards Sidney Wicks and Curtis Rowe are the reasons for UCLA's success of late.

"Sidney is doing it all," says Wooden, "and Rowe has never played a bad basketball game in his three years here."

The Uclans have been averaging a little under 100 points a game this year and have held opponents to about 25 points less.

Along with Adolph Rupp of Kentucky and Wooden, Coach Frank McGuire is the only active major college coach winning more than 70 per cent of his career games. In 20 seasons, McGuire has a 71.1 percentage, including a 25-3 mark last year and 8-0 this season.

McGuire doesn't think about records, though

"They told me the other day I won my 100th game at South Carolina in the Holiday Festival," said McGuire. "I didn't know—because I don't think about milestones, just winning."

Third-ranked Marquette, winner of the Milwaukee Classic, travels to Detroit: fourth-ranked Southern California, the Trojan Invitational winner, hosts No. 18 Louisiana State and No. 5 Western Kentucky plays at East Tennessee.

SEATTLE (AP) — Joseph Gottstein, 79, president of Longacres Race Track, died Friday night.

Gottstein was a founder of the Thoroughbred Racing Association of the United States.

Baltimore Field In Good Condition

BALTIMORE (AP) — "It was better today than it was last week against the (Cincinnati) Bengals," said John Mackey after a New Years Day workout for the Baltimore Colts at Memorial Stadium.

Mackey's sentiments were echoed by virtually the entire team, despite a seven-inch snowfall that began New Years Eve and required the efforts of some 316 workers with assorted machinery to clear the playing field.

The turf had been covered with a tarpaulin as a precaution before the storm, and groundskeepers speculated that the snow acted as an additional insulator to keep it from freezing solid

The Oakland Raiders, who oppose the Colts in Sunday's American Football Conference championship playoff game, arrived late Friday and were scheduled to work out this afternoon at Memorial Stadium.

Mackey reported his injured leg in good condition Friday and demonstrated it to reporters by nearly running over teammate Mike Curtis on a pass play.

Early New Years Day, hardly a snow shovel could be heard on the sidewalks around the stadium, but inside workers had begun the heavy snow removal task at the crack of dawn.

City officials estimated that the nine-hour task cost about $15,000. Gusts of wind had whipped the snow into three-foot drifts in some sections of the playing field.

No further snow was expected before game time.

Ara Gets Revenge, Irish Reach Peak

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Notre Dame Coach Ara Parseghian tossed a whole new bag of tricks at Texas in the Cotton Bowl and the Irish whipped the top-ranked Longhorns 24-11 Friday.

"Basically what we tried to do was to mirror their Wishbone," the gleeful Parseghian said, drying off from a victory splash in the shower. "We wanted to force Texas into a passing situation, to make them come out of their full-house backfield

"After the Arkansas game—Texas' 42-7 victory over Arkansas—I became convinced that it would be impossible to stop the Wishbone with any general defense," Parseghian said. "If we had played an eight-man line today, we would have been beaten."

Since Last Year

Parsheghian said he had been "doodling with it" since the Irish's 21-17 loss to Texas in last year's Cotton Bowl. "I talked to Darrell Royal about their Wishbone during the off-season. We wanted to learn more about it."

By forcing the ground-oriented Longhorns into a passing situation, Parseghian explained, the Horns would be left with three backs in the backfield. Then, Notre Dame merely "mirrored" the UT backfield with three linebackers assigned to a man.

"We wanted to force Texas to pass and this is what they did," Parseghian said. "But that (quarterback Eddie) Phillips almost ruined it for us."

30 Game Streak Broken

The victory climaxed a 10-1 season for the Irish.

"In 21 years of coaching, I've been in some excited dressing rooms," Parseghian said. "But I've never experienced anything like this. You've gotta realize these guys just broke a 30-game winning streak. But that's what streaks are for ... to break."

In addition to the surprise defense, Parseghian also employed a quick-kick on third down that went 74 yards and used defensive back Clarence Ellis as a receiver on offense for one play.

Ellis' pass reception was complete for 37 yards "It was a surprise to me too," said Ellis, who was named outstanding defensive player of the game.

East JVs Win Over Burlington

The Appleton East junior varsity basketball team boosted its record to 6-2 recently with a 44-27 non-conference win over Burlington.

The Junior Patriots, who took a 20-7 halftime lead, were led by Jim Vandenberg, with 10 points. Dan Heinritz added eight.
